Accusations Made in Girl's Affidavit.

Money Pegging

Secretary Morgenthau announces that United States is ready to talk about stabilizing world currencies, provided other nations, particularly Britain, France and Japan, make initial move. Details on page 3.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—[Special.]—An affidavit setting forth sensational new charges against Postmaster General James A. Farley was thrown in the lap of senate administration leaders by Huey Long of Louisiana today when the senate took up Long's resolution to have Farley investigated.

The senate was plunged into a protracted debate, with reminiscences of the Fall and Daugherty investigations of the Harding era, by this surprise gesture of the "Kingfish" and the New Deal "must" program was forgotten.

Long's affidavit, made by Helen Humphreys, a former employé of the James A. Stewart company, New York contractors, accuses Farley of manipulating government contracts and giving valuable stamps to prospective purchasers of materials from the General Builders' Supply corporation, Farley's firm. These stamps were so valuable, Long charged, that a bank lent $40,000 on them.

Charges Salary Increased.

The affidavit alleges that Harry D. Watts, a vice president of the Stewart company, demanded and received a three year contract at twice the salary he was earning on the strength of his asserted influence with Farley.

Senator Josiah W. Bailey [Dem., N. C.] delivered the chief defense of Farley, contending that there was "not a scintilla of evidence, not even the suggestion of a suspicion," in the charges made by Long when the postoffice committee considered his resolution.

Bailey said the senate had no authority to conduct investigations without a legislative purpose and that it would be setting a bad precedent to start the government on "a Kingfishing expedition."

"It would not be setting a precedent," said Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.], "for we have a precedent in the Daugherty case and the Teapot Dome case. The senator says these investigations would destroy faith in the government, but you cannot destroy faith in the government except by soft pedaling and suppressing these charges of corruption and crookedness."

Reviews Previous Charges.

Long reviewed all the charges he had previously made against Farley before he pulled the surprise affidavit out of his pocket today and told a dramatic story of the circumstances under which he received it.

"I was lying in my bed about midnight when the telephone rang," he said. "It was a woman calling me from New York. She said she had some information about Farley that would interest me if I could come to New York. About 2 o'clock I was on my way to New York and I saw that woman the next morning. Her name is Helen Humphreys and she was a confidential agent of the Stewart Brothers, handling all their telephone calls and private business, and she received a salary of $63 a week."

Long then charged that the Stewart company, which buys materials from Farley's supply firm, proposed in June, 1933, to change the specifications on marble for the New York federal building and "swindled the government out of $383,000" by the substitution.

Affidavit Read by Long.

He read from the affidavit as follows:

"At about the time of the election in 1932 the said Harry D. Watts began to make representations to and later demands upon the Messrs. A. M. and James C. Stewart that, on account of contacts he had with James A. Farley, representing that big business was to accrue through government business thereby, and that for the work that he could and would bring that he should have advancement in pay and position with the firm and a contract for not less than three years at a salary of $25,000 per year, with a share in the profits and without sharing in the losses.

"That the said Watts in the course of his demands caused a telegram to be exhibited, either sent through Farley in person or through Farley's

Alleged Withdrawal a New Mystery.

A report of a mysterious withdrawal of $200,000 in one check transaction from the unclaimed tax redemption fund when it was controled by Robert M. Sweitzer as county clerk provoked fresh discussion last night in political circles. It was looked on as accounting for part of a shortage which, according to county building rumors, is shown in the audit of the clerk's office.

Although Mr. Sweitzer, who held the office of county clerk for twenty-four years and is now county treasurer, reiterated his belief yesterday that there was no discrepancy, rumors persisted that a shortage between $250,000 and $400,000 would be disclosed when the report on the audit is made public later this week. If such a shortage should be discovered he would adjust it from his personal funds, Sweitzer has said.

Audit Thus Far a Secret.

The audit, which was made at the request of Michael J. Flynn, Sweitzer's successor as county clerk, was completed last Friday, but so far has been kept secret. It was indicated that the report will not be revealed until Mayor Kelly returns from his vacation. The mayor is expected back tomorrow morning.

A statement that $200,000 had been withdrawn by check from the tax redemption fund was made yesterday by a well informed person. Information as to just how and when the alleged transaction was planned and carried out and into whose pockets the money went was not given.

Could Carry Fund in His Pocket.

Mr. Sweitzer said that he could not recall any such withdrawal. He has declared that he had the right "to carry the fund in his pocket if he wished to do so" while he was county clerk. This fund, estimated by Sweitzer as "somewhere in excess of $100,000" over a period of sixty years [since the last audit] is accumulated from accounts to which tax buyers are entitled but which has not been claimed.

These buyers, Mr. Sweitzer explained, paid back taxes on delinquent properties, but the owners later redeemed the properties and the buyers, through some slip or other, failed to ask for the return of their money.

Mr. Sweitzer has denied rumors that he expected a shortage, had attempted to negotiate a settlement, and had been refused a $100,000 loan from a bank. He denied yesterday that he was planning to resign.

"The only person who could make me quit this office [of county treasurer] is the Grim Reaper," said Mr. Sweitzer.

Loss in Graham Bank.

Mr. Sweitzer admitted, however, that the audit may show a shortage of $19,000 in the redemption fund. He said he would be responsible for that amount.

"I had deposited $38,000 from the fund in the Graham & Sons bank," he explained. "The bank closed in 1917 and half of the money, or $19,000, has already been repaid. Some of the remainder may still be liquidated but if it is not I will make it up personally."

At various times during the last 19 years efforts have been made to get a complete audit of the funds in the county clerk's office, it was learned yesterday. These efforts have always been fought.

Back in 1916, when Mr. Sweitzer was serving his second term as clerk, Attorney Richard T. Cooney filed a petition for a mandamus in the Superior court to compel an accounting on the books.

Recalls Battle of 1916.

"I had been advised that there were names on the pay roll in the clerk's office of people who were not working there," Attorney Cooney said yesterday. "I was refused access to the books and brought suit for mandamus, being granted the writ by Judge Clarence Goodwin.

"Mr. Sweitzer appealed and the Appellate court sustained the writ. But several years had elapsed by then and the writ was useless to me because the books were in a tangle and I could get nothing out of them."

In 1925 a law was enacted which provided that the county treasurer should apply to the courts every seven years for an order directing clerks of the courts to turn over to him unclaimed moneys. This statute was not observed. According to Sweitzer, it does not apply to the redemption fund.

In 1926 the late Mayor Cermak, then president of the county board, asked

Osterberg, Foe of Maloy, Shot 4 Times

Clyde Osterberg, 32 years old, 4532 North Lincoln street, organizer of an independent union of motion picture operators, was shot four times and critically wounded last night by a gunman as he stood with his wife, Naomi, and a bodyguard at 18th and Loomis streets. He was taken to the County hospital where physicians said they did not believe they could save his life.

It was the second time within two weeks that assassins have tried to kill Osterberg, who once was a rebel against the domination of the Chicago Moving Picture Machine Operators' union by its business agent, Thomas E. Maloy. Maloy was shot and killed last Feb. 4 by two gunmen who rode up beside his automobile in the outer drive at 24th street. After his death the affairs of the union were taken over by the officers of the International Movie Operators' union.

Shot by Gunman in Auto.

The shooting of Osterberg last night was done as quickly as the murder of Maloy. A gang of men in an automobile drove up beside the organizer, his wife and George Hall, 10119 Emerald avenue, Osterberg's bodyguard. A man with a revolver leaned out of the car and fired three shots. Two of them struck Osterberg, one in the right elbow and the other in the chest. He had no chance to draw his own pistol.

As Osterberg fell the gunman, according to witnesses, fired two more bullets, into his victim's head. Mrs. Osterberg ran to a doorway for cover. Hall fled. The gunman sat back in in the automobile and it speeded south in Laflin street.

At the hospital Osterberg refused to discuss the shooting with Capt. John Norton of the Maxwell street police. He maintained he did not know the motive for the attack and said he and his wife had been visiting a friend.

Seek Hall for Questioning.

The police sought Hall for questioning. Hall's nephew, Robert Silverberg, 5421 Hirsch street, was taken to the Maxwell street station when he appeared at the scene shortly after the shooting. He said Hall had telephoned him to be there with his car.

Like her husband, Mrs. Osterberg was unwilling to talk. She was dry eyed and calm at the hospital and later at the police station, where she was taken for questioning.

She was with Osterberg on the night of April 30 when two gunmen tried to kill him in front of their home, which then was at 631 Oakdale avenue. When their weapons missed fire the gunmen beat Osterberg, but he finally drove them off with his wife's help.

Tells of Organizing Union.

At that time Osterberg told Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan that he and Hall were organizing the Independent Union of Motion Picture Operators, Inc., local 101.

The police announced that they would question George Brown, president of the operators' union since it was taken away from Maloy's associates, and that they also desired to talk to Joseph Montana, west side hoodlum, suspected of being a slugger for one of the movie men's groups.

Osterberg figured in many of the scenes of violence that marked the career of the Maloy union before Maloy's death. In 1933 Osterberg claimed that Maloy's assistant, Dr. Emmett N. Quinn, then the union steward, had beaten him in the union headquarters at 500 South Wabash avenue during a dispute over wages.

On March 2, 1934, Osterberg shot Quinn in the hand when he encountered Quinn and Maloy on the street. He asserted later that the two had tried to kill him.

CLAIMS CAT KIDNAPED 5 RABBITS TO REPLACE HER OWN DEAD BABIES

The story of a cat which kidnaped five baby rabbits to replace her four dead kittens is being told by La Verne Raymond, Kane county farm youth, and his neighbors vouch for it.

La Verne lives on a farm owned by his uncle, Mark Raymond, near Big Rock in Kane county, just off the Jericho road 11 miles west of Aurora.

"About two weeks ago," La Verne said, "our cat had kittens in our granary. They died and the cat disappeared. A few days later we found her in her nest in the granary nursing five baby rabbits which she had carried there.

"Curious neighbors who flocked in seemed to worry the cat. Today she left, taking the rabbits with her. She has been home since, and is apparently keeping the rabbits in another place until she can be assured of privacy."

MINE FLOODED, 400 CHINESE ARE TRAPPED, DROWN

TSINAN, Shantung, China, May 13.—(AP)—Four hundred Chinese miners and a Japanese foreman were drowned today after a shaft of the Szechwan coal mine 70 miles west of here was suddenly flooded by a subterranean river.

The torrent was released when a rock in a wall of the shaft gave way. The miners in the shaft and galleries were trapped without a chance for escape as the entire workings were flooded within 40 minutes.

The water short circuited the power plant of the mine, putting pumps and the elevator out of commission and forestalling every rescue effort.

LONDON, May 14.—[Tuesday.]—Col. Thomas E. Lawrence, known to all the world as "Lawrence of Arabia," was badly injured in an accident on his motorcycle yesterday and is now in the military hospital at Bovington camp, Dorset.

The hero of a hundred exploits in the Arab revolt during the world war, he was crushed in avoiding a child on a peaceful country road. He must have been traveling at a terrific speed, for he was picked up unconscious almost 100 feet from the wreckage of his machine. The child was not injured.

Relatives Called.

An ambulance rushed Col. Lawrence to a hospital. He was found to have a compound fracture of the skull and hemorrhage of the brain. Telegrams were rushed to his relatives. Hospital attendants would not reveal details of his condition.

Col. Lawrence thought nothing of tearing over long straight roads at 100 miles an hour. He had nerves of steel. The accident occurred in the heart of Thomas Hardy's country. Col. Lawrence often visited the aged novelist.

Served in Air Force.

The author of "Revolt in the Desert," Lawrence sought anonymity by changing his name by deed poll in 1927 to T. E. Shaw. But he did some aviation experimental work for the British government and it was soon known "Aircraftsman Shaw" was "Lawrence of Arabia." Lawrence left the royal air force March 1 and took a tiny cottage near Blandford without telephone or housekeeper.

The tragedy was heightened by the fact that Col. Lawrence was on the verge of coming back into the world after his long self-imposed seclusion. He left active life when the war was over, when his hopes for the Arab people were shattered and he felt his country had been untrue to its pledges. One close friend said Lawrence might have chosen to lead a youth's movement, for his name was magic to the young people of England and he felt youth was being wasted in the post-war world.

Spills Oil from Lighted Lamp and Dies of Burns

John Chapman, 46 years old, 9359 South Western avenue, died yesterday in the Little Company of Mary hospital of burns received Sunday night when he spilled the oil from a lighted kerosene lamp on his clothing. When his garments became ignited Chapman ran ouside the house. Another resident of the building, Robert Whittle, followed him and aided in beating out the flames.

Accept Offer; 30,000 Will Return to Jobs

Toledo, O., May 13.—(AP)—Union workers of the Toledo Chevrolet plant voted 732 to 335 tonight to end their strike.

By accepting a proposal worked out by A. F. of L. leaders, federal labor mediators, company officials, and federal labor committeemen, the workers ended a strike which has indirectly affected 30,000 others in the automobile industry.

The action came a few hours after Francis J. Dillon, A. F. of L. organizer for the automobile industry, had threatened to suspend the local of the United Automobile Workers' Federal union, which had called the strike on April 23.

Calls It Dirty Deal.

Dillon's threat was made after the union meeting had adopted a motion which would have excluded him as a speaker. He left the meeting, but returned after the motion was rescinded.

Disorder followed the official announcement of the result. Many contended the voters had misunderstood the question being voted on.

A few minutes later James Roland, chairman of the strike committee, commented on the results as a "dirty deal," but added:

"Understand, there is no split in the union. We are sticking together."

Production Starts Wednesday.

Production probably will begin Wednesday in the local Chevrolet plant, according to Alfred G. Gulliver, manager.

Gulliver said considerable maintenance work would be necessary before operations could be started.

At midnight he announced that he was sending men into the plant to light the heat treating furnaces, where the gears for transmissions are hardened. It will take a day or so to get the furnaces in condition for action, he said.

Gulliver said there was only one carload of finished transmissions available and that many of the other assembly plants will have to wait for a few days before the plant here can make deliveries.

Shows Dissatisfaction.

Roland rallied a large number of the union members after the poll and openly showed his dissatisfaction over the result.

A meeting of the executive committee of the union was called immediately in the union headquarters. Officers would not say what the purpose of the meeting was, but some members said action may be taken to hold another vote. The question of maintaining the picket lines also was up for discussion, some of the members said.

Flint Workers Adjourn.

Flint, Mich., May 13.—(AP)—Six hundred automobile workers in the Buick Motor Car company plant, meeting here tonight to perfect plans for a strike, adjourned without taking action after waiting several hours hoping to hear the result of the strike settlement vote at the Toledo Chevrolet plant.

A minor disturbance, in which one woman was hit by a chair, marked the adjournment which came about 30 minutes before the announcement of the Toledo referendum result.

Call Strike in Freeport.

Freeport, Ill., May 13.—[Special.]—About 50 molders and machinists employed by the Woodmanse company, manufacturers of farm machinery and windmills, went on strike today for a pay increase of 20 cents an hour, a closed shop, and a 20 per cent increase in piecework rates.

CLASH AT U. OF C. RED QUIZ OVER WALGREEN DATA

Charles R. Walgreen for the first time gave a public explanation yesterday of the "radical influences" which caused him to withdraw his niece from her classes at the University of Chicago. Mr. Walgreen testified before a committee of the Illinois senate which, before the close of a two hour session in the county building, indicated that it might narrow the scope of its mission to an inquiry into radical indoctrination of students in the classroom.

The hearing was enlivened by frequent clashes between Senator James J. Barbour [Rep., Evanston] and Joseph B. Fleming, counsel for Mr. Walgreen, over Mr. Fleming's futile efforts to introduce documentary evidence concerning the activities of professors and students in radical organizations while outside of the classroom. Although a ruling on evidence of this type was deferred, Attorney Laird Bell, a member of the university board of trustees, and Senator Barbour indicated that they would seek to confine the inquiry to classroom propaganda.

The Complaining Witnesses.

Mr. Walgreen, wealthy self-made merchant, head of a nation-wide chain of drug stores, and Sergt. Albert Durand, a grizzled ex-service man, gave testimony concerning alleged radicalism at the university. On the sleeve of Durand's uniform were eight "hash marks," denoting as many enlistments in the United States army, and two wound stripes.

In a prepared statement Mr. Walgreen reiterated his allegation that his niece, Miss Lucille Norton, 18 years old, of Seattle, Wash., was subjected to "insidious doctrins" in the class room. While students who crowded the hearing room gave vent to poorly restrained titters, Mr. Walgreen ventured the suggestion that Prof. Frederick L. Schuman of the department of political science was sympathetic with "free love."

The Faculty's Defenders.

Other witnesses were Harold H. Swift, president of the board of trustees of the university; President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the university; Prof. Charles E. Merriam, head of the department of political science, and Mrs. Edith Foster Flint, Miss Norton's English instructor. With apparent relish they belabored Mr. Walgreen with irony, denied his charges and defended the right of the university to academic freedom.

The questioning of witnesses was conducted for the most part by State Senator Barbour, liberal member of the committee, although Senator Richey V. Graham [Dem., Cicero], is chairman. Other members are Senators John Fribley [Dem., Pana], W. H. Hickman [Dem., Paris], and Charles Baker [Rep., Monroe Center]. Senator Baker is the author of the resolution authorizing the investigation.

Walgreen Tells His Story.

Mr. Walgreen said he placed his niece in the university last fall. Thereafter she resided in his home as a member of his family.

"As a part of her high school course, Lucille studied economics and civics and majored in history," Mr. Walgreen said. "From my contact with her she impressed me as a girl taking an interest in things which usually engage the mind of one of her training and education. She expressed no decided views on social, economic, or governmental questions. After attending the University of Chicago for a time her thoughts, as disclosed by her conversations, centered on communism and its tenets."

Mr. Walgreen declared that the "Communist Manifesto," by Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels, was a required reading in her compulsory freshman course in political science. During her study of this course, he said, Miss Norton remarked that the family was a disappearing institution.

Deems Situation Decidedly Grave.

"Instructors are generally accepted by their pupils as authorities on the subjects which they are teaching, and their statements carry great weight, and correctly so," Mr. Walgreen continued. "Therefore, it becomes a serious matter when a professor upon being asked, 'What do you think of free love?' replies: 'I believe in free love for myself.' This is a tenet of communism.

"For practical purposes it is of little consequence whether the point is made by direction or indirection."

teges, in whose ability and patriotism he had implicit faith.

"I don't know what Schuman said about free love," Prof. Merriam said, "but he is married and has two fine fat babies which I submit as exhibit D."

Prof. Schuman later issued a statement expressly denying that he had ever discussed "free love" in the classroom.

It was reported on the university campus that Miss Norton attended a meeting of the Cosmos club, a student literary organization. The group discussed morals in foreign lands. An undergraduate was said to have called out:

"What about free love?"

Prof. Schuman said he could not recall the incident.

"As a married man with two children," Prof. Schuman asserted last night, "I am obviously not a believer in 'free love.' I have never taught it or discussed it in the classroom. If I have ever mentioned it elsewhere, I did so humorously."

Why Niece Quit University.

Mr. Walgreen described an English course studied by Miss Norton in which quotations from M. Ilin's "New Russia's Primer," a standard textbook in the soviet schools, and from the radical works of Stuart Chase were submitted to students for criticism.

"Two major considerations persuaded me to take my niece out of the university," Mr. Walgreen said. "First, I knew that neither her early training and education nor her contacts outside of the campus could account for the views which were disclosed by our conversations. I could ascribe her views to one cause only, and that was the character of instruction given her.

"Second, I am persuaded that the methods used in the social science and English courses, already referred to, evidence a subtle and insidious design to impress, by indirection, communistic views on the student mind."

Tries to Introduce Documents.

Mr. Walgreen said that he has been deluged with letters offering aid and evidence since the withdrawal of Miss Norton precipitated the present inquiry. He spoke of his reluctance to engage in "an exchange of satire or irony with the young Mr. Hutchins" and offered to present the documentary evidence that has come into his hands.

Mr. Fleming offered a sheaf of documents, purporting to trace the radical activities of Prof. Schuman and other instructors. His offer occasioned a heated dispute with Senator Barbour and showed the temper of the committee.

"I appreciate the fact that you have a number of documents, but you can submit them at some other time," Senator Barbour said. "We have decided to hear each side today and the university is to present its case."

The Debate Becomes Spirited.

"This committee is here to get facts," Mr. Fleming retorted angrily. "I am familiar with the ordinary procedure of similar committees and it would seem that you should now receive these documents. Unless this committee has them it cannot examine witnesses or discover anything about the true activities of these professors."

"We have our own program," Senator Barbour repeated, "and we are going to hear the university."

MR. FLEMING—These papers will show the doctrins of the communist party and the affiliation of professors with that party. If this hearing is to be conducted logically we should present our entire case before the university is heard.

SENATOR BARBOUR—Unless these papers have some direct bearing on the university and classrooms they have no place here. We are not trying to sidestep. We have decided to hear the university and Mr. Walgreen today.

MR. FLEMING—This is illogical—unusual in the light of your experience—

SENATOR BARBOUR—That is neither the practice of a court nor of this commission. I have lost all track of logic in eighteen years in the senate.

MR. FLEMING—That is apparent.

The University's Defense.

Senator Graham gaveled the audience into silence and ordered the hearing to proceed with the reading of statements by Mr. Swift, President Hutchins, Prof. Merriam, and Mrs. Flint. Mr. Swift recited his years of affiliation with the university, told of the scholastic and scientific attainments of the faculty members, and denied the existence of radicalism as an important factor on the campus.

University officials, who had marshaled members of the board of trustees and a large group of students into the hearing room at the beginning of the session, distributed to committee members thirty-one mimeographed pages of the voluminous statements of faculty members. In addition to the defense statements, several volumes of course syllabi, reading lists, departmental reports and other documents were presented and accepted by the committee.

Hutchins Discusses Policies.

"The university would not permit the indoctrination of students or the use of the classroom as a center of propaganda," President Hutchins said after a denial of radical teaching. "On the other hand, the professor is not disfranchised when he takes an academic post. He may join any church, club or party; he may think, live, worship, and vote as he pleases.

"The university cannot, of course, have a professor who commits illegal acts. Under the laws of Illinois it is illegal to advocate the overthrow of the government by violence. The university would therefore dismiss any professor who, before an appropriate tribunal, was proved to have advocated the overthrow of the government by violence."

President Hutchins then introduced Prof. Merriam. The latter leveled his attack largely upon Mr. Walgreen and accepted a personal challenge to defend the department over which he presides and in which Prof. Schuman is an instructor.

The New Russia Primer.

Prof. Merriam referred to his own long services in public life, his unsuccessful candidacy for mayor and his friendship with the late Mayor Anton J. Cermak, father-in-law of Chairman Graham.

Mrs. Flint offered in detail an explanation of the critical exercises in freshman English courses in which the "New Russia Primer" and other radical works were used. Quotations from these books were submitted to English students, she explained, for purposes of criticism as to reasoning, logic, grammar, the use of prejudicial or "loaded" expressions and other literary faults. At no time were they used for the indoctrination of students, Mrs. Flint said. Indeed, she insisted, the use of such matter for literary criticism tended to cast its philosophy into disrepute with students.

Sergeant Speaks for Veterans.

Sergt. Durand of 2025 Roosevelt road, his uniform neatly pressed and bearing a string of medals, produced his evidence "in the name of veterans who fought for America and are still fighting." He showed the committee a copy of the Daily Maroon, student newspaper, advertising a speech by the radical Corliss Lamont under the auspices of the Friends of the Soviet Republic. Senator Barbour glanced through the paper.

Dismissed after submitting other papers and books, Sergt. Durand pushed his way through the students.

"You never had an education," one girl taunted, to which the veteran replied:

Excerpts from Walgreen Statement.

MR. WALGREEN—You are getting to be a communist.

MISS NORTON—I am not the only one—there are a lot more on the campus.

MR. WALGREEN—Do you realize that this means the abolition of the family, the abolition of the church, and especially do you realize it means the overthrow of our government?

MISS NORTON—Yes, I think I do, but doesn't the end ever justify the means?

MR. WALGREEN—Don't you realize this means bloodshed?

MISS NORTON—Yes, but how did we get our independence—wasn't it by revolution?

Absolves the University.

MR. WALGREEN—Well, Lucille, are they really teaching you these things over at the university?

MISS NORTON—No. I don't think they are teaching them to us.

MR. WALGREEN—Are they advocating these things?

MISS NORTON—No, not exactly.

MR. WALGREEN—Well, where do you get all these radical ideas?

MISS NORTON—Well, we have a lot of reading on communism.

MR. WALGREEN—More than on about our own government?

MISS NORTON—O yes, much more. So far we havn't got much of that.

MR. WALGREEN—Well, how about collectivism, fascism, syndicalism, anarchy—did you get all those?

MISS NORTON—Yes, they were explained to us in our classes and we were given much, but mostly reading, largely on communism. Anyway, isn't communism vs. capitalism the issue? At least it is at the university.

The Matter of Morals.

"She [Miss Norton] told me that in a lecture marriage was described as an institution that was not universal, that there were varying standards of morals," Mr. Walgreen continued. "In a class discussion group, at which both sexes were present, moral standards were freely discussed. After the meeting the leader of the discussion group was asked why such subjects were brought up and treated so thoroughly in the class. The leader answered, 'Who shall say that our system is the best?'

"When I asked her what her mother would think of the discussion in the classroom she replied: 'Oh, mother would not understand.' I, who had induced her to leave a very normal home to pursue her education at the University of Chicago became somewhat bewildered. I cautioned her not to take these subjects too seriously and to retain her faith in the standard of morals as taught her by her mother."

Another Educator's View.

At the close of his statement, Mr. Walgreen quoted from a letter sent to him by an official, unnamed, of another university in the state:

"What insidious propaganda against the home and our government is being spread under the guise of an open minded instruction is obvious to a host of distressed onlookers. But the cloak of protection given by an educational institution in the name of freedom of thought and speech renders protest exceedingly difficult.

"Yet this so-called freedom of thought on the part of educators is turned into a skilful molding and warping of the plastic, non-resistive mind of young students. They cannot come out of their classes free to make their own decisions and judgments. The die has been cast for them."

The hearing will be resumed, probably next Monday, Sen. Barbour announced at the close of the meeting. Meanwhile the documentary evidence of Mr. Walgreen will be examined by Russell Whitman, counsel for the committee.

Rainfall in Chicago in 1934 and 1935 Compared With Normal

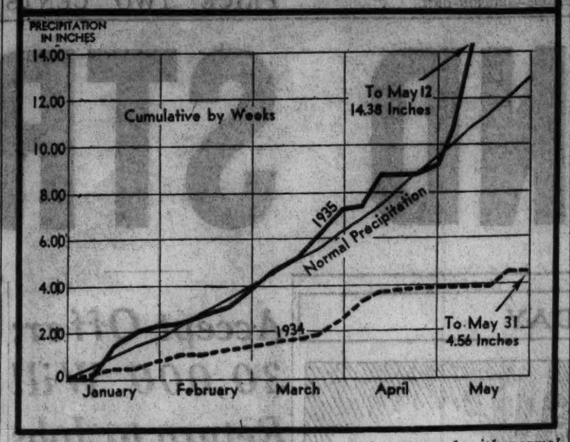

Chart shows rainfall for 1934 and for 1935, compared with normal. The line for 1935 includes precipitation for the year up to 8 p. m. Sunday, but does not include that for Sunday night and Monday morning.

RECORD RAINS FLOOD VALLEYS IN MID-ILLINOIS

With thousands of acres under water yesterday, bottom land farmers in central and eastern Illinois feared for their corn and wheat crops. The Illinois and Wabash rivers rose perilously close to flood stage, swollen by the 48 hour rain, which set new precipitation records for May in Chicago.

Viaducts throughout the city made impassable for automobiles and street cars in the Sunday morning deluge remained under several feet of water late yesterday because of another heavy rain of .63 of an inch. More showers were forecast for today.

The precipitation of 3.36 inches in 48 hours, starting Saturday night, was the greatest ever recorded here for a two day period in any May, according to Meteorologist W. P. Day of the government weather bureau.

One Year Ago: the Drouth.

Added to the heavy rains of the last two weeks the week-end's fall has produced more rain for the first thirteen days of May than in any other year. Since May 1 the total precipitation has been 5.33 inches.

This figure represents an excess for the month of 4.27 inches and for the entire year thus far of 4.05 inches. At this time last year there was a a deficiency of about the same amount, Mr. Day pointed out, and farmers cried for rain to relieve the drouth. The total precipitation since Jan. 1 is 15.01 inches.

Looking over reports from the sixteen states in the corn and wheat belt, most of which have benefited from several days of rain, the forecaster found that Chicago's 48 hour record of 3.36 inches was the highest of any city. Other stations reporting heavy falls were Fairbury, Neb., 2.72; Hutchinson, Kas., 2.92; Wichita, Kas., 2.54; Woodward, Okla., 2.98, and Newkirk, Okla., 2.70.

Minnesota's week-end rains were as heavy as 4¼ inches. They caused two trafic deaths, many minor floods, and considerable crop damage.

Warns of Health Menace.

Flooded basements in the city and suburbs created a health menace as many sewers backed up, unable to cope with the torrents. Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, warned householders to disinfect their flooded basements after the waters subside, and to avoid the use of any food which may have been contaminated by the sewage.

One fatality, due to the heavy rains here, was recorded yesterday when Mrs. Shakar Warder, 60 years old, 1011 North Franklin street, died in the Henrotin hospital of injuries incurred on Saturday night when she ran against the side of a southbound Wells street car at Oak street in the blinding rain.

A Curious Sort of Crisis.

In the basement flat of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hergez at 3009 North Leavitt street the rain created a crisis. Responding to a call for help policemen from the Sheffield avenue station found the floor under 18 inches of water and Mrs. Hergez expecting a baby. They carried Mrs. Hergez out of a window and took her to the County hospital, where the birth of her child was expected early today.

The downstate situation because of high water on the rivers last night was becoming critical. At Norris, river water flooded the tracks of the Burlington railroad. The Illinois river was at the 20.7 foot mark at Peoria, and at 21 feet at Beardstown. Many farmers in the area reported their wheat crops washed out.

Most of the 100 families in the small hamlet of Liverpool on the bank of the Illinois river vacated their homes. At Pekin the Illinois, at a stage of 14 feet 2 inches, forced many from their homes.

The Wabash river was swift and swollen as it neared flood stage at Mount Carmel and Logansport, Ind.

Inflation Bloc Still Is Standing Pat.

Washington, D. C., May 13.—(AP)—In virtual concession of defeat of the Patman bill by the veto route, cash bonus forces went into a huddle tonight to decide on future strategy for getting legislation at this session of congress.

The conference was called by Senator Thomas [Dem., Okla.], Patman bill leader in the senate. The week-end bombardment of oratory and telegrams failed to break down White House and senate barriers against the inflationary bill.

Regard Veto as Final.

Even the strongest supporters of the Patman bill conceded that it faced a certain veto at the White House and that there appeared little hope of overriding the veto in the senate. Administration leaders in the senate count on at least 35 votes to sustain a veto, whereas 33 are necessary.

Thomas invited to tonight's meeting Representative Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.], house author of the bill, other senators, and representatives of the veterans' organizations.

Thomas said he expected to withdraw tomorrow his reconsideration motion that has been holding the Patman bill in the senate, and let it go to the White House. Final decision on that parliamentary move was postponed, however, pending the approval of the conference tonight.

Twin to Vinson Bill.

Republican leaders were urging that if the Patman bill were killed the Vinson cash payment plan advanced by the American Legion should be pushed forward. Inflationary forces, however, were not willing to go along on that proposition.

It was regarded by informed senators as more likely that if the veto should be sustained the new drive would come on a cash payment bill providing a series of alternate methods of financing, under which President Roosevelt could choose between issuing new currency or raising the money from other sources.

Administration leaders, meanwhile, contended that the veto on the Patman bill would end the bonus issue for this session and that no further compromises would be offered.

Telegrams by Thousands.

The chief executive found approximately 43,000 telegrams favoring the Patman bill by a ratio of about 8 to 1 on his desk, but went ahead with preparations to veto the measure immediately it reaches him.

MAGAZINE SPURNS DEMANDS OF LABOR BOARD TO REHIRE 7

New York, May 13.—(AP)—Officials of the American Mercury, ordered by the regional labor board to reinstate two discharged employés and five others who struck in sympathy, announced tonight they "cannot comply."

In a letter to Mrs. Elinore Herrick, regional director, Lawrence E. Spivak, the publisher, wrote "the point at issue in this case, and the only point is whether an employer has the right to discharge an employé for inefficiency.

"The owners of the Mercury insist that they have this right and refuse to be coerced into renouncing it by an illegal strike precipitately called and ruthlessly conducted.

"They feel that the strikers, by so abruptly severing relations with their employers and by their disloyal action since, have forfeited all claims henceforth to be considered as employés.

"The Mercury, convinced that it has violated no law, will continue to protect its independence as a business and as an organ of free speech."

RAIN RESTORES LIFE TO CROPS IN "DUST BOWL"

Kansas City, Mo., May 13.—(AP)—The nation's "dust bowl" became a rain barrel today as welcome drops pattered steadily upon powder dry areas of Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, and Texas.

Music to the ears of residents and life itself to crops and pastures, the downfall ranged from less than an inch in the drier sections to cloudbursts which put streams out of their banks in south central Kansas and Oklahoma.

Few spots in the area racked for months by storms of blowing silt were missed altogether. S. D. Flora, meteorologist at Topeka, said additional showers were in prospect.

Liberal, Kas., heart of the dust area, received moisture totaling .20 of an inch and skies remained cloudy. South of Liberal, in the Oklahoma panhandle, rainfall ranged from .85 of an inch to 3 inches in eastern Beaver county.

Herb Cavett, Beaver county agent, predicted the moisture would "bring back" the cattle industry. He said 24,000 head of cattle had been shipped out of the county since last fall, but now probably would be returned.

To the north and east of the dust bowl rains were much heavier. A cloudburst at Augusta, Kas., put the Walnut river out of its banks and within five inches of the Santa Fe railroad tracks.

The Salt Fork river near Alva, Okla., overflowed after three inches of rainfall. The flood tied up trafic on highway 14. Blackwell and Cherokee had more than three inches of rain.

Garden City, Kas., missed by previous rains which have been sailing steadily at the drouth area, had nearly half an inch of rain before noon—the heaviest fall in months.

Heavier rains, extending into the blue stem pasture region of eastern Kansas and Oklahoma, bolstered supplies of stock water and gave grass additional reserve moisture.

NEW DEAL READY TO TALK WORLD MONEY PEGGING

Morgenthau Sends Out "Feeler" to Nations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—[Special.]—Stabilization of the American dollar at approximately its present international value might be acceptable to the Roosevelt administration if Great Britain, France, and other nations would join in the agreement, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. hinted tonight.

Evidently throwing out a "feeler" in the direction of an international monetary conference, Secretary Morgenthau broke a long silence by the administration on monetary matters.

"The world should know that when it is ready to seek foreign exchange stabilization, Washington will not be an obstacle," the treasury head said, giving the first official indication of the New Deal's willingness to talk matters over.

Up to Rest of World.

"We are not unwilling to stabilize," Morgenthau continued. "However, if the great trading nations elect to continue under the present absence of rules, we are no longer at a disadvantage."

A method whereby world stabilization might be arrived at was hinted by the secretary. He pointed out that the dollar is remaining steady in terms of foreign currencies, thereby holding a more or less fixed ratio of value to other currencies such as the English pound and the French franc. If the foreign nations would agree to maintain these ratios, they could be then translated into terms of gold, and stabilization achieved.

"So far from engaging in a competitive devaluation race with the other nations, we hold out to them a currency of such steadiness that the normal tendency may very well be for the rest of the world to move gradually toward practical exchange stabilization," Morgenthau explained.

"If that can be achieved, the final step should come easily and almost of its own accord. Unless somebody rocks the boat, that would be the natural course," he added significantly.

U. S. Will Not Take Lead.

Although he made one of the most pro-stabilization statements of any high administration official, Secretary Morgenthau was emphatic in insisting that the United States will not take the lead by agreeing to stabilize the dollar while other nations remain free to jocky their currencies up or down.

Repeatedly he emphasized the fact that America was the last great trading nation, referring especially to Great Britain and Japan, to drop the gold standard. Evidently disregarding France as not important to world trade, he sought to show that this country had suffered great trade losses while England and Japan were off the gold standard and while the United States was on. For this reason, he said, America will not stabilize until the other "great trading nations" do.

"You have heard the argument that we should stabilize by declaring that we will not change the present gold content of the dollar," Secretary Morgenthau said. "Some even go so far as to say that the other nations would certainly follow, if we took the lead.

Would Give Others Opening.

"If we launched out alone on such a course, it would put us right back where we were in 1932, and offer a tempting invitation for the others not to follow but again to take advantage of our position.

"We realize the importance of world prosperity, and will evade no opportunity to assist in that direction—except the ever present opportunity to donate prosperity at our own expense.

"Our position was that of an innocent by-stander who suffered untold loss in a fight that he did not start and from which he could not escape. Why should we be singled out and admonished that the moral duty to restore order is primarily ours? Before we make any commitments, we must be sure that we will not lose what we have just regained."

Secretary Morgenthau had led up to his hint of simultaneous world stabilization by a defense of the New Deal devaluation of the dollar. He insisted that America, by remaining on the gold standard while England and Japan were off had lost her foreign trade.

England's Trade Jumps.

He cited figures to show that England's share of world trade had jumped 16 per cent and Japan's share had jumped 29 per cent during 1932, the year America was on the gold standard and they were not. In addition, he pointed out, foreigners started liquidating their short term investments here, taking them home in the form of gold exports. Meanwhile America's investments abroad were long term ones which could not be liquidated, and we started losing gold, although much of our metal was going to countries which owed us money, notably France, he indicated.

To halt this cycle of trade losses and investment liquidation the Roosevelt gold embargo and dollar devaluation was necessary, Secretary Morgenthau insisted. Summing up what he considered to be the benefits from dollar devaluation, Secretary Morgenthau said:

"First: Measured in physical volume, the United States increased its export trade during 1934 as compared with both 1932 and 1933.

"Second: Measured in dollar value the United States increased its foreign trade in 1934 as compared with 1932 and 1933.

SUBURBS FIGHT FOR WATER; DIG DEEPER WELLS

Melrose Park Plans $150,000 Outlay.

Melrose Park is spending $150,000 to $175,000 to make sure that its residents get their full share of the abundant water that flows deep under the surface of the western suburbs.

This expenditure, it is explained, is necessary partly because the past few years—not this one—have been unusually dry and partly because other communities and business enterprises are driving their wells deep into the underground sources and are drawing off water from the Melrose Park wells.

For instance, the village of Bellwood has a 1,900 foot well about a mile from the southern two of Melrose Park's three wells. This Bellwood shaft, which was drilled three years ago, was made more efficient by extra dynamiting 1,900 feet down about nine months ago, and with earnest pumping is yielding about 1,000 gallons a minute.

Only A Trickle Now.

According to Joseph Imburgio, who recently retired as Melrose Park president, the south wells of the village, at Main street, are giving only a trickle now, and the main load is carried by the north well at Division street.

"The pumping equipment at the south wells is not strong enough to get us a reliable supply against such competition," said Imburgio. "Another trouble is that the standpipe which we have now is too old and too small to handle the load. Moreover, the north well water alone is too salty and should be mixed with that from the other wells.

Battle Is On in Earnest.

"Not only Melrose Park and Bellwood, but the North Western railroad and some business firms are tapping the same underground water supply. Faced with this situation, Melrose Park has awarded contracts for the construction of a new reservoir and for equipment to get a greater proportion of the water out of the south wells."

Michael Sorrillo, who succeeded Imburgio as village president in April and let the contracts for the improvement, said that completion of the new water system would give Melrose Park enough water to supply three times the present population.

CITY CREW LAYS PRIVATE PAVING; FOREMAN FIRED

Commissioner of Public Works Oscar E. Hewitt suspended Vito Izzo, foreman of a street repair gang, yesterday after charges had been made that Izzo permitted his crew to lay an asphalt pavement for the inner driveway of a filling station at 7126 South Rockwell street. Materials belonging to the city were used on the job.

Mr. Hewitt also ruled that Alex Alesauskas, owner of the station, would have to pay for the labor, the materials, and the use of city equipment on the improvement. The total bill, it was estimated, would be considerably in excess of $200 and might reach $500.

Alesauskas, a Republican precinct captain, protested that he was unable to pay, adding that he had received an estimate of $287 before seeking a cheaper way to get the work done. He said he had paid a man known to him only as "Bob" $100 to have the city crew carry out the improvement.

"We are figuring up the bill," asserted Commissioner Hewitt, "and Alesauskas will pay it, whatever it is."

Minneapolis Mayor Third in Primary Election Race

Minneapolis, Minn., May 13.—(AP)—Unseating of A. G. Bainbridge as mayor of Minneapolis appeared probable tonight on the basis of early returns in the city's primary election, with the incumbent running third.

Of a total anticipated votes of 75,000, T. E. Latimer had accumulated 14,994 and Charles F. Keyes 6,838. Mayor Bainbridge had 5,436.

These figures in the primary to name two candidates for the general election June 10 were from 118 precincts of 355 in the city.

Miss Moore will sail for England after the ceremony and will sing before the king and queen at a command performance. Miss Moore was accompanied yesterday by her husband, Valentin Parera, an actor.

ANNE LINDBERGH WRITES BOOK ON FLIGHT TO ORIENT

New York, May 13.—(AP)—Anne Morrow Lindbergh has written a book describing the flight she and her husband, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, made to the Orient in 1931, it was announced today.

The book, "North to the Orient," will be published in fall by Harcourt, Brace & Co. She wrote it without the aid of a literary "ghost," it was said, and it will be illustrated with maps drawn by Col. Lindbergh.

Although poems by Mrs. Lindbergh have been published in various magazines, this will be her first book. She is the third member of her family to be launched as an author. Her mother, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, is the author of two children's books and a volume of poems, and her sister Elizabeth, the late Mrs. Aubrey Niel Morgan, wrote magazine articles on educational topics.

Two Elderly Sisters Die in Canadian Prairie Blizzard

RIVERHURST, Sask., May 13.—(AP)—The futile struggle of two elderly sisters against a prairie blizzard was discovered when the women's bodies were found yesterday half a mile apart. Miss Eva and Gertrude Savage, each past 50 years old, had died Friday night, apparently of exposure, while trying to walk home after setting out to attend a play at Liberty hall, four miles away.

PEER CALLED ME TEEDLES, BEAUTY SOBS IN LOVE SUIT

Lord Revelstoke Denies He Promised Marriage.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 13.—Ivy Dawkins, better known as Angelo Joyce, a minor actress and former beauty queen, continued her breach of promise suit in the high court of London today against 24 year old Lord Revelstoke, head of the great banking house of Baring Brothers. More flaming love letters, alleged to have been written to Miss Joyce by the peer when he was a Cambridge undergraduate and a minor, were read to the jury by Neville Laski, her lawyer.

Toward the close of the hearing she took the witness stand and told of his ardent wooing. She said Lord Revelstoke's courtship was interfered with by his stern parent, who later died leaving wealth and a title to the defendant. The plaintif testified that her wooer promptly forgot his actress sweetheart and married a girl of his own class.

Pins Case on Letters.

Miss Joyce's lawyer admitted that most of the love letters were written and all the promises of marriage except one were made while Revelstoke was still a minor, and that therefore they are useless. Nevertheless he based his case on one alleged oral promise Revelstoke is reported to have made after he became of age, as well as on several letters written in his maturity.

"I pictured you tonight looking just as sweet and beautiful as ever at the other end of the wire and I would almost have given my life for television," one letter said. "It is thrilling to think I will spend another whole day with the darlingest and sweetest thing on earth. I want to keep using superadjectives and phrases and words not in the dictionary. You are essential to my life, O, so terribly essential, but separation, my darling Angela, would be utterly impossible."

"Send me a kiss by wire, honey," said a telegram. "My heart's on fire. Every ounce of love."

Good Night Kiss Recalled.

"Darling, I shall adore you and love you forever and forever for paying me the greatest compliment of my life," another letter read. "O, I am flying so high—so high that every time that I see you I feel that I have reached the top. When you kissed me good night tonight in a way that was so beautiful and to me so unforgettable, you showed me without saying anything at all your true love."

"I am crying, praying, and loving you every second of my life," read the postscript of still another letter.

Another missive said: "I wish I could remember my dreams in the morning, as I know they must be about you."

The judge began to show signs of impatience at the reading of letter after letter in the same strain. Miss Joyce's lawyer interrupted to relate how Revelstoke's stern parent attempted to destroy the romance.

"The son confessed she was the girl he intended to marry, whereupon the father forbade him to bring the actress into the family," Laski told the court. "After that the young man suggested elopement two or three times. The lady always was willing, but the elopement never developed for some unexplained reason."

Calls Him "Boodles."

Miss Joyce then resumed her testimony amid sobs. She testified that she really loved the peer whom she call "Boodles."

"And he called me Teedles," she said.

"He called you what?" exploded the judge.

"Teedles, my lord," said Miss Joyce with a sob.

When examined by her lawyer she repeated she loved the man and did not want money but reparation.

"I might have been Lady Revelstoke," she said, adding that she suffered a nervous breakdown and had been unable to work ever since he jilted her for another.

The beauty queen told of a mysterious burglary at her flat in which a lot of ardent letters, which, she said, mentioned marriage, disappeared.

Peer Goes on Stand.

"Was the question of marriage discussed at any time between you and Miss Joyce?" his lawyer asked him.

"Once, by her," Lord Revelstoke replied. "That was about three months after we met. I explained to her that the question was one I could not contemplate; that it was impossible for me to think of marrying any one.

"The discussion began when Miss Joyce remarked: 'People who are as fond of each other as we are at the moment generally think of getting married.'"

When questioned about Miss Joyce's allegation that once in April, 1932, he lay on her bed in her flat and said, "Angela, let's get married," Lord Revelstoke replied:

"I deny that entirely. I went there only once and never saw a bed in the room. The question of marriage, love, and affection never arose during our conversation on that occasion."

Lord Revelstoke was being cross-examined when the trial was adjourned until tomorrow.

Postponed Tag Day Held; Count Funds in Loop Bank

Three thousand women who "tagged" passersby all day yesterday for contributions to the Chicago Federation of Aged and Adult Charities last night turned over their boxes of coins to authorized counters at the First National bank. The counting will continue today and probably tomorrow before the total collected is known. The annual tag day of the federation was postponed from the previous Monday on account of rain.

Two Convicts Stroll Away from Joliet Honor Farm

Two prisoners walked away from the honor farm of the Stateville penitentiary yesterday. They are Milton Sprowls, 22 years old, and William Thomas, 35 years old, both sentenced in Cook county. Sprowls was serving one to twenty years for robbery, and Thomas one year to life for robbery. They had been transferred from the prison enclosure to the farm about six weeks ago.

Reno, Nev., May 13.—(AP)—Glamorous Barbara Hutton Mdivani divorced her Georgian prince in 10 minutes here today and tonight she dined and danced with a Danish count who soon is expected to become her husband.

The Woolworth heiress, who obtained a divorce today from Prince Alexis Mdivani, was guest at a night club dinner party with Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow, who, it was reliably learned, probably will marry Princess Barbara tomorrow.

Appear to Be Happy.

Despite a crowd of guests at the fashionable club, Barbara and the count danced several times and both appeared to be happy.

Besides the heiress and Count Kurt, the party tonight included former District Judge and Mrs. George A. Bartlett and the princess' two attorneys, George B. Thatcher of Reno and Millard Tomkins Jr. of New York, who were present at her divorce proceedings.

The appearance of the $40,000,000 heiress tonight somewhat took the divorce colony by surprise, for she largely has secluded herself in a private residence since her arrival some six weeks ago.

From a reliable source it was learned previously that Count Kurt, who denied he intended to marry Barbara, had arrived here and was planning to take Princess Barbara back to Europe as his countess.

Polish Up Private Car.

Meantime, a crew of workmen was engaged polishing up the brass trimmings on the $100,000 private railway car, the Curleyhut, in which Mr. and Mrs. Hutton came to Reno from New York.

It could not be learned when the car was to leave Reno. Impetus was given the persistent reports of an impending early second marriage late today when a great bouquet was delivered at the Hutton residence. The count's reported arrival, there had been only conjecture as to his whereabouts beyond that he was believed to be "somewhere in Nevada."

Prince Alexis Plays Polo.

In Paris today, Prince Alexis' valet said the prince was "too busy playing polo" to make any statement. He is living in a smart bachelor's apartment near that of his sister, Madame José Sert, overlooking the French chamber of deputies.

DOCTOR IS HELD, 3 SOUGHT AFTER FIGHT AT PARTY

Dr. Frank Scurfield, 1658 West 18th street, an eye specialist, was arrested yesterday on a warant from Kankakee county charging him with assault on William Flora of Bradley at a party early Sunday in Bradley, near Kankakee. Three other Chicago men are being sought on similar warants.

Dr. Scurfield was found by police in a barber shop at 1848 South Paulina street, suffering from an eye injury supposedly received at the party. Flora is in a grave condition in St. Mary's hospital in Kankakee with numerous lacerations about the face and neck. Several others of the 40 persons who attended the party are nursing black eyes.

The party was at the home of Dr. Scurfield's sister, Mrs. Wanda Bach. It began Saturday night and ended in a general fight early next morning, according to Sherif John Stack of of Kankakee county, who obtained the warants. The other three sought are Joseph Zimmer, James Harzick, and a man known only as Stanley. Dr. Scurfield denied assaulting Flora.

FOX RIVER TOWNS' LEADERS INDORSE SUPERHIGHWAYS

Deem Chicago Project Big Advantage to Region.

BY HAL FOUST.

Leaders of the Fox river valley, from Elgin to Aurora, met in St. Charles last night and indorsed a proposal to petition President Roosevelt for federal aid from the 4 billion dollar work relief fund for the construction of an elevated highway system in Chicago.

Lester J. Norris, president of the Fox River federation and chairman of the meeting, is to depart for Washington tomorrow with a group of other Chicagoland leaders on behalf of the project. The delegation, headed by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, has an appointment for Thursday with Frank C. Walker, chief adviser to the President in the expenditure of the 4 billions.

Advantageous to Large Area.

"If federal money is to be spent for trafic facilities in Chicago," said Mayor I. G. Langum of St. Charles, "the improvement should be of such a type as to benefit a large territory rather than a purely local improvement such as any surface street development. Elevated highways would benefit all of the metropolitan area, a territory extending farther west than the Fox river valley."

"Our city strongly favors the elevated highway proposal," added R. Eaton Fedou, Elgin newspaper publisher.

"The proximity of Chicago has been a major factor in the growth of Aurora in the past," said Howard H. Yates, of the Aurora Chamber of Commerce. "A pavement for rapid and safe motor transportation in Chicago would brighten the prospects for Aurora."

Benefit to Batavia.

"Our farmers sell their produce in Chicago; many of our residents work or have businesses in Chicago; our town is closely linked to Chicago socially and economically," said Mayor J. V. Burton of Batavia, "and the elevated highways would bring this relationship even closer—to the mutual benefit of the metropolis and of the Fox river town."

Mayor Harry C. Hanson of Geneva, unable to attend the meeting, telephoned his endorsement.

"The benefits of such motor transportation from the Fox river valley viewpoint are obvious," asserted Mr. Norris. "It would be as convenient to commute from these valley towns as it is now to commute to the loop from Oak Park. With a little thought, it is just as easy to see the benefits to Chicago of expanding its trade territory by the construction of elevated highways."

Reasons for Expedition.

George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, explained the two-fold purpose of the delegation to Washington. First, he declared, it will demonstrate to Washington a demand for unemployment relief through the construction of lasting economic benefits; and second, may obtain in Washington information which should enable it to pin upon some local official the responsibility for formal application for the "easy money" and to aid this official in behalf of his application.

AWARDED $10,000, BUT MUST PAY IT BACK TO ESTATE

Schuyler Colfax Schwartz Jr., once wealthy cigar dealer who now pleads poverty, won a short lived victory yesterday in his suit to compel the executor of the estate of his grandmother, Mrs. Josephine E. Springer, to pay over $10,000 which under the will was to have been given him last January when he became 35 years of age.

Circuit Judge Prystalski directed payment of the money within ten days, but in the same ruling held that Schwartz was indebted to the estate for $42,000 on a note signed by him. Attorneys for the estate said the money would be paid to Schwartz and then seized to satisfy part of the debt.

Attorneys for Martha Schwartz, stepmother of Schwart and also a beneficiary under the will charged that Schwartz had squandered most of the money left him n addition to $65,000 which he borrowed from his grandmother and failed to repay.

Sues Aldermen of Berwyn; Claims They're Overpaid

Suit to collect $28,140 in alleged excess salaries claimed to have been paid to 39 former and present aldermen of Berwyn was filed yesterday in Circuit court in behalf of William Denk, a taxpayer in the suburb. The suit charges the aldermen have been illegally paid under a town ordinance passed in 1929 which set their salary at $50 a month. A previous state statute, according to the suit, provides that, in towns of the population of Berwyn, aldermen and trustees are not to be paid in excess of $10 "for each meeting actually attended."

NEW LAKE SHORE TRAFIC CONTROL SYSTEM

They show the three stages of staggered rush hour control to be inaugurated today to break the bottle neck in the north side's main trafic outlet. Diagram illustrates unique routing in congested Grace-to-Belmont sector at same three trafic periods.

Flemington, N. J., May 13.—[Special.]—Miss Clarissa Ann Fackenthall, who celebrated her 100th birthday anniversary Dec. 1, died yesterday at her home in Stanton. She made rag rugs until a week ago. Complaining then that she was tired she went to bed and gradually grew weaker.

NEW LAKE SHORE TRAFIC SYSTEM IN FORCE TODAY

Designed to Break Rush Hour Bottlenecks.

BY HAL FOUST.

A unique trafic control system will be inaugurated this morning in Lake Shore drive between Grace street and North avenue. Eccentric vehicular maneuvers have been routed by Otto K. Jelinek, to break the morning and evening rush hour bottle necks on this north side artery.

North siders driving to work between 7:30 and 9:30 a. m. will find the entire east half [the left half] reserved for south bound trafic as well as three lanes next to the right curb in the west half of the street. North bound trafic during this morning rush period will be confined to two lanes just west of the center parkway.

From Grace to Melrose.

This division of the pavement will extend from Grace street to Melrose street where the drives enter the park. In the park, the loop bound trafic will have exclusive use of the Lake Shore drive as well as the outer drive. Lake Shore drive in the park is the pavement just west of the outer or Beach drive.

From 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. the boulevard between Grace street and Melrose street will function as in the past. South of Melrose street, however, between North avenue and Melrose street, there will be one way southbound trafic in Lake Shore drive and one way northbound trafic in Beach drive.

In the evening rush hour, from 4 p. m. to 6:15 p. m., northbound trafic will have the exclusive use of the outer drive and of Lake Shore drive from North avenue to Melrose street. From Melrose street to Grace street north bound trafic will use two lanes immediately west of the center esplanade as well as all of the east half of the street.

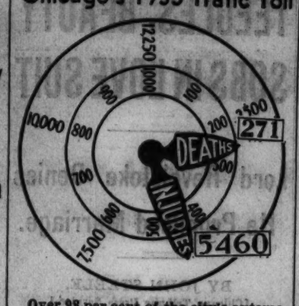
Corresponds to Trafic Volume.

"The uneven division of the available pavement during the rush hours," said Mr. Jelinek, "corresponds with the uneven division between north and south bound volumes at these periods of the day. With the rerouting of buses, so they don't swing through the blockades of private automobiles, there should be relief from the congestion without the expense of an investment in additional pavement."

The engineer frankly describes the system as an experiment, a radical departure from the normal handling of vehicular movements. Capt. James U. Sammis Jr., head of the Lincoln park police, will have extra police on hand to assist the motorists in acquainting themselves with the regulations. Temporary barriers will be erected to guide drivers over the new routes.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

WALKS INTO SIDE OF MOVING CAR; IS FATALLY HURT

Harry Woodward, 56 years old, 1736 Madison street, died yesterday in the County hospital of injuries incurred Sunday when he stepped from between two parked cars and walked into the side of a moving automobile at Damen and Grand avenues. The police did not hold the driver, Francis Black, 27 years old, 4605 Kasson avenue.

Woodward's death and two others increased the 1935 trafic toll for Cook county to 332. Until 4 p. m. yesterday 271 had been killed in automobile accidents within the Chicago city limits and 5,460 had been injured. The other deaths yesterday:

Francis Ruane, 20 years old, 7649 Emerald avenue. Died in the County hospital of injuries incurred Friday when he was struck by an automobile at Wood street and Garfield boulevard. The driver, Robert Strachen, 45 years old, 6514 South Talman avenue, told police Ruane was crossing the street in the middle of the block.

Evelyn Irwin, 4 years old, colored, 3800 Rhodes avenue. Died in the County hospital of injuries suffered March 25 when she darted in the path of an automobile near her home. Esau Champion, 37 years old, 4016 Indiana avenue, colored, driver of the car, has been notified to appear at the inquest.

Pickpocket Since 1907 Gets 6 Months in Jail

Hartigan in the Felony court. A. N. Wisby, 637 Cornelia avenue, testified he seized Ryan Saturday night when he felt a hand in his pocket while he was standing at Halsted and Madison streets.

BOSS M'LAUGHLIN ON STAND IN OWN BREMER DEFENSE

Taking of Testimony at Trial Completed.

St. Paul, May 13.—(AP)—Completion of defense testimony for seven persons charged with conspiracy to kidnap Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, and a plea of guilty by another brought the federal court kidnap trial to the final argument stage late today.

Elmer Farmer, Bensenville, Ill., tavernkeeper, charged with helping to arrange the house in which Bremer was held 21 days, pleaded guilty after other defendants had rested. Byron Bolton, Chicago, took similar action a month ago when the trial began. Harold Alderton, in whose house Bremer was kept, decided to let the jury decide his case after his attorney, Eugene Mathews, had indicated earlier he also might plead guilty.

McLaughlin Takes Stand.

Last defendant to testify was John J. [Boss] McLaughlin, Chicago politician, charged with having participated in the exchange of a portion of the $200,000 ransom. He admitted handling money, but denied he knew or suspected it was Bremer ransom. He called contradictory government testimoney "deliberate lies."

Those whose cases are expected to be given to the jury after closing arguments are Arthur [Doc] Barker, named as an actual kidnaper; McLaughlin, Philip Delaney, William Vidler, all of Chicago; Oliver Berg, a Joliet, Ill., convict, all accused as "money changers"; James J. Wilson, one time employé of Fugitive Dr. Joseph Moran, Chicago physician, and Alderton.

Final arguments, which will begin tomorrow, are expected to be completed, at the latest, by Thursday.

Most of Them Testify.

All the defendants except Alderton, Farmer, and Barker, testified during the trial.

Federal Judge M. M. Joyce deferred sentence on Farmer. He was withdrawn from the courtroom and remanded to the Ramsey county jail.

The prosecution summoned three witnesses in rebuttal and then rested. On the stand in rebuttal were William R. Holmes, guard at the Joliet, Ill., prison; Ralph Brown, and John Madala, department of justice agents.

Immediately after Farmer's plea of guilty, Thomas W. McMeekin began arguing a motion for dismissal of the charge against Phillip Delaney, Chicago, an alleged "money changer."

No testimony was offered in Barker's defense. The case of James J. Wilson, former Northwestern university student, was rested after a short recess. Final witnesses were Father John Deere, Prior Lake Catholic priest who received some of the ransom money, and Betty Baerwold, one-time maid in the home of Harry Sawyer, alleged "fingerman," who is to be arraigned in about three weeks.

The priest said he could not identify Barker as one of the men who handed him ransom notes, and Miss Baerwold testified that in January, 1934, about the time of the kidnaping, Sawyer was confined to his home.

Smoked Glass Gang Gets $420 in Two Robberies

Three gunmen wearing smoked glasses held up Herbert Johnson, cashier for the American Printing Ink company, 2324 Kinzie street, a few doors from the plant, yesterday and took an envelope containing $402 which he had just obtained by cashing company checks at a neighborhood bank. Shortly after this robbery three men of the same description kidnaped J. Paul Kahn, 4110 Roosevelt road, an insurance salesman, took $18 and pushed him from their car.

Indiana's Divorce Ratio One Out of Six in 1934

Indianapolis, Ind., May 13.—[Special.]—One of six Indiana marriages ended in divorce in 1934. Although 50,480 marriage licenses were issued in that year to establish an all-time record for the state, 8,062 divorces were granted.

U.S. SENDS RELIEF FOOD, BUT STATE CAN'T HANDLE IT

No Workers to Distribute Surplus Goods.

Distribution of much needed federal surplus food supplies to relief families, now being fed on a curtailed basis, is being hampered by the virtual breakdown of the relief machinery throughout the state, it was learned yesterday.

No perishable commodities can be accepted from the Federal Surplus Relief corporation because of the lack of facilities and men who formerly handled them through work relief projects, according to Oscar F. Beyer, representative of the FSRC. Even the distribution of nonperishable goods is a difficult problem, he said.

Canned Beef to Be Available.

In Cook county, where the relief stations are closed, 1,530,000 pounds of canned roast beef for relief distribution is scheduled to arrive shortly, 300,000 pounds being already in the hands of packing companies. But no provision has been made for getting this free food into the hands of relief families. Ordinarily tickets entitling families to their share were allotted to the stations and given to the families there.

"This matter will have to be considered," said Leo M. Lyons, Cook county relief administrator. "We will have to find means of distribution or store the food until we resume normal operations."

Downstate counties face similar lack in the face of plenty, Mr. Beyer said, unless they work out methods of distributing the goods with volunteer workers. Eleven of these counties have been unable to give assurance that they will be able to distribute supplies if received under present conditions, and Lake county relief authorities have stated definitly that they cannot handle the supplies.

Clients Call at Warehouses.

Other counties are having relief clients call at the stations and warehouses to carry the food home where distances permit this practice. Some have evidently found vehicles, volunteered or hired with local funds, to transport supplies to rural clients. A huge shipment of canned roast beef is scheduled for downstate counties which will be able to absorb it.

Mr. Beyer admitted that the federal corporation has not offered any new supplies since the present emergency arose, due to Illinois' failure to comply with the government's demand that it contribute $3,000,000 a month for relief. The roast beef shipments were arranged more than a month ago. However, he said this is because seasonal factors have made it unnecessary for the FSRC to purchase surpluses in most items this spring.

One bit of cheering news yesterday was the announcement by the community fund of Chicago that it will underwrite the cost of hospital clients for a four day period, an estimated expense of $14,000. The period was made retroactive to Sunday and runs through tomorrow. The community fund will also pay for clinical treatment and home visits made by members of the Visiting Nurses' association.

Hope for Funds by Thursday.

The offer will not cost the Community fund anything, however, if the state legislature makes relief funds available before Thursday night. The agreement to this effect was reached by members of the Cook county board, relief officials, and Frank I. Loomis, representing the Community fund. It was pointed out at the meeting that the $1,200,000 provided for relief last Friday is to be used only to pay for food and its distribution.

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission up to that time had been paying $3.75 a day per patient to hospitals now caring for about 450 Cook county relief clients. If no relief funds are made available within the next few days, clients will have to be sent to the Cook county hospital, which is already overcrowded with 2,900 patients.

New County Relief Plan.

County Commissioner H. Wallace Caldwell said yesterday that he intended to propose to the county board a new plan for emergency relief in Cook county.

His suggestion is that $3,000,000 of 1932 county poor relief bonds be sold and the proceeds turned over to the state. The state would then demand of the federal government $11,084,234 to meet May relief needs. The latter figure is the amount to which Illinois is entitled, but has failed to receive because of the state's failure to furnish $3,000,000 a month.

Mr. Caldwell estimated that Cook county's share of the government contribution would suffice for relief in the county to July 1, when the four billion dollar public works program is expected to make it possible to discontinue direct relief. He will lay his plan before the county board when a special meeting is called to consider the relief problems growing out of the Washington-Springfield controversy.

"It is time to call Hopkins' bluff," said the commissioner. "He refused to match the county's last appropriation on the ground that his organization could deal only with states. My plan would take this excuse away from him."

HOPKINS' BILL MAY FACE NEW TEST IN HOUSE

Illinois Vote Is Seen for Today.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 13.—[Special.]—A fourth attempt to pass the Hopkins bill to raise Illinois' sales tax to 3 per cent is in prospect in the house of representatives tomorrow or Wednesday.

Opinions were divided on predictions as to the bill's success or failure. Some of Gov. Horner's advisers were frank to admit they could not yet count 102 votes; others talked vaguely of a purported "turn of sentiment" among the merchants of the state. That, they believed, would be reflected in the votes of those who have been against the sales tax on former roll calls.

Gov. Horner Boosts Bill.

The governor is standing pat on his demand that the bill be passed with the emergency clause and has denied that he will allow the clause to be stricken and the bill approved with 77 votes for July enactment.

Harry L. Hopkins' ultimatum that Illinois must pass some sort of legislation to provide three millions monthly for relief before he will make any federal grants is being interpreted by the governor as a demand for immediate action.

Reports from Washington indicated Hopkins would accept 77 votes, but the governor said he had received a denial of that from Hopkins' office.

Group Awaits Signal.

When the roll call on the Hopkins bill was postponed last Wednesday it had obtained only 89 votes. A group of Republicans have been "laying back" for two weeks ready to add their votes if by them the measure could be passed. But they will not vote unless the administration lobbyists assure them that everything "is set."

The job over the week-end was to convince five or six other Republicans that they should join the majority of the Democrats in support of the bill. It cannot be shown if success met the efforts until the roll is called, which will probably be late in the afternoon either tomorrow or Wednesday.

May Get Bidwill Case.

The senate is scheduled for a week of routine work. That undoubtedly will be broken by the contemplated attempt to unseat Senator Arthur J. Bidwill [Rep., River Forest] in favor of Charles F. Baumrucker of River Forest, who was Bidwill's Democratic opponent in the election last November.

Bidwill was given a 149 vote lead by the canvassing board, but a Democratic packed senatorial subcommittee, which held hearings on Baumrucker's contest, is expected to report on Wednesday that Baumrucker was elected by 69 votes, although the ballot boxes were not reopened. Republicans, led by Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, the minority floor leader, and Richard J. Barr of Joliet, minority member on the subcommittee, will strive to keep Bidwill in his seat. The situation allegedly is complicated by the political influence of Richard Nash, Democratic power in River Forest and a brother of P. A. Nash, Cook county chairman.

Dangerous Animal

So lifelike as to startle one, an exhibit showing a mounted leopard in natural surroundings crouched as though to spring on its prey, will be opened to the public today in the Field Museum of Natural History. The specimen was obtained on a museum expedition and was prepared for exhibit by Leon L. Pray and Frank Letl of the museum staf. The result of their efforts provides an unusual insight into the leopard's life, for this animal is nocturnal in habits and rarely is seen even by hunters. A native of Africa and Asia, the leopard is equal in ferocity to a lion, according to the museum staf, and is particularly dangerous to hunt because it can run swiftly, climb trees, and leap great distances.

PREDICTS HUNGER RIOTS IN PLEA TO ROOSEVELT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—[Special.]—Threatening state-wide hungry riots, a delegation of unemployed from Illinois today called at the White House and on Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins in an unsuccessful attempt to obtain federal funds for that state.

At the White House the delegation, led by Karl Lockner of Chicago, chairman of the Illinois Unemployment council, was met by Secretary Marvin S. McIntyre. McIntyre told them they could not see President Roosevelt. He sent them to Hopkins. The relief administrator, however, refused point blank to grant federal funds immediately.

"The unemployed will be forced to riot unless they are fed," Lockner threatened Hopkins. "You are using the unemployed as goats in attempting to put pressure on the legislature to satisfy your own whims.

"People are being evicted from their homes in Chicago, but the unemployment council already has broken down doors to 35 houses to put them back. The unemployed are on the verge of staging state-wide riots, and the responsibility will be up to you and Gov. Henry Horner."

Despite Lockner's protest, Hopkins reiterated that he will not grant the federal funds, which are necessary for a resumption of relief, until the Illinois legislature passes the bill raising the sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent. When Lockner objected to the sales tax, calling it a "levy on poverty," Hopkins replied he did not care how the legislature raised the 3 million dollars monthly which he is demanding.

Throng Armour Institute for Open House Exhibits

The daily activity of a modern technical school was dramatized in scientific demonstrations by students last night at the annual open house of Armour Institute of Technology, 3300 Federal street. Exhibits, manned by 300 student lecturers and operators, included an automotive laboratory in full operation, distillation of gasoline, manufacture of perfumes, application of photo-electric cells to drinking fountains and burglar proof houses, and water treatment processes. Visitors thronged the shows for several hours as electricity, chemicals, and machinery were put through their paces.

Alleged Robber Is Held on Story of Housewife

George Bougadis, alleged member of a robber gang, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Justice of the Peace R. A. Sengstock of Morton Grove. Mrs. William Nolting of Palatine identified him as the man who diverted her attention by helping her pick chickens while three other men searched the house and took $3,000 in cash and securities.

Dady at Waukegan, charged with the $1,000 robbery of Dean Milani's tavern in Highwood. He was identified by Milani and one of the several guests who were robbed.

WARANT AWAITS HOPKINS' ARRIVAL FOR OHIO SPEECH

Davey to Push Charges in Relief Row.

Cleveland, O., May 13.—[Special.]—Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio and his supporters have no intention of dropping the criminal libel action instituted against Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins two months ago in a thunderous row over handling relief in the state.

No sooner had Hopkins announced in Washington today that he had accepted an invitation to address the Cleveland Citizens' association May 24 than Prosecutor Kenneth Krieder of Newark asserted the criminal libel warant will be waiting for the administrator when he gets there.

"The warant will be served by Cleveland police on Mr. Hopkins as soon as he enters the state," the prosecutor said.

Krieder served as the local attorney for Gov. Davey when the chief executive issued the warant March 18. The governor's action followed Hopkins' assertion that there had been a "political shake down" of firms doing business with the Ohio relief administration.

After a bitter exchange of personalities and after Hopkins had taken over the state relief administration, Davey dared the federal man to cross the state line. Hopkins' visit to Cleveland, if he keeps his promise and comes, will be his first visit to Ohio since Gov. Davey swore out the charges.

RELIEF JOB LOST, HE SMASHES N. Y. CITY HALL PANES

New York, May 13.—[Special.]—Because he was discharged Friday from a works relief project, Joseph Held, 51, threw two bricks through the front door of the city hall today.

His pockets filled with rocks, Held crept to the door and crashed in two windows. Vito Masullo, who was sweeping the steps of the hall, grabbed Held and pinned his arms until a half dozen policemen arrived and took charge of the situation.

Believing him a madman, police searched Held for weapons. But he was unarmed except for a dozen rocks wrapped in paper. The struggle attracted a crowd of several hundred persons.

SEIZE RECORDS OF BROKERS IN BLUE SKY RAID

Records of the Kelley-Condon company, 120 South La Salle street, brokers, were seized yesterday in a raid by state's attorney's police under Assistant State's Attorney James J. Cherry, in charge of the blue sky division. According to Cherry, complaints have been received from investors who assert that they have never received beer, distillery, and gold mining stocks for which they paid thousands of dollars. James J. Kelly, president of the company, was not in the offices at the time of the raid. He will be sought today for questioning.

RELIEF CLIENTS END JOB STRIKE; ONLY 1 HOLDOUT

Others Accept Railroad's Work in Lake County.

Threats of prosecution brought most of the "striking" relief clients in Lake county into line yesterday, according to reports made to State's Attorney Charles E. Mason in Waukegan.

Several of the 23 heads of relief families in Warren township who had declined to work 48 hours a week at 35 cents an hour for the Milwaukee railroad appeared on the job yesterday morning. They were sent home for the day, however, because the necessary tools had not arrived. The project on which the railroad is employing them is the construction of an underpass for Skokie road beneath the Milwaukee tracks.

Odie Is Still Adamant.

With one exception, the other relief clients involved in the "strike" were working elsewhere, according to information sent by L. F. Fenlon, the poormaster, to the state's attorney, who had asked for the facts.

The exception, Fenlon said, is Odie Herman, 47 years old, a farm renter, and father of four children.

"I am told," Fenlon said, "that Herman persists in his attitude of last Friday, when he announced that 'under no conditions' would he work for 35 cents an hour."

Herman and Guy A. Stanley, 41 years old, were spokesmen for the relief clients in the wage discussions. Fenlon said Stanley later came to his home and said he was ready to go to work.

State's Attorney Mason said he would take legal action against Herman if he appeared to ask for relief supplies.

Lack of Farm Laborers.

While employment agencies in Chicago continued to report a shortage in domestic help because of the reluctance of relief clients to leave the dole, further investigation revealed the same situation in other classes of work. Difficulty in getting single men or couples to accept farm work was reported by J. M. Conn, manager of the Great Northern Employment bureau, 601 East Madison street.

Recently, he said, he was unable to fill almost a third of the calls for farm help. The offers, he said, were $20 to $25 a month with room and board for farm hands and $30 a month with room and board for couples. In other lines, he said, $15 a week offers are frequently rejected with the explanation: "I'm better off on relief."

"They tell us not to call them unless the job pays $15 or $18 a week," said Mrs. Alice Banner, operator of an agency for colored persons, at 5330 South State street. "Some of the men turn down $12 a week jobs in restaurants and taverns where they can get their meals free."

Refuses $18 a Week Job.

A youth who refused an $18 a week job because he wouldn't change from his $4 a week relief was reported by the A. J. McCoy Associates, Inc., agency at 140 South Dearborn street.

Frank C. Hoff, attorney for the agency, said an agency client, 26 years old, got a $150 a month safety engineering job for which he was trained.

"After one day," Hoff said, "he walked out on the job to take another job, obtained through a political connection, with the Public Works administration."

PARK BILLS OPEN WAY TO BUILDING OF OUTER BRIDGE

Completion of the outer drive bridge will be made possible with the passage of the five Chicago Park district refunding and financing bills now before the legislature at Springfield, Robert J. Dunham, president of the district, told members of the City club at their noon luncheon yesterday in the Hotel Sherman.

He showed that the park refunding plan would release an aggregate revolving fund of $6,700,000 originally set up by the old Lincoln park and South park districts out of the sale of outer drive bridge bonds. He said that this fund has been used to maintain park district credit and could be immediately released to start bridge construction. He doubted, however, that federal funds would be forthcoming for the bridge.

"The President's plan is to use projects involving the greatest amount of man power," said Mr. Dunham. "A recent survey showed us that there are only 120 men on the Cook county relief rolls who could be efficiently used in bridge construction."

Judge Sullivan Upholds Plan to Check Juvenile Criminals

Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court upheld the need of the proposed amendments to the Juvenile court act last night at a mass-meeting called by social workers to protest against the amendments drawn by the Criminal court judges to strengthen the means of dealing with youthful criminals. In his plea for the measures, Judge Sullivan was joined by Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach.

After hearing the proposals attacked by several speakers, the chief justice rose from his seat in the audience and made a vigorous reply.

"Not Exactly Children."

"I say that society is entitled to some protection in this community," Judge Sullivan told the social workers. "When gangs of youths ravish girls, steal cars by the dozen, and hold a gun to your head, demanding your money or your life—and sometimes pull the trigger—they are not exactly children.

"The Juvenile court act drawn 35 years ago was not intended for the modern young murderer, the rapist, the kidnaper, and the holdup man. To my way of thinking, it was intended as a preventative act.

"It listed specific minor offenses, such as jumping on trains, hanging around poolrooms, profanity, and the like. Society has changed since the act was drawn. I am firmly convinced that these amendments would be a benefit to present day society."

Denies Attempt to Deceive.

Judge Sullivan took exception to the charge contained in a statement circulated by the council of social agencies and other social welfare groups, that the amendments "constitute a cowardly attempt to deceive the public."

"There has been no concealment, no cowardice here," he declared. "It has all been in the open. I sent copies of the bill to some of the persons who signed that statement."

The bill would eliminate the present confusion of jurisdiction in handling youthful criminals, sending all boys over 16 years old and girls over 17 charged with feloneous crimes to the Criminal court.

Arguments Given by Opponents.

Opponents of the amendments asserted they would force children into association with hardened criminals in police lockups, jails, and prisons under its provisions. Few parents of delinquent children accused of felonies would be able to provide bail bond or defense attorneys, they said.

Circuit Judge Frank W. Bicek, who has sat in the Juvenile court for the last two years, upheld the social workers in denouncing the measures. He declared he would do everything in his power to defeat them, saying that "if you destroy the Juvenile court act you have no longer any child welfare."

Public Defender Bachrach, striking back at arguments that the amendments would result in the "deepening of criminal instincts" in young offenders, assailed the present system for its "rank injustice." He pointed out that in gangs of young criminals, the leader often gets off light in Juvenile court because he happens to be a few months younger than his accomplices who are prosecuted in Criminal court.

FIRST OF CITY'S PERSONAL TAX NOTICES MAILED

The first of the 1934 personal property assessment notices for the city were mailed out yesterday to taxpayers in the township of Rogers Park, Deputy Assessor Edward J. McCabe announced last night. Taxpayers in all except two of the 37 county town districts have received their personality notices, he said.

The assessed value of all personal property in Rogers Park, according to the tax notices, is placed at $12,730,824, or an increase of 4 per cent over the assessment for 1933, which was $12,147,204 for that district.

Notices will be sent this week to taxpayers in the townships of Lyons and Thornton, thus completing the personal property assessment outside of the city.

$200,000 TAKEN FROM SWEITZER FUND IS RUMOR

Tells of Sweitzer Refusal.

Howard said yesterday that Sweitzer had refused to allow him to audit the redemption fund. Sweitzer stated then, and still asserts, that this money and the interest accruing from it is not a county fund and not subject to the jurisdiction of the county auditor.

In 1929 J. L. Jacobs, then efficiency expert for the county board, urged the board to provide for periodic audits of all unclaimed funds and for reports on any department heads who would not allow such audits. Again Sweitzer refused to permit an examination of the redemption fund, contending that the money is not under the jurisdiction of any court. The Probate and the County courts make periodic payments to the treasurer of their unclaimed money, Mr. Howard said.

A county official declared yesterday that it was apparently the feeling of some county department heads that the interest accruing from unclaimed funds belongs to them personally. No satisfactory accounting of interest has ever been made, this official said.

Complain of County Treasury.

Mr. Sweitzer has troubles as county treasurer. Recently charges were made by real estate brokers that tax receiverships under the Skarda act were being exploited as a political football in the treasurer's office. The brokers alleged that the agents deputized by the treasurer to manage the properties in tax receivership were being forced by Sweitzer's assistant, Horace Lindheimer, to purchase their insurance and supplies for the buildings from designated concerns.

Other accusations have been made that the treasurer's office was "sold out" to some of Mr. Sweiter's political associates when he took office and that the alleged exploitation of the Skarda act receiverships was a result of this.

Under the Skarda law the treasurer, upon application to the county court, may be appointed receiver for properties delinquent in taxes and is required to utilize the income from the properties to pay these taxes. An amendment to the Skarda act, which would permit the owner to manage his property if he posts a suitable bond, is now pending in the legislature at Springfield.

NORTHWESTERN STARTS 3 DAY CHOIR CONTEST

Northwestern university's department of church and choral music opend its second annual church choir contest and festival last night in Fisk chapel on the Evanston campus. Choirs from churches of membership under 250 competed last night. Other groups will sing tonight and tomorrow.

Last night's winners were the First German Methodist Episcopal church, directed by H. V. Leoppert, first place, and the Calvary Presbyterian church of Milwaukee, second. Like winners in the other groups who will sing later they were given scholarships, valued at $450, for the Northwestern school of music.

The judges were J. C. Lutton of Chicago, Herbert Hyde, director of the choir at St. Luke's Episcopal church in Evanston, and Elias Bredin, choral director of the First Presbyterian church of Evanston. At the close of the contest all thirteen choirs sang together under the direction of Mr. Hyde. Several of the choirs will take part in THE TRIBUNE's choral contest at the Chicagoland Music Festival Aug. 17.

CHARGES $153,000 FRITTERED AWAY; WIFE WINS SUIT

Charging that Arthur D. Peterson, a steamfitter, deserted her after spending her $153,000, Mrs. Kristine A. Peterson, 6155 North Maplewood avenue, was awarded a decree of separate maintenance by Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti yesterday.

Peterson disputed his wife's testimony, declaring she gave him only "carfare." Thereupon Attorney Harry X. Cole for Mrs. Peterson produced notes, some for as much as $5,000, for money which Peterson borrowed from his wife. Mrs. Peterson charged that her husband left her last June 2, after two and one-half years of marriage, in spite of the fact that her money bought for him diamonds, four automobiles, and other luxuries.

Mrs. Peterson was awarded $7.50 a week temporary alimony and, in addition, half her husband's wages. By the terms of the decree he waives any right to her remaining property.

MOTHER KILLED

Mrs. Rose De Woskin with two children, Elaine and Halperin, in recent photo.

WOMAN FALLS 24 FLOORS TO DEATH IN LOOP

The body of a woman who was killed yesterday afternoon in a plunge from the 30th floor of the Pittsfield building at 55 East Washington street was identified last night as that of Mrs. Rose DeWoskin, 27 years old, 7360 North Damen avenue. She was the wife of Nathan DeWoskin, one of the owners of an automobile accessory concern at 2120 South Wabash avenue.

Mrs. DeWoskin, according to relatives, was suffering from a mental disorder with which she had been afflicted since the birth of her second child seven months ago. She left the residence, where she and her husband lived with his mother, at about 10 a. m. yesterday. She had been reported missing and was the subject of a search by the police at the time she was killed. Her automobile was discovered during the afternoon at Indiana avenue and Cermak road.

Mrs. DeWoskin's purse, containing $97 and a key case, was found on a fire escape at the 30th floor level. The body struck on a skylight at the sixth floor level, in an airwell. An inquest into the death is to be held at 226 West Randolph street today at 9:30 a. m.

FEDERAL MEN ARREST COUNT, GET FAKE CASH

Victor Lustig Has Fake Gold Notes.

New York, May 13.—[Special.]—Secret service agents of the United States treasury department today arrested Count Victor Lustig, jail breaker and swindler. In his possession they found the key to a subway locker containing $52,000 in spurious currency as well as a complete set of twenty steel plates for the engraving of $5, $10, $20 and $100 bills.

Lustig is wanted in various cities for bail jumping, selling money-making machines and other charges. He has been arrested thirty-eight times. These include arrests in Prague, Vienna, Paris, Berlin, and London, and 29 in the United States. In every case he either "beat the rap" or jumped his bail.

Hunted Half a Year.

Six months ago the secret service in Washington was advised that Lustig was in New York. A special squad of operatives directed by Robert L. Godby came here.

Lustig, as a distinguished looking, suave, well dressed man of 45, mingled with respectable, unsuspecting people, had a fine auto with a chauffeur.

Last night Lustig was grabbed with two bags which contained neither fake money nor plates, but did yield a little key. That key opened a locker in the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit station at Times square. That box held false money, etc.

Press Silk Into Paper.

One of the plates was used expressly for pressing silk threads into the bills. According to the federal agents it was Lustig's ability to insert those threads in the bills which made them almost exact reproductions of the genuine article and rendered detection almost impossible, as that silk is a peculiarity of the paper used by the United States.

Lustig will be charged with counterfeiting and possession of counterfeit money.

WOMAN DIES AFTER FALL.

Injuries incurred April 30 when she tripped on a rug in her home caused the death at the county hospital yesterday of Mrs. Inger Nelson, 64 years old, 2536 North Sawyer avenue.

LAWYERS UPSET AS SCHALL RIPS INTO ROOSEVELT

Cries of 'Shame' Arouse Blind Senator.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The Chicago Bar association, which prides itself on its nonpartisanship, on the theory that the law knows no politics, was a scene of shouting and bitterness at luncheon time yesterday, when Thomas D. Schall, the blind Republican senator from Minnesota, sought to arouse the lawyers to what he considers the dangers of a Roosevelt dictatorship.

Senator Schall's carefully prepared speech, in which he compared the course of the President with that of other dictators of history, was tossed aside after cries of "Shame, shame" greeted one of his most picturesque remarks. The senator had referred to the fact that after a recent address of his on the same subject in Chicago a Democratic judge had proposed a toast to the President.

Cries of "Shame" Interrupt Him.

"You may drink to him and you may drink with him," said the rasping voice of the Republican senator, "but you will have to be drunk before you will vote for him at the next election."

"Shame, shame," came from several men at once.

"Shame to you," shouted the senator, who stood with black stick on his arm, his blind eyes seeming to search the direction from which the cries had come.

There was some applause through the room at this.

"It's un-American to deny free speech anywhere in this country," said Senator Schall. "Is it un-American to blame the administration that has denied this?

Accuses the New Deal.

"They have lined up thousands of newspaper men. They have fixed up the radio so you can't find the facts. Free speech is the foundation of this republic. Without it we become one of the big four new deals—Russia, Italy, Germany, and the United States under Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Mr. Schall proceeded to tell of the powers "filched from the government" by the Roosevelt administration and compared the situation to the beast of Revelation, the NRA being the mark on the head of the beast.

This was pretty strong medicine for many of the Democratic lawyers present. They muttered among themselves that the senator was "crazy" and sat through the address with resentment in their hearts. The senator made the word "shame" the theme of his impromptu talk.

Points to Next Election.

"I am not ashamed to stand up for my country," he shouted. "You that hollered shame, I can't see you, but there are some things I can't see that I can smell. If the facts were known today they would smell to high heaven.

"The next election will definitly settle whether we will continue a republic or be on our way to Moscow by way of Siberia. I am not talking to you Jeffersonian Democrats. I would just as soon have a good Democrat elected as a Republican."

"This administration," he cried, "does not want recovery. It isn't in the Fabian plot. He wants chaos that will give him the excuse to take new powers. Upon chaos is built the ambition to build an empire on the ruins of the republic. There is no chance to get the facts. Everything is a handout today."

Schall Invites Remarks.

At the conclusion of his remarks Senator Schall invited questions and Attorney Quin O'Brien, assistant corporation counsel, arose from his table. He spoke of the bipartisan traditions of the club.

"I would cry shame any time when a man takes the name of God in vain and paints our President as the beast of the Apocalypse," he said.

Attorney William McKinley, former speaker of the Illinois house, a Democrat, said: "I cried shame because you insulted the President of the United States. I am proud of it. No American has any such right."

WESLEYAN PLANS SUMMER SCHOOL AT DES PLAINES

Camp Meeting Ground to Be Used.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Illinois Wesleyan university, Bloomington, will conduct a summer quarter session at the old Des Plaines camp meeting ground beginning June 17, according to an announcement last night by H. W. McPherson, president of Wesleyan. Courses for full college credit will extend over a period of six weeks.

Dr. McPherson said that, although the university will also conduct a summer session at Bloomington, the Des Plaines courses, offered in connection with the seventy-sixth annual Des Plaines camp meeting, "will be as strong as the university can offer." Prof. R. A. Browns, head of the department of philosophy, will be the dean of the Des Plaines summer school.

Plan Proposed Last Year.

Illinois Wesleyan project at Des Plaines was first discussed with Dr. McPherson about a year ago by the Rev. Philip L. Bohl, pastor of the Des Plaines Methodist church, and a leader of the famous camp meeting association, but it was found impossible to complete the plans for last summer.

Earl Allison, camp meeting director, said the 1935 sessions, while augmented by collegiate atmosphere, will still carry on the traditions of nearly three generations. The sessions, in addition to the university summer school, will have two other features, the midsummer Methodist Social union banquet on July 1 and a laymen's week program sponsored by the Rock River conference.

Evangelistic Campaign July 8.

The evangelistic emphasis, Mr. Allison explained, will be strengthened this year with the coming of the Rev. I. M. Hargett of Kansas City, Mo., who will conduct a two week evangelistic campaign beginning July 8.

President McPherson announced that six members of the Wesleyan faculty will conduct twelve courses during the extension summer school period. Dean Browns will teach courses in psychology and philosophy. Prof. R. F. Corn of the department of religion will review the history of religion in one course and conduct another in "Christ and the Gospels." Prof. S. C. Ratcliffe will teach two courses in sociology, and Miss Genevieve White of the English department will conduct two in her field.

CAMPUS MURDER JURY LOCKED UP FOR 4TH NIGHT

San José, Cal., May 13.—(AP)—Deadlocked and tired, the jury trying David A. Lamson on a wife murder charge, retired at 9 o'clock [12 o'clock Chicago time] tonight with no verdict after more than 75 hours had passed since it received the case.

There was no indication of any change in a nine to three deadlock as the jurors trudged wearily toward their hotel. It was the fourth night they had been locked up since deliberations started.

SUBSIDY FOR AIR MAIL TO ORIENT GAINS SUPPORT

Believed Certain to Pass This Congress.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—[Special.]—Confidence was expressed today by both postoffice department officials and congressional leaders that a 2 million dollar supplemental appropriation for trans-Pacific air mail service will be approved by congress before adjournment.

The house turned down the appropriation as a part of the postoffice treasury appropriation bill on April 22.

The fight against the appropriation at that time was led by Representative William W. Arnold [Dem., Ill.]. He explained today that his objections were based upon a feeling th. no investigation had been made of the appropriation which would be, in effect, a subsidy.

Now Lends His Support.

"There has since been an opportunity for the postoffice department and the bureau of the budget to study the subsidy," he remarked. "Personally, I am friendly to the proposition and will be agreeable to approval of it in a deficiency appropriation bill which must be passed before adjournment."

Senator William G. McAdoo [Dem., Cal.], who tacked on the 2 million dollar amendment to the original appropriation bill, said he was confident that there would be no further objections to including the appropriation in a deficiency appropriation bill.

"It is one of the most important aids to aviation to be considered by congress," he declared. "There can be no reasonable objection to it."

Favor Trans-Ocean Mail.

Harllee Branch, second assistant postmaster general, asserted that the postoffice department was heartily in favor of both Pacific and Atlantic air mail service.

"There is no doubt that there will be a supplemental appropriation," he said. "We are in a somewhat awkward position because the law compels competitive bidding and at present only one company [Pan American Airways] seems to be interested. However, I believe this technicality will be disposed of. The American people and congress all are in favor of the service."

An investigation disclosed that it will be impossible for any foreign country to delay the trans-Pacific service as Great Britain and France have interfered with inauguration of trans-Atlantic flying service. Pan-American Airways originally was more interested in the trans-Atlantic route but found difficulties interposed by the two European countries in the establishment of landing bases at Bermuda and the Azores.

Bases Only on U. S. Islands.

The Pacific route will include landing bases only at islands owned or controled by the United States. The route between California and Canton, China, contemplates bases at Hawaii, Midway Island, Wake Island, Guam, and Manila.

Pan-American Airways recently acquired control of the Chinese Aid Line, which disposes of objections which might be raised by the Chinese government to any foreign air line landing in Canton.

Imperial Airways of Great Britain, the Royal Dutch Air Lines, France, and Japan all are bidding for the oriental air trade and are jealous of the efforts of the United States in that direction, it was reported, but cannot stop American aviation interests as long as there are American possessions available for landing bases.

Austria Nabs 12 Nazis; Sought Military Secrets

SALZBURG, Austria, May 13.—(AP)—Twelve Nazis, including the chauffeur of the Salzburg military commander, were arrested for illegal party propaganda. The police investigation revealed that the chauffeur had obtained military secrets from his commander's letter case during the short intervals when the officer left the car, and conveyed them to Germany.

THE "hair root" (papilla) rarely dies. Even in long-standing cases of baldness this inactive source of hair growth is alive and ready to respond to proper scientific stimulation. Thomas' treatment skillfully supplies this necessary stimulation and makes it possible for hair to push through the scalp and again grow normally. Local scalp disorders—such as extreme dryness or oiliness, dandruff, or irritable itching—which cause the "hair roots" to become inactive, are readily overcome by Thomas' treatment.

One of the huge fleet of giant power suction cleaners maintained by the Holland Furnace Company as a special service for home heating systems. Completely and inexpensively removes all furnace or boiler dirt. Holland made more than 200,000 cleanings last season

EASIER WAY TO GET RID OF FURNACE DIRT AND SOOT

Saves Drapes, Furnishings, Decorating . . Protects Furnace

AND right now is the time of year to do it . . . because a thorough furnace cleaning means that all other cleaning and decorating you do this spring and summer will be much easier and last much longer. And this just happens to be one of those housekeeping problems that one can't dodge.

Don't Count It An Expense

You either have it done and enjoy the cleanliness, or you pay for not having it done in extra cleaning bills for drapes, furnishings, and decorating . . what's more, your furnace needs the cleaning if it is to work efficiently.

Summer Harder On Furnace Than Winter

When you let your furnace fire go out for the summer, moisture combines with the soot and ash dirt to eat away smoke pipes and corrode castings. It's costly to neglect this feature, for it invariably means expensive repairs.

Soot A Real Enemy And Fire Hazard

Soot not only acts as an insulator to waste lots of your fuel, it also prevents your entire heating system from working properly.

Another reason for getting rid of all soot and dirt is the fire hazard involved. Fire chiefs agree that most residential fires during the heating season are caused by dirty heating plants and chimneys. A Holland cleaning is your best safeguard.

Holland Does A Thorough Job

Last season Holland cleaned more than 200,000 heating systems . . . of all kinds. The company maintains the finest crews and equipment in the heating industry. The purpose of this service is to build good will for Holland warm-air heating. You can be absolutely sure of a thorough job.

PROMISE CLAMP ON ASSEMBLY TO GET VOTING BILL

Hearing on Registration Measure Today.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Permanent registration of voters to purge elections of fraud and to protect the honest voter is to be the object of another drive today upon the legislature at Springfield. Elmer J. Schnackenburg and other Republican house leaders upon departing for the capital last night said there would be no relaxation in the filibuster which last week had the house tied up tighter than a drum on all measures except serial voting on the 3 cent sales tax, which is set for its fourth installment this week.

Another hearing on the registration bills is to be held today by the house subcommittee, which for weeks has held the measures snuggled to its chest. Officials from downstate cities with election boards are to be heard.

Women Voters to Attend.

The Illinois League of Women Voters, sponsor of the Schnackenburg bill for permanent registry in Chicago and other election board cities, is holding its state convention at Springfield and is expected to have a large delegation at the hearing. The Chicago Association of Commerce and other civic bodies are to have representatives.

Before the subcommittee are two types of permanent registration measures. The Schnackenberg bill applies the principle to Chicago and other cities under the election board act. The Koehler bill, from the Democrats, is for state-wide permanent registration, compulsory on all counties.

Supporters of the election bills declare that unless the bills are reported out of committee and placed on the house calendar so that the members may vote them up or down, the filibuster will be clamped on all the harder.

Leaders Fear Special Session.

Only seven weeks remain for the legislature before it runs into the July 1 date, on which new laws take effect unless passed as emergency measures with a two-thirds vote. So far little of importance has come through the mill. At the statehouse there is uneasiness that if the filibuster to force a vote on honest elections should be protracted through a tie-up of the registration bills, a special session would loom up.

None of the big appropriation bills to enable the state government to operate during the next two years has been enacted. The calendars are filled with other bills, mostly small fry; not a wheel was stirring in the house except on sales tax for two legislative days last week, and perturbation is rampant among the state officials and the legislature is in a logjam.

In case the committee does not report out the registration bills today an effort might be made to take them by a house vote from the hands of the committee and put them on the calendar. This, however, would depend upon how many Democrats indicate they are ready to vote for such a step.

COURT ASSURES FILM FUTURE OF CANINE ACTOR

Los Angeles, Cal., May 13.—(AP)—The film future of Kazan, valuable police dog which has appeared in many motion pictures, was assured today by a court decision.

Bankruptcy Referee Earl Moss approved an offer by which creditors of Jack King, Kazan's owner, agree the dog is to stay with his master, the creditors to take 25 per cent of the dog's earnings until 35 per cent of their claims are satisfied.

The decision wrote a happy ending to a grave situation for King and his prized animal. Creditors threatened to take the dog to satisfy claims aggregating $14,000. King entered a desperate protest, claiming the dog would not act for any one else and was likely to bite any one who attempted to train him.

Today's decision was a victory for Mrs. Leslie Carter, elderly actress, who took over 99 per cent of creditors' claims as assignee and employed a lawyer for King.

SCHOOL BOARD ACCEPTS ELGIN PUPIL DEMANDS

The Elgin board of education, at a meeting last night, formally ratified an agreement to retain two members of the Elgin High school faculty in whose behalf 1,000 students went on strike last week. The strike was ended on Thursday, after being in effect two days, when the board bowed to the will of students.

Those for whom the students struck are T. A. Larsen, assistant principal, and Clifton E. Adams, director of athletics. Originally the board of education had decided not to renew Adams' contract and to demote Larsen to a teaching job. When the students presented a petition for their retention the board agreed to reconsider, but the students went on strike anyhow to show how they felt.

JUDGE KAVANAGH IS DROPPED FROM COALITION PLANS

G. O. P. Decides Not to Renominate Him.

BY PARKE BROWN.

If a joint Democratic-Republican slate is agreed on for the judicial election of July 1, the name of one sitting Superior court judge will be omitted from the slate. At a meeting of the Republican county central committee at the Bismarck hotel yesterday an understanding was reached that Judge Marcus A. Kavanagh, 75 year old veteran, will not be renominated.

The committee also recognized the possibility that Judge Harry A. Lewis, whose term does not expire until 1937, will not be agreed upon for the new Superior court place created to do away with the "solitary judge" election that year.

Judge David M. Brothers, a third Republican considered endangered because of his 74 years and his health, will be on the slate if the Republicans have the deciding voice in his case. The committee voted to back him in the negotiations with the Democrats which are to be resumed today.

35 Candidates Suggested.

In view of the situation in reference to these three judges, the Republican committee received from its ward committeemen the names of possible candidates for the one, two, or possibly three places that may be considered open by the conferees. The list was as follows:

Oscar F. Nelson	Charles M. Thomson
John F. Tyrrell	William L. Morgan
Daniel A. Roberts	Harry Smitz
William E. Helander	Roy C. Woods
Louis J. Beban	Samuel L. Golan
John T. Dempsey	John W. Ellis
Charles E. Peace	John J. Lupe
John Sbarbaro	George A. Curran
George A. Miller	William D. Saltiel
James W. Breen	Samuel Heller
William H. Haines	Max Luster
Robert W. Dunn	Allen E. Roban
Frank A. Leonard	Paul W. Fogue
Harry A. Riley	Goodwin L. Dosland
Edgar E. Elder	Frank C. Rathje
Hector A. Bronillet	Clarence Bergstrom
Harry H. Porter	Benjamin J. Zatz
Edgar A. Jonas

Names Submitted Hurriedly.

The list includes present and former municipal judges, masters in chancery, ward committeemen and others who have attained various degrees of prominence. Many of the names were submitted on the spur of the moment.

Among the Republicans there is no thought that Judge William V. Brothers, who was nominated for the state Supreme court vacancy last Saturday, will run for that office. He was not consulted before his nomination.

It is considered likely that the Republicans will have difficulty in finding any outstanding man to oppose the Democratic nominee, Judge Francis S. Wilson. The only name heard discussed yesterday was that of Charles W. Hadley of Wheaton.

Com. Reinburg Nominated for Coast Guard Captaincy

Commander Le Roy Reinburg, who took charge of the Chicago division of the United States coast guard two months ago, received word yesterday that President Roosevelt had designated him for promotion to the rank of captain. The nomination was sent to the senate, where it must be confirmed.

BAN ON CLIQUES AND DEMAGOGS AT G. O. P. PARLEY

Five Leaders Allot Illinois 2,025 Delegates.

A call to Republican county chairmen to avoid factionalism, cliques, reactionaries and demagogues in the choosing of delegates to the "Grass-roots" G. O. P. midwest conference at Springfield June 10 and 11 was issued yesterday by the five Illinois signers of the call for the meeting.

"Only unselfish Republicans should be placed on these delegations," says the announcement, in reiterating the official call a week ago. "All such Republicans who can should participate; a real cross section of Republican thought is desired. If cliques or factions are encountered, they must be avoided or coördinated.

No Place for Reactionary.

"It is especially understood that there shall be no place in this conference for the selfish reactionary, neither shall there be a place for the equally selfish radical or self-seeking demagogue.

"In its deliberations this conference will not be guided by political expediency. It will promote principles and measures, not men. It will have nothing to do with candidates nor the personal ambitions of any man or set of men."

Under yesterday's call 2,025 delegates are to be designated from Illinois to the conference. Each is to have one-fifth of a vote, or a total of 405 full votes. There will be 1,500 full votes allotted to the states joining in the conference, including Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Wisconsin. All G. O. P. state committeemen and committeewomen, all county chairmen and chairwomen, and all state committeemen and county chairmen or the young Republicans and of Republican ex-service men are designated in the call as accredited delegates.

The number of delegates to which each county is entitled is based on the Republican vote for President in 1932.

Ask Coöperation of All Groups.

The call, which asks the coöperation of all groups, is signed by Justus L. Johnson, Aurora; Noble B. Judah, Chicago; E. A. Hayes, Decatur; Mary Silvis, Rock Island, and Frank L. Smith, Dwight. Each convention, county or district is to certify its list of delegates not later than June 1 to Jacob D. Allen at the Abraham Lincoln hotel, Springfield.

U. S. SUPREME COURT POSTPONES RULINGS ON NRA CODE, FARMS, TOO

Washington, D. C., May 13.—(AP)—The Supreme court pounded home anew its flat that colored persons may not be excluded from juries, but that court failed to rule on two controverted laws—NRA and the farm mortgage moratorium.

In a twenty minute session the high tribunal set aside a death sentence imposed on Jess Hollins, Oklahoma colored man convicted of criminal assault on a white woman; ruled on four other minor cases, and granted two of nineteen petitions for review.

Then the court announced it would deliver decisions on the next two Mondays of May and the first Monday of June.

Chief Justice Hughes delivered the 170 word unanimous decision in the Hollins appeal from Okmulgee county, Oklahoma. It sent the case back for further proceedings. That will mean a new trial.

Hughes cited directly the court's recent Scottsboro, Ala., opinion setting aside a death sentence imposed on Clarence Norris for alleged attack on white women on the grounds that Norris had been deprived of constitutional rights because colored persons had been excluded from jury service.

METHODISTS HIT NEW DEAL; ALSO CAPITALISM

New York, May 13.—[Special.]—Sweeping criticisms of the New Deal administration of President Roosevelt were made public today in the annual social service report at the New York east conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

A vote was called for one section of the report recommending that members of the church "refuse participation in war or war preparations." This section was approved by a vote of 110 to 21.

The report assailed the New Deal for failing to fulfill "the high sounding prophecies of the economic temple cleansers," and for serving "blindly" a system of "exploitation" for private profits.

The report asserted that unless family incomes of from $3,000 to $10,000 were made possible, the present economic system "must declare its intellectual and moral bankruptcy."

"The twenty-five months of strenuous effort under the New Deal to reform the system has only proved that it is beyond reform," the report continued. "The conviction grows, therefore, that capitalism must be discarded and a planned Christian economy established."

In a reference to Postmaster General James A. Farley the report condemned his "Tammany-trained tactics," which it said "more than neutralize the high sounding phrases of the White House."

FRANCE, RUSSIA MOVE TO BUILD PEACE STRUCTURE

Laval and Litvinov Seek Eastern Europe Pact.

MOSCOW, May 13.—(AP)—Foreign ministers of France and Russia today studied ways to build some permanent eastern European peace structure upon the foundation laid with the signing of the Franco-Russian mutual assistance pact.

A 90 minute conference between Pierre Laval of France and Maxim Litvinov of Soviet Russia, each accompanied by his staf of experts, was devoted largely, reliable sources said, to discussion of proposals to supplement the pact with an eastern agreement for non-aggression, consultation and nonassistance to an aggressor.

Russians Cheer Laval.

Arriving from Warsaw this morning, Laval received one of the most enthusiastic welcomes ever given any visiting statesman. Crowds lining the mile from the railway station to his hotel applauded vigorously as he passed.

While Marshal Pilsudski's death in Poland failed to dampen the ardor of Moscow's welcome, it did throw an atmosphere of official regret about the start of the conversations and give Laval and Litvinov still another problem to discuss.

No indication as to their views concerning possible changes in Poland's foreign policy was given, however, although it was understood the Frenchman in reporting on his conversations at Warsaw said he believed Poland would be willing to expand her system of nonaggression pacts already including agreement with Russia and Germany.

Nazis Offer Alternative.

The reich, it was recalled, refused to join the "eastern Locarno" originally proposed by France. Adolf Hitler, nevertheless, informed the Anglo-French-Italian conference at Stresa, Italy, that he would enter an eastern European nonaggression accord even though other nations had mutual assistance agreements among themselves.

If Germany accepts the new Franco-Russian proposal discussed today, it was stated, Poland probably would do likewise. Whether they would agree to consultation with other powers in case of aggression and refrain from helping an aggressor, however, apparently remained an open question.

FLEET DIVIDED TO STAGE GREAT MIMIC BATTLE

43 Planes Join "Black" Group in Pacific.

ABOARD U. S. S. PENNSYLVANIA, PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii, May 13.—(AP)—Arrival of 43 naval patrol planes at a point some 1,200 miles west of here after a great massed flight and a change in the high command of "white" naval forces were announced today as new orders were awaited in the navy's great war game on the Pacific ocean.

The planes took off from Pearl Harbor Thursday and their progress was covered with deep official secrecy in simulation of actual war conditions.

Admiral Harris Laning took over control of the "white" fleet, while Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, who brought the main battle force here from San Pedro, Cal., will assume the rôle of chief umpire in the maneuvers.

Cluverius Heads Supplies.

The airplane fleet, which arrived at an undisclosed point, joined outposts of the "black fleet," commanded by Vice Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn. Forces of this fleet, which opposes the "white fleet" in the war games, are concentrated somewhere near the Aleutian Islands of western Alaska.

The "white fleet" successfully brought a train of 20 base supply ships under Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius to Pearl Harbor. A large marine expeditionary force with one aircraft carrier already has come more than half way across the Pacific from San Diego.

Cruise in Good Weather.

For the fleet southern sector the maneuvers have brought pleasant cruising, marred only by collision of the destroyers Lea and Sicard early Sunday morning with one death, and the fall of a navy airplane which killed another man.

Somewhere between Midway Islands and Honolulu or to the north a "zero hour" contact of opposing forces is due, but when or how it will occur is something the commanders of the "white" and "black" fleets do not know.

Evanston Burglary Solved by Arrest of Two Youths

One recent burglary was solved by the Evanston police yesterday through the arrest Sunday of Homer Grinde, 19 years old, or no permanent address, and Alton Howe, 18, of Aberdeen, S. D. The two were arrested after they had tried to break into the home of Alexander G. Larson, 825 Milburn street in Evanston. A ring Grinde was wearing was found to have been stolen May 7 from the home of Eugene A. Bishop, 1304 Wesley avenue, Evanston. Grinde admitted that he and another homeless youth, Raymond Hatter, had obtained $732 in jewelry and silverware from the Bishop home. Hatter, he said, later disappeared with most of the loot.

FLEEING SUSPECT SHOT BY JUDGE AND POLICEMAN

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 26; recovered, 15; stripped, 2 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Sunday].

Police Magistrate James McBride and Constable John Griffin of Bellwood last night shot and wounded Nicholas Wlasalwsch, 20 years old, 710 North 19th avenue, Melrose Park, when Wlasalwsch tried to escape at the Bellwood police station after he was arrested as an automobile thief. He was taken to the Westlake hospital.

The magistrate and Griffin saw the youth riding in a car, which they suspected was stolen, at 20th avenue and Main street, Melrose Park, and took him into custody. Both fired at him when he made his break for freedom, one bullet striking him in the arm and one in the left leg.

Shortly afterward Lloyd Church, 340 East 8th avenue, Hinsdale, reported that his automobile, which he had parked in the Hinsdale business section, had been stolen. This was the car in which Wlasalwsch was riding.

Constable Griffin was kidnaped last August by gangsters, beaten and shot and left for dead. He recovered from his wounds and two Cicero gangsters, Edward Konowski and Edward Piranio, were sentenced to prison last October for the attack.

HELD ON 8 ROBBERY CHARGES.

Neal Rosenblom, 17 years old, 2838 North Albany avenue, former Lane High school student, was held to the grand jury in $80,000 bonds on eight charges of robbery by Municipal Judge Lambert K. Hayes in the Boys' court yesterday.

No other cigar at any price guarantees Vintage quality

For the tobacco fields are just like the vineyards—they depend on the whims of nature. Only when nature favors—in a Vintage year—is the tobacco crop at its best—then the leaf becomes richer.

That's where White Owl is unique among cigars. The filler of this mild, mellow cigar is always made from Vintage quality tobacco . . . and a Vintage mark on the inside cover of every box is your guarantee. No other cigar—at any price—gives you this assurance.

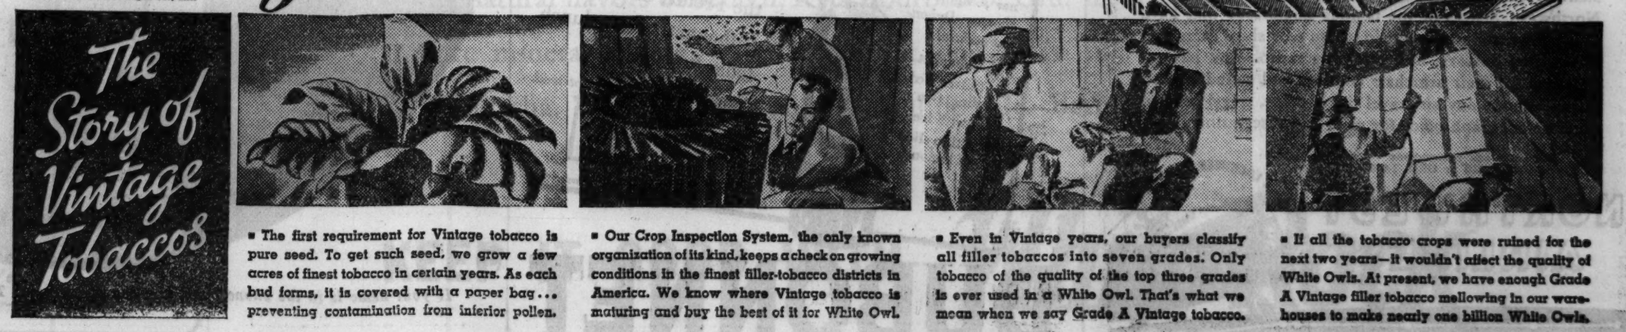
Vintage WHITE OWL - 5¢

Copr., 1935, General Cigar Co., Inc.



▪ The first requirement for Vintage tobacco is pure seed. To get such seed, we grow a few acres of finest tobacco in certain years. As each bud forms, it is covered with a paper bag . . . preventing contamination from inferior pollen.

▪ Our Crop Inspection System, the only known organization of its kind, keeps a check on growing conditions in the finest filler-tobacco districts in America. We know where Vintage tobacco is maturing and buy the best of it for White Owl.

▪ Even in Vintage years, our buyers classify all filler tobaccos into seven grades. Only tobacco of the quality of the top three grades is ever used in a White Owl. That's what we mean when we say Grade A Vintage tobacco.

▪ If all the tobacco crops were ruined for the next two years—it wouldn't affect the quality of White Owls. At present, we have enough Grade A Vintage filler tobacco mellowing in our warehouses to make nearly one billion White Owls.

Accusations Are Made in Girl's Affidavit.

brother-in-law, Harry Finnegan, offering him a position to serve as an assistant in the treasury department to control the letting of public contracts and stated that, if he were not given the promotion and contract demanded, he would control the government's business in favor of other concerns and use the connection which he had with Farley to the disadvantage of rather than to the profit of the said Stewart firm."

The affidavit says Watts' demands were met by the Stewarts, but that they called in the deponent and instructed her to listen to all telephone conversations made by Watts and report regularly upon them.

Says Farley Made Calls.

"That the said Watts was often called, not only by Farley and Farley's secretaries both in Washington and in New York," the affidavit continues.

"And said Watts was called and called upon by the said Farley's brother-in-law, Finnegan, and said Watts was in frequent conversation on calls made by said Watts with said Farley and his said aids, and on one occasion the said Farley called the said Watts from a pay station to avoid any chance of detection, all of which covered a wide range of matters having to do with the manipulating of government business and grants and contracts among which were included the following:

"1. How insurance premiums in which Farley was interested should be given to one J. L. Nolan and the particulars thereof.

"2. The awarding and placing of orders for marble on the federal office building in New York.

"3. The making of arrangements for meeting Farley and Watts while Farley was in New York and the designation of the time and place of meetings.

Charges Concern Shown.

"4. For the giving of certain materials to various concerns in which Farley disclosed interest and concern.

"5. For $303,000 to be given to the Raisler Heating company, in which Farley indicated his interest, which said Watts indicated had been done as per orders.

"6. Conversations relative to valuable stamps being given by Farley to Watts; later pay station calls from Farley to Watts that the matter was in serious shape; Watts' information that the stamps had been given as per understanding to one Randolph Cook, with the Pennsylvania Railroad company, for business to be had from the railroad to the said Stewart firm; Watts' calls to Cook, which failed to materialize, later Watts calls Eiseman with the same railroad office in Philadelphia, whereby information came that said stamps had been deposited in a bank as security for a loan, with resultant later printing of stamps to undo the harm.

"7. That Farley had managed to grab all the papers and correspondence between Ickes, Green, and Glavis [which occurred about the time said papers were being called for in Washington for investigation], and that Farley desired that Watts should come over to the New York office of Farley to go over the matters."

Declares Files Removed.

The affidavit concludes that, pursuant to these telephone calls, the entire files of the Stewart company were removed, part of them being destroyed, and a new filing system installed.

The Glavis referred to is the chief investigator in Secretary Ickes' Public Works administration, who made an investigation of the contacts for the New York federal courthouse and the postoffice annex building, both held by the Stewarts.

"But you didn't have the Glavis report," Long said today. "You had the papers that were left in there after they had rifled the files."

Elaborates on Stamp Incident.

Long elaborated on the stamp incident mentioned in the affidavit, saying Farley demanded the return of the stamps "when it got too hot for him," but that they were hypothecated for a bank loan and he couldn't get them.

"I am told that this Randolph Cook got $40,000 on them," Long said. "Farley's excuse for these stamp deals is that other postmaster generals have done the same thing. He says 'somebody stole a horse, therefore I should steal four.'"

The senate was kept in session until 6:15 p. m., with Senator McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], chairman of the postoffice committee, demanding that the debate proceed to a vote. Republicans objected, however, and unanimous consent was obtained to meet at 11 o'clock tomorrow and vote at 12:30. Long will divide control of the time with Senator McKellar.

'Pilfering' by Congressmen Bared in Legislative Bill

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—[Special.]—Some congressmen's habit of carting government typewriters back home should be stopped, in the opinion of South Trimble, clerk of the house of representatives.

Trimble's thoughts on the subject came to light today when the legislative appropriation bill was thrust into the house arena for debate and the hearings on the measure were made public.

They "Don't Know the Law."

"The biggest trouble we have with typewriters is due to the fact that members do not know the law on the subject and send them home. There ought to be some steps taken to stop that. It is against the law to take typewriters out of the house office building."

The hearings also brought out that silverware from the restaurant, engraved "House of Representatives," has been stolen in serious amounts, apparently for souvenir purposes.

Library Books Gone.

Moreover, congressional library officials have had to mark off as lost numerous books which congressmen have withdrawn and failed to return.

It also was told that franking privileges have been abused to the extent that two unnamed members had their franks temporarily taken away from them by the house accounts committee.

The bill that went to the house today carries an increase of $1,884,934 over last year. Chairman Louis Ludlow [Dem., Ind.] of the subcommittee told the house that the bulk of this amount was required to restore pay cuts.

Fund Increased by Million.

In order to restore the wages to a 100 per cent level the appropriation was increased $1,380,000 over last year and the remainder of the increase, Ludlow said, was caused by adjustments throughout the various services.

The bill provides appropriations for the senate, house, capitol police, joint committee on printing, joint committee on internal revenue taxation, the officers of legislative counsel, capitol architect, botanic gardens, library of congress, and the government printing office.

Among the items is an appropriation of $28,000 for painting the capitol dome and the central part of the building.

STATEMENTS DISAGREE

New York, May 13.—[Special.]—James Stewart & Co. issued the following statement regarding the affidavit submitted by a former employé to Senator Long and read by him in the senate:

"Miss Humphreys was employed as a telephone operator by this company and was discharged for disloyalty about a month ago. At that time she demanded $10,000 under threat that she would make trouble. She was paid nothing and apparently she has communicated with Senator Long. We hope that the senate will provide her an opportunity to establish the malicious falsity of her charges."

Denies Making Demands.

When the statement of the Stewart company was read to her Miss Humphreys said:

"I made no demands on Stewart & Co. for any money. I was instructed by J. C. Stewart, president of the company, two and a half years ago to listen to every call made by Mr. Watts [Harry D. Watts, vice president] and every call he received. He told me on several occasions that he would protect me and keep me as long as they had a business."

Miss Humphreys explained that she had been told that Mr. Watts forced the board of directors to permit her discharge by a threat of legal action because his telephone wire had been tapped. She added:

"They stood by and let this man fire me. He gave me the privilege of resigning, but I refused. He offered me $600 on leaving and told me it was hush money, but I didn't take anything. I did not even get two weeks' pay to which I am entitled."

BILL OFFERED TO PERMIT U. S. TO BUILD DAMS

Washington, D. C., May 13.—(AP)—Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] today introduced a bill authorizing the President to construct Parker dam, the Grand Coulee dam, and 28 other structures undertaken by the Public Works administration. Construction of them was placed in doubt by a recent Supreme court decision holding that Parker dam was not authorized by law.

The bill was in two sections, the first mentioning specifically Parker and Grand Coulee dams, and the second a blanket authorization for like works begun by the Public Works administration.

The bill would validate contracts already entered into by the President through the Public Works administration on all these projects, authorize him to construct canals and other supplemental works in connection with them, and to amend any contract or enter any new contract connected with the work.

EDITORS ARE TO PAY FREEDOM OF PRESS TRIBUTE TO LOVEJOY

Waterville, Me., May 13.—(AP)—Journalists will gather Saturday at Colby college to honor the contribution to the cause of freedom of the press made by Elijah Parish Lovejoy, a native of Maine and a Colby college alumnus, who was killed by a mob in Alton, Ill., in 1837.

Lovejoy, a stanch opponent of slavery, was killed by gunfire as the mob attacked his building and set fire to it.

Several times previously his printing presses had been destroyed by those who differed with him on the slavery question.

Guests will include Jerome Barnum of the Syracuse [N. Y.] Post Standard, newly elected president of the American Newspaper Publishers' association. John D. McAdams, Alton, Ill., newspaper publisher, also will be a guest.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and Howard Davis of the New York Herald-Tribune, as well as other prominent editors, will attend.

Accused in Robles Case; Makes Plea of Not Guilty

Tucson, Ariz., May 13.—(AP)—Oscar H. Robson, former Tucson dance hall operator, pleaded not guilty today before Federal Judge Albert Sames on a charge of sending threatening letters through the mails with intent to extort.

Robson was released on $5,000 bond.

SNELL ATTACKS NEW DEAL RULE ON HOUSE FLOOR

Administration Is Failure, He Declares.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—[Special.]—In one of the most biting speeches against the New Deal in the 74th congress Minority Leader Bertrand Snell [Rep., N. Y.] told the house of representatives today that major policies of the administration had failed "miserably and completely" with the result that disaster is impending.

Snell asserted that the Roosevelt administration was inconsistent with the existing economic system and obnoxious to the American individual.

"Had this administration not attempted foolishly to fly in the face of economic laws and discarded sound policies in order to set up a haphazard system of experimentation," the minority leader contended, "we would not now be compelled to admit that in so far as material recovery is concerned, the rank and file of the American people are in far worse shape than they were when the New Deal began its experiment."

Says Little Fellow Suffers.

The NRA, Snell charged, had fostered unfair competition "whereby the big fellow was permitted to eat the little fellow up."

"The NRA has operated to the economic deaths of hundreds of small business and industrial concerns, bankrupted their owners, and driven their employés onto the streets, into the ranks of the idle and, most likely, into the bread lines and on the public relief rolls," he said.

The PWA was characterized by Snell as the greatest failure of any of the New Deal agencies.

"No agency of the government," he charged, "has been so influenced by political motives and allocated and disbursed public funds from so partisan a standpoint, without regard to the value or need of projects financed, as has the PWA."

Snell quoted figures as proof that the New Deal has increased the interest bearing public debt by more than nine and a half billion dollars, that the ordinary operating expenses of government are 600 millions greater this year than last and that 117,000 pay rollers had been added through burocracy.

Fails to Bring Recovery.

The New Deal with all this expenditure, the minority leader said, has not brought about recovery, has not relieved unemployment, has not increased foreign trade, has not raised wages, and has not reduced the mortgage indebtedness of the agricultural classes.

In a brief reply to the charges Representative William Arnold [Dem., Ill.] declared that the speech was the Republican "opening gun" for the 1936 presidential campaign. He said that Snell had presented no constructive suggestions and the Republicans couldn't win on criticism.

100,000 WEEP AT PALACE OF DEAD POLISH DICTATOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, May 13.—A crowd of 100,000 devoted men, women, and children stood weeping tonight in rail and hail outside the gates of Belvedere palace, where Marshal Josef Pilsudski, dictator of Poland, died last night from cancer of the stomach. The crowd waited patiently with the hope of getting a last glimpse of the beloved marshal.

Although stunned by their hero's death, Warsaw went about its usual tasks in the morning and afternoon, but as dusk fell a spontaneous demonstration of homage to Pilsudski developed.

From all corners of the capital thousands of members of patriotic, civil organizations, and trade unions converged on the palace.

Police Are Summoned.

Extra details of police were summoned to untangle the wost trafic jam in the history of the city. The mourners refused to turn back. Hours passed before a parade was formed in an orderly fashion. Each group passed the palace, where flag bearers dipped their colors in a final salute to their leader. When the procession broke up the participants slowly wandered back to the palace in the cold and rain. They were reluctant to leave.

Flags draped in crêpe hung at half staf from every building, both public and private, in the nation. All officials have been ordered to wear black arm bands and observe deep mourning for six weeks.

Pilsudski's state funeral is expected to be held at Cracow either next Sunday or Monday. It is expected the body will be removed tomorrow to St. John's cathedral in Warsaw, where it will lie in state. Some delay was experienced in obtaining a crystal coffin, which the government has decided will be its last present to the man who disliked to accept public favors during his lifetime and who died leaving his widow and two daughters practically penniless.

To Be Buried in Castle.

Premier Walery Slawek is in charge of the funeral arrangements. It was proposed that Pilsudski be buried at Walwel, castle of Polish kings, at Cracow. His tomb will be near that of Gen. Thaddeus Kosciuszko, who won fame in the American revolution.

The cabinet has decided to build a monument to Pilsudski similar to the one erected for Kosciuszko near Cracow. A huge mound will be constructed from earth brought from all parts of Poland. Instead of bringing wreaths, organizations are asked to donate cash for the construction of the mound. The cabinet has appropriated $1,000.

Pilsudski's remains tonight rest in three caskets—his body, which is destined to be buried at Cracow; his heart, which he had ordered placed at the feet of his mother, and his brain, which he had donated to science.

Realizing that death was near, Pilsudski a week ago sent his adjutant, Capt. Lepecki, to Lithuania to obtain the Lithuanian government's permission to remove the body of his mother, who was a Lithuanian, to Vilna, where he desired that she be reburied with his heart at her feet. The request was granted.

Two Final Gestures.

In this manner Pilsudski made his last gesture of friendship toward his mother's country. Warsaw interpreted this act of homage to his mother as one intended to emphasize that Vilna shall remain Polish soil.

The government today announced it will continue to function as though Pilsudski were alive. The authority of the dictator has passed to his lifelong friends, President Ignace Moscicki, Premier Slawek, Foreign Minister Josef Beck and Gen. Edward Rydz-Smigly. The general was summoned to the bedside of the dying marshal last Friday for a private conversation concerning Poland's destinies. The appointment of Gen. Rydz-Smigly as Pilsudski's successor as inspector general of the army was in accordance with the marshal's command.

The government denied any changes were impending. It announced that both the internal and foreign policies which Pilsudski inaugurated will be followed faithfully by the men he had trained for executive positions.

Political Will Reported.

Government circles declined to discuss reports that the 67 year old dictator had left a political will appointing a military and political successor.

Mme. Alexandra Pilsudska, the marshal's widow, suffered a heart attack this morning. Physicians announced her condition was "unsatisfactory." They said she had exhausted herself taking care of her husband during his long illness.

With but two important exceptions Poland's newspapers donned mourning for the man who curbed their freedom in 1926. The Socialist Robotnik appeared without a black bordered front page, while the Gazeta Warszawska not only failed to display this sign of mourning, but treated the death of the dictator as ordinary news, not even publishing his picture.

Police Guard Offices.

The offices of the Gazeta Warszawska were guarded by the police to prevent a hostile demonstration. This newspaper represents the National Democratic party, one of the strongest parties in Poland. It was bitterly opposed to Pilsudski, having attacked him personally and politically for years.

The leader of this party is the famous pianist and former premier, Ignace Jan Paderewski, who is now living in self-imposed exile in Switzerland. Although he labored with Pilsudski for Poland's independence, no telegram of sympathy was received from him late tonight.

TURKEY SEEKS RIGHT TO ARM DARDANELLES

BUCHAREST, May 13.—(AP)—Turkey served notice today on the states constituting the Balkan pact that she intends to demand at the forthcoming Rome conference [June 3] the right to refortify the Dardanelles. She will seek a new convention on rearmament of the famous straits connecting Europe and Asia to replace the international convention signed at Lausanne in 1929.

At the Balkan pact conference today, Tewfik Rushdi Bey, Turkish foreign minister said Turkey demands the right not only to have mobile police all along both sides of the Dardanelles, but also airplane bases, underseа mines, submarine stations, underground military defenses and a network of modern communications. This would make the Dardanelles even more formidable than they were before the world war.

Tewfik argued that the Lausanne agreement is not a peace treaty but a convention susceptible to amendment.

Report Yevtich to Resign as Jugo-Slav Premier

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, May 13.—(AP)—Premier Bojoljub Yevtich, it was learned reliably tonight, intends to resign the premiership soon because of the large vote polled by the opposition in the recent parliamentary elections. It appeared probable, however, that Yevtich will continue to hold his portfolio of foreign affairs. It was thought likely that the regency will ask Brojidar Stoianovitch to head a new government.

GERMANS MOURN LOSS OF STANCH ALLY—PILSUDSKI

Nazis See in His Death a Blow to Peace.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 13.—Nazi Germany today showed her gratitude to Josef Pilsudski, the only man who signed a pact with her, by displaying mourning second only to the grief expressed at the death of President Paul von Hindenburg.

Flags on all government buildings were at half staf. The leading members of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's cabinet will go to Poland to attend the state funeral of the marshal.

Columns praising the "greatest Pole in history" appeared on the front pages of newspapers. Readers were given to understand that this great patriot lived and acted according to the principles of National Socialism in his resurrection work for Poland.

No Mention of Humiliations.

No mention was made of the Polish corridor, of Silesia, or the provinces Germany lost to Poland, of how Pilsudski seized Poznan, and the humiliations which millions of Germans swore to avenge before Poland and Germany signed their pact of friendship and nonaggression.

"The Polish-German pact is more valuable to peace in Europe than all the efforts of diplomatic busybodies who are exhausting their energy working on dangerous treaty plans right now," writes the majority of the press.

"Pilsudski's death introduces a new factor of insecurity in the European political situation," says the National Zeitung, voicing an alarm felt by many.

The uneasiness was increased by reports that soviet Russian officers in Lithuania are reconnoitering and planning to build military airports on the East Prussian border as "Red bases of attack."

Emphasize Soviet Threat.

"Pilsudski knew of the threatening shadow projected over his country from the east" says the Lokalanzeiger. "He knew that a peaceful understanding with Germany meant much for his country. Until the last day his great, strong soul was full of misgivings about the fate of his country."

Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, reichsminister of air and premier of Prussia, in recent conversations repeatedly stated with convincing sincerity that Poland and Germany are meant to be allies.

"Poland, with her great agricultural wealth and need of industrial products, and Germany, with her shortage of footstuffs and surplus of manufactured goods, are ideal partners," he explained. "They are both soldier nations and respect each other as such."

The delegation which will go to attend Pilsudski's funeral intends to do everything in its power to strengthen the friendship of the two nations.

Britain Sees No Change.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 13.—Little apprehension of unfavorable developments as a result of the death of Marshal Josef Pilsudski, dictator of Poland, was felt in England today.

British diplomats believe the marshal arranged matters before his death and selected his successor in Gen. Edward Rydz-Smigly, who is well known in the diplomatic world. It is believed he will carry on Pilsudski's policy, particularly of German rather than French orientation and continued hostility to Russia.

NOTE OF CONDOLENCE IS SENT TO POLAND BY SECRETARY HULL

Washington, D. C., May 13.—[Special.]—A message of condolence on the death of Marshal Josef Pilsudski was sent today by Secretary of State Hull to Joseph Beck, foreign minister of Poland. It read as follows:

"I have learned with distress of the death of Marshal Josef Pilsudski and I offer your excellency the sincere condolences of the government and people of the United States. We in America have always had a particular admiration for the high qualities which enabled Marshal Pilsudski to labor so persistently and so successfully for the independence of his country. We share your grief that his career is ended."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, May 13.—Eight Japanese bombing planes yesterday circled over the town of Hinglung, located within Hopeh province, about 100 miles northeast of Peiping, for half an hour and dropped bombs on villages in that area where inhabitants were accused of harboring members of the so-called Big Sword society.

Reports received here from Peiping through both Chinese and Japanese sources claim that numbers of the so-called bandits were killed, while the remnants are fleeing eastward along the Great Wall.

The Japanese report stated the inhabitants were warned against harboring the Big Sword society members, and were informed before the bombing of the Japanese intentions.

The Japanese planes belonged to an air squadron maintained at Chengteh, capital of Jehol province. Chinese papers stated the Big Sword society was organized for the purpose of harassing Japanese positions along the Great Wall.

Ethiopia's "Attitude of Hostility" Cited.

ROME, May 13.—(AP)—Italy dispatched mobilization notices today to soldiers of the class of 1912, numbering 200,000, a government spokesman citing Ethiopia's "evident attitude of hostility."

The spokesman announced Italy is ready to declare the names of her conciliators, chosen under the Italo-Ethiopian arbitration pact as soon as Ethiopia announces her readiness to do likewise.

Four Classes to Arms.

That Italy is determined to deal with the Ethiopian situation once and for all was indicated by an officially inspired first page article in the Giornale d'Italia asserting diplomatic pressure by England and France would have no effect on Italy and would merely result in giving moral aid to Ethiopia.

The mobilization notices called upon the men of the class of 1912 to represent themselves at concentration points May 17. Further notices also have gone out to members of the class of 1911. Whether the notices to the class of 1912, the only class between 1911 and 1914 not under arms, applies to the entire class, and whether the men have been summoned for real mobilization or merely in readiness for mobilization will not be known until an official communique is published.

May Hold War Council.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, May 13.—(AP)—Grave concern was expressed in government circles tonight over Italy's mobilization. An official said it is likely Emperor Haile Selassie will return to the capital at once from his inspection trip through the provinces and probably will summon a war council of tribal chiefs. Mussolini's action is regarded as an indication of impending hostilities as soon as the rainy season is ended in September.

Reports that Ethiopia was seeking military support from Turkey were branded as "Italian propaganda" by the ministry of foreign affairs.

Courts Turkey, Arabia.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 13.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia today was reported to have initiated efforts to secure Turkey as an ally in the event of war with Italy in sending to Ankara, Turkey, as chargé d'affaires his former secretary and close political adviser, Ato Berhan Markos.

At the same time it was reported that Pierre Petrides Papadopoulos, aid to Markos, will seek to enlist the aid of King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia and other Red sea powers in the Ethiopian cause. In sending Markos to Ankara the Ethiopian emperor for the first time established diplomatic relations between the two countries.

Papadopoulos appeared confident that by supporting Ethiopia against Italy, King Ibn Saud would be able to deliver a blow to the British policy in Arabia.

Repeats Protest.

GENEVA, May 13.—(AP)—Ethiopia, charging anew that Italy's "warlike preparations" in Africa "endanger international peace," today demanded immediate league of nations action on the Italo-Ethiopian border dispute.

Emperor Haile Selassie's latest note declared Italian concentration of troops and war materials in Eritrea and Italian Somaliland, which border on Ethiopia, "leaves no doubt as to the hostile intentions of Italy." It urged that the league deal with the issue at the assembly session opening May 20.

Fear Wreck of League.

PARIS, May 13.—(AP)—The fear that an Italo-Ethiopian war would lay the prestige of the league of nations in ruins today spurred French efforts to persuade Premier Mussolini to settle the delicate East African problems through abitration. The French statesmen have been in consultation with the British on the formulation of friendly representations to Rome.

MUSSOLINI SIGNS COMMERCIAL AIR PACT WITH PARIS

ROME, May 13.—(AP)—Gen. Victor Denain, French air minister, and Premier Mussolini signed a commercial air convention tonight and closed their discussion on the question of a military air pact.

An official communique said:

"Premier Mussolini and Gen. Denain have had several conversations, partly on conditions under which there could be carried out a project contemplated at London and Stresa toward a general air convention of mutual assistance."

The convention deals with the establishment of an air transport service between Rome and Paris, Paris and the Balkans, Tunis, Tripoli, Marseilles, and Beyreuth. The communique did not speak of a bilateral pact but military quarters on both sides revealed that such an agreement was reached.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

RETARDATION, NOT RECOVERY.

The majority opinion of the Supreme court in the railway compensation act, holding it unconstitutional, refers to criteria of reason and common sense. The opinion finds that the pretenses of the act did not conform to either. This was comment and not construction of law, but at the same time it was refreshing comment.

The New Deal has been operating upon prostrate industrialism and agriculture. Its theories and devices are judgeable upon two main counts, one of law and one of reason and common sense. What might be legal might be neither reasonable nor sensible. Although recovery was the magic word used in the beginning to justify the extraordinary behavior of the administration, the country was not long asleep before it awakened to discover that revolutionary social reform was the main objective. Recovery could be postponed. It could be and was deferred to the importunities of a social program not at all concerned with the immediate improvement of the people's welfare.

The economic and social M. D.'s had their patient down. He was bedridden and helpless. Before they would permit him to get up they proposed to perform major operations as experiments. Their diagnosis was a guess and a bad one, but the practitioners knew that this was their chance.

The railroad compensation act was one of these operations. In this case the patient was admittedly in a bad way. He has been kept alive by large doses of federal money, being made weaker at the same time by federal regulation. It is true that the patient's desperate situation inspired him with a desire to do something to help himself and under this inspiration he did break out of the apathy into which the government had forced him.

Although the railroads had no such chance as the automobile industry to compel a success in the teeth of the depression, they were inspired to improve their methods of operation, to devise and use better equipment, and to do what the automobile makers had done, offer the public more for its money in service. If the rails had not been held down, if they had been as free as the automobile makers, they might have made a greater success.

Whatever they did had no encouragement from the New Deal. The social planners proceeded to slap a scheme for social betterment upon the bedridden patient calculated to drain away his remaining vitality. There is no deficiency of public support for just and workable schemes to provide for old age. They exist in many of the great private enterprises of the country, including THE TRIBUNE. They will multiply and they will be improved if private enterprise is not crippled or destroyed by its enemies. But the pretenses of this social scheme, as the majority of the Supreme court finds, did not square with reason and common sense. The act, in the majority opinion, was invalid in law because it violated due process in taking other people's money and tried to do so by distortion of the interstate commerce act. In trying this the act committed itself to the numerous absurdities and inequities with which the court deals with proper impatience.

This scheme to be applied to the railroads is only one out of the fat portfolio of the New Deal. At a time when the country remains distressed and worried in a depression politically prolonged beyond its natural period the government in Washington is devoting itself to the imposition of new burdens upon enfeebled industry and upon the resources of the land. With the nation pleading for recovery and relief now, the government has a glassy eye fixed upon dubious benefits which might be obtained, if the schemes would work, in another generation. To initiate or conduct these experiments it is depriving private enterprise of all certainty and most confidence. It pursues visions of old age security, unemployment compensation and social security without regard for the effect its measures will have upon the struggling enterprise of the United States.

VICARIOUS GENEROSITY.

The plan to restore the former German colony of Southwest Africa to Germany seems to be fading away. Another scheme has appeared which will cost the British commonwealth, née empire, nothing and therefore probably has more chance of surviving. It is to substitute Liberia for Southwest Africa, now under mandate to the Union of South Africa.

That the Nazi régime will find Liberia an acceptable substitute for Southwest Africa as a poultice upon its injured pride does not seem likely. It will seem to the disinterested mind rather cheap of British South Africa to offer Liberia, a theoretically free state, as payment for the territory the British dominion holds as spoil of the European war. Of course, the transfer is to be sanctified by the usual altruistic pretensions. It is recommended as a means of pacifying if not wholly satisfying the German demand for colonies and at the same time rescuing the Liberians from their state of misery and mismanagement. To accomplish such desirable results without diminishing the domain of the British empire by an acre would be a transaction in the true tradition of British diplomacy, for which, we may say in passing, our admiration, though sardonic, is almost unlimited.

As for the preference of the Liberians—but why drag that in?

ON THE TRAIL OF MR. NASH.

Mr. Nash of the local Democracy seems to have become a fugitive from inquiry. At this writing he has been sought for several days by reporters who in the public interest would like to have him say why he is opposed to the permanent registration bill.

Mr. Nash is not a member of the legislature, but he is supposed to be the boss of the political situation. As boss he is true to the old fashioned type. He says little for public use, appears as an innocent bystander at certain general and inconsequential ceremonies, keeps his headquarters under his hat, and his counsels for little intimate gatherings which are not reported in the prints.

Members of the legislature who should know what they are talking about say that the objection to the permanent registration bill is that Mr. Nash doesn't like it. That can be accepted as true and it makes the unobtrusive political boss quite an important fellow. Mr. Nash is playing true to the old political form when he says privately what he wants and doesn't want and then scoots for a hideout to avoid embarrassing explanations.

The rule of the old boss was to be seldom seen and never heard except by the right persons. The boys in the back room were supposed to be able to take a good deal of bouncing back and forth, stand the punishment of public opinion, and do as they were told. If they were too weak in backbone and too thin skinned to do this, other boys would be found who could stand the punishment. The old style boss has been withdrawn from currency somewhat in these days. If Mr. Nash doesn't like the permanent registration idea, it having so much solid support given by citizens who want honest elections, he should be able to make an argument for his side and come out in the open with it.

THE PERKINS CLUB.

Every owner of a small business who hopes to operate his enterprise upon his own responsibility, unhampered by the blundering tyranny of burocrats or the legalized chiseling of his competitors, should join the Perkins club. The organization was founded by Fred Perkins, the Pennsylvania battery manufacturer, whom an NRA code authority, dominated by his larger competitors, sent to jail and tried to put out of business. The club is dedicated to the protection of all little business men against similar outrages. The Perkins case demonstrated effectively what is possible under the present NRA law. Any small merchant or manufacturer who will read the proposed revision of the law, now before congress, with its hypocritical phrasing, which seeks to permit what it pretends to forbid, will have added reason for joining an organization to protect his livelihood.

ANOTHER "GOTTA DRAG" STAR.

We find something extraordinary in the insistence of Judge David M. Brothers in carrying on his private automobile an "I gotta drag star." He maintains that he is entitled to the privilege, whatever that may be, because one-half of his salary is paid by the state and the law against these emblems exempts state officials. Irrespective of the merits of his contention or the suggestion that he is entitled to only a half star, it occurs to us that the only possible reason for displaying the symbol is to secure privileges not enjoyed by other citizens. The very existence of the star would contradict any contention that it has no value to the occupant of the car unless for a display of vanity incompatible with the dignity of a justice of the Superior court.

BACTERIOLOGICAL WAR.

[Peoria Transcript.]

Speculation on what the next war will be like always gets around to the subject of bacteriological aerial warfare. Military authorities differ greatly as to the possible use of bacteria as a weapon in any future conflict.

Keen-minded strategists who have an eye for the political and economic aspects of war as well as for its strictly military phases have pointed out, however, that bacteria are too dangerous for general use.

If used in sufficient quantity to cripple an enemy, these authorities point out, bacteria would make the country almost uninhabitable. Victorious troops could not occupy the country and there would not be enough of the economic machinery of the nation left to exact indemnities to pay for war. Bacteriological warfare thus would ruin all possible economic and political gain from war.

At the same time the use of bacteria would be a constant danger to the nation employing it. In crowded Europe, demoralized by warfare, it would be practically impossible to prevent the spread of dreaded diseases from an enemy country all over the continent. As it is, every army loses more men from disease than from actual fighting.

The only place that bacteria might be used successfully would be in a war of wanton destruction for revenge in which the aggressor had no hope for material gain through conquest. Then they could be used safely if one nation were separated from another by large bodies of water or large expanses of intervening territory.

EXPLAINED AT LAST.

The minister met Tom, the village ne'er-do-well, and much to the latter's surprise shook him heartily by the hand.

"I'm so glad you have turned over a new leaf, Thomas," said the good man. "I was delighted to see you at the prayer meeting last night."

"O," said Tom, after a moment of doubt. "So that's where I was."—Arcanum Bulletin.

Johnny—Dad, you say the Saar has gone to Germany now?"

Johnny—But what will the Russians say?

Dad—The Russians! What have they to do with it?

CULTURAL THOUGHT for the Day—May 14. Nothing very important happened on this day, but tonight at the dinner party you can show how very clever you are by remarking to the person on the right or left of you, whose turn it is to listen to you for a few sad minutes: "Oh, it's May 14 today, and yesterday was the 13th! Which always reminds me of Seneca." And your neighbor will probably look like he's going to ask why you wanted to bring that up, but instead he will say: "Yeah, I was in that damplace once, and the boob cop pinched me for being stewed and running my car through a drug store window. And I hadn't had more'n four or five cocktails." Then you say lightly: "Oh, I didn't mean Seneca Falls in New York. I meant Seneca of Rome." "Well, Rome's in New York. Anyhow, Seneca is just a pain in the neck to me, for besides wrecking my car in that Seneca Falls place I bet ten bucks once on a horse named Seneca at Jamaica and the darned skate hasn't come in yet."

Now you make haste to explain that you meant Seneca the great philosopher, and before your neighbor can ring in any more Senecas that give him heartburn tell him that Seneca was exiled to Corsica on May 13 (that was yesterday), and that his full name was Lucius Annaeus Seneca, and that he was the teacher of Nero. Your neighbor will brighten up and ask you if he taught Nero to play the fiddle, and if he did he ought to be ashamed of himself. No, you explain, Seneca taught Nero philosophy, but Nero got sore on him and ordered him to commit suicide, and so Nero assembled his family and friends around him and opened his veins. But he didn't seem to die very fast, so then he drank a cup of poison. That didn't get results, so he had his friends put him in a hot bath. Still he stuck around, and finally the family just fished him out of the hot bath and put him in the oven of a stove, and when, finally, they took him out he was dead. "Gosh!" your neighbor will say, "he certainly had some trouble passing out. Why didn't the darned fool jump out of a seventeenth story window?" You explain that was because Seneca was a philosopher, and also that they didn't have seventeenth story windows in those days. Your neighbor by this time can remember a dog named Seneca that bit him once and he made the dog's owner pay him fifty bucks; but, anyhow, it will be time for you to annoy the guy sitting on the other side of you, so you can pull your Seneca stuff on him and do it all over again.

Do not count over-much
For strong bonds are pulling
Now that it's spring,
Something he misses

Some time he'll lift

And he'll be up

A GIRL OUT IN KANSAS when called to the witness stand gave her name as Patricia. "But it's down here as Patsy," said a court official looking at the record. "Oh," said the girl, "the policeman couldn't spell Patricia." Which reminds one of the good old story about the policeman who went to the station and said, "I want to report a dead horse I found on Kosciusko street.' The sergeant tried to write it down, but finally in despair turned on the policeman and said, "What is the nearest cross street to where yez found the horse?" "Pine street," said the policeman. "All right," said the sergeant, "pull the damn horse around on Pine street and thin make yer report."

"OH," gushed a socialite type of lady to a companion on the bus top yesterday morning, "what lovely gladiolas you have." And she pronounced it gla-DI-o-la with the accent heavy on the DI. And the red faced fat woman on the seat ahead snorted and said to the conductor in a tone that could be heard two blocks: "Stop at a florist's shop, conductor; I want to get some glad-y-O-las!" And how she did step on that O.

THE STATE VETERINARIAN says over two hundred pet dogs have been poisoned in Chicago within two weeks. Presumably it is by some demon disguised as a human being who walks around scattering bits of steak or sausage containing arsenic. Which is a most cogent reason for keeping your dog on a leash. If I raise my feeble voice in protest at being chased up a tree by a great, bounding police dog, then a half dozen police dog owners throw verbal brickbats at me. But I want to have dogs kept on the leash not only because I'm afraid that the police dogs and chows will jump on little Tommy Atkins, the w. k. Scalyham, but because a dog off the leash has a chance to grab a tempting piece of meat possibly containing arsenic and bolt it down before his master can even know about it. This strychnine fiend is still at large and seems to be visiting every part of the city, and from my heart out I beg you that you keep your pet hounds on a leash, police dogs, too.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE AFFECTS THE HEART.

HEART disease in the United States claims approximately a quarter of a million victims each year, and half of these succumb because of the wear and tear on the heart due to high blood pressure.

Although the damage has been called myocarditis [inflammation of the heart muscle], it is not true inflammation in the strict sense of the word. It is, however, degeneration of the heart muscle due to overloading. Myocarditis proper can and does follow acute infectious diseases, such as scarlet fever, typhoid fever, rheumatic fever, etc.

The most common result of heart weakness is enlargement. The regularly contracting muscle endeavors to carry its load, but it may finally fatigue, stretch, and dilate. In a high percentage of cases, nevertheless, by rest and through the use of digitalis, this thinned heart muscle may be brought back to normal, that is, unless some actual disease has destroyed too many muscle fibers. Whenever high blood pressure exists over years of time an increased load is thrown upon the organ and, in many cases, the heart walls will slowly stretch, although in others it may enlarge with a compensating thickening of the walls.

It seems to be reasonably well established that overexercise is not responsible for much of the heart damage that we see about us. While the heart may beat faster because an increased output of blood is demanded and there may be a temporary rise in blood pressure, yet excessive activity is usually of short duration. On the cessation of exercise the heart normally quiets down to its routine rhythm. The sense of fatigue comes because of overworked body muscles, tendons, and nerves. In other words, the normal heart has enough reserve to care for an occasional spurt.

But we must not be foolishly indifferent to a persistent increased pressure within the circulatory system. It means that the blood vessels and the heart are subjected to a force that is abnormal for these structures. A garden hose that is woven for a pressure of fifty pounds may burst under one of a hundred pounds. A normal level for a given age may perhaps be 150 [systolic], but if consistently maintained at 180 to 200 or even higher, degeneration cannot fail to occur within the arteries themselves and in the pump [the heart].

Early symptoms may be noted in shortness of breath on exercise or exertion, a slight swelling of the ankles toward evening, and now and then difficult breathing that may continue for an hour or two. Sometimes these attacks may resemble asthma.

To remedy the situation we must seek the cause, and the following points must be kept in mind: [1] Infection should be ruled out and eliminated; [2] worry, apprehension, and overwork are to be avoided; [3] the weight must be reduced to normal or slightly below; [4] salt should be largely eliminated from the diet with the possible substitution of potassium chloride or ammonium chloride; [5] diet should consist of vegetables and fruits, with at least one good helping of meat—beef or mutton preferred—each day; [6] all condiments such as mustard and pepper should be eliminated; [7] water drinking should be restricted at meal time, but may be indulged in between meals, that is, one to two hours after the meal has been eaten; [8] rest must be insisted upon—an hour if possible—after the noon and evening meals; [9] the best form of exercise consists in walking in the open air; [10] a daily tepid or warm bath should be taken.

With common sense and a regular form of living, with less strain upon the nervous system and fewer things to worry about, many cases of excessively high blood pressure will drop to comfortable levels. We can preserve the integrity of the heart muscle for years and years if we will think a little about its care and not subject it to continuous overloading.

CONVALESCENT DIET.

G. W. L. writes: What is the best food to restore appetite after the flu or pneumonia?

REPLY:

A bland diet is advised. Fruit juice, fruits, raw and cooked; custards, rice with sugar and cream, other cooked cereals. Later baked or roasted meats and vegetables prepared and served in an attractive form can be given. A tonic of some sort prescribed by the physician is often useful.

PEPPER.

REPLY:

I can see no reason for using pepper in any form, although this seasoning is widely used in most parts of the world. If the quantity is sufficient it will cause irritation of the gastrointestinal tract, the liver, and the kidneys.

CALCIUM IN DIET.

REPLY:

Some form of calcium should be used in addition to the regular amount contained in the diet. Calcium lactate, calcium glycerophosphate, or calcium gluconate may be used.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

There could be nothing further from the truth than to believe that "all things come to him who waits." Very few things ever come to people who wait, but great things are achieved by those who go after what they want and work till they get it. Waiting is the road to ruin and shiftless habits, and another proverb says, "Time and tide wait for no man."

MR. HOPKINS FELT THAT WAY.

Chicago, May 9.—Recent press photographs of Gov. Horner appearing in Washington supplicating alms for the state of Illinois represent our governor seated and Relief Administrator Hopkins reclining against a table clothed in his suspenders and shirt sleeves.

Now, suspenders over shirt sleeves may be comfortable and appropriate in the privacy of one's front porch on a Sunday afternoon, but worn in the presence of a governor of a great state serves only to indicate a don't give a damnedness for the office he represents.

When the President of the United States greets foreign ambassadors, even when they come hat in hand seeking benefits, he wears a coat, and a long tailed coat at that, to meet the occasion.

It is high time that the burocrats in Washington be made to consider the state of Illinois as an entity with a separate dignity and sovereignty and not as a vassal province in the hinterland. Let them put on their coats and take off their hats to the governor of Illinois.

THE GERMAN IN "LOHENGRIN."

Chicago, May 9.—Resuming our discussion on "Lohengrin," presented last Friday night at the Auditorium, I also attended that performance and felt a perfect feeling of satisfaction after the last curtain. Strangely enough, I have spoken German all my life, and Mr. Moore's sole complaint regarding the five different German accents came to me as a distinct surprise since I hadn't noticed. Guess it takes people named Moore to tell the Germans just how German is spoken.

As to differentiating between Lohengrin and Elsa, when in the days of those gallant knights and beautiful ladies did women wear costumes consisting of long tights, swords and helmets? I have always visualized the ladies of that era with long tresses and flowing gowns such as are worn by princesses, and that is exactly the way Elsa appeared.

I personally feel that the people of Chicago owe Fortune Gallo a vote of thanks for presenting such a marvelous production at just a fraction of the ordinary price of opera. ANNE KOREK.

DUMB OR WISE!

Chicago, May 10.—Heading of a story in THE TRIBUNE of May 10: "Relief clients spurn jobs at $16.80 per week." Well, I guess some people think a half of a loaf of bread free is better than a whole one paid for. Opinions differ, I guess. Just offer me a chance to make $16 or $17 a week and see if I'd take it. I've been an orphan for the last twenty years and have had to support myself on as little as $6 a week, but I earned it and I have never been on relief. It looks to me like I've been a pretty, shall I say, "ignorant" or just plain "dumb" person. As the saying goes, "America is still the land of opportunity." Opportunity to get out of work?

I hope that no one will think that I am a narrow minded individual who is against relief, feeding and clothing the destitute that through no fault of their own are in need in these times. But I say help those who are willing to help themselves and only those. One way to recovery is by hard work and lots of it.

BACK TO THE CAVE.

Winnetka, Ill., May 10.—Technocracy is knocking civilization in the head. It is bringing nations so near together and mixing inharmonious peoples so intimately that all varieties of civilization are becoming so mixed and standards are being crushed and mutual respect wiped out. Vastly greater evidence than is now apparent will soon come to the surface, and all that sensible people can do is to remain silent, go their quiet way, and let the world go on its way back to where humanity was thousands of years ago.

Mankind seems to have abandoned the place nature appointed for it, and technocracy has apparently put mankind on a pedestal so high that all that remains to be done is to tumble off. At this stage of things the brute animals seem to be in a better situation than humanity occupies. For my part I would gladly exchange places with a horse or an ox, a dog or a cat. I would rather be a skunk than an editor. We are filling the ground with pipes, the air with poisonous gases, bombs to drop on us and kill us, and all the habitable places of earth with deadly guns and bombs. What is the good of it?

Nations hate each other, are jealous of one another, monstrously actuated by jealousy and hatred. The brute animals, unendowed with speech, are in comparative peace. Humanity fairly roars with hatred and jealousy. Monstrous cannons are being planted everywhere along national boundaries. And we call ourselves civilized! The brutes are more civilized than men are, if civilization means peace and good will to our fellows.

Am I talking through my hat? No, I am telling the truth, and nobody of sense will deny it. Shame on mankind for drifting into such a damnable situation.

FARMERS MOVE ON CAPITAL TO BACK AAA PLEA

U. S. Officials Deny They Promoted Meeting.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—[Special.]—Several thousand farmers converged on this city tonight to press for enactment of amendments to the agricultural administration granting increased powers to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. The AAA officals denied that they had promoted the conclave.

On the other hand, reports from the twenty-five states to be represented at the conference, starting tomorrow, stated that in most cases the county agents, who received remuneration from the federal government for local administration of the AAA, had urged the move on Washington.

Whether the meeting "sprung from the soil" or was a "claque for Wallace" was undecided tonight.

Invited to Meeting.

In the house of representatives Chairman Marvin Jones [Dem, Texas] of the agricultural committee, where the amendments have been rewritten three times, invited members to come to the meeting tomorrow morning at which Secretary Wallace and Chester Davis, administrator of the AAA, are scheduled to speak.

"I'm asking the congressmen to go down to hear the farmers' own story," said Jones.

"They do not represent any organization," replied Jones. "They come direct from the soil."

Earlier the agricultural committee had met in executive session and Jones announced tomorrow he would introduce a new bill embodying clarifying changes. Two weeks ago the committee voted to report out the AAA amendments and also inserted a new provision that would give the secretary of agriculture the power to impose license on retailers of milk and dairy products.

In general the amendments increase the powers of the secretary on licensing of handlers, processors, and distributors of farm products, create the power to set up marketing areas and authorize the enforcement by the secretary of a marketing agreement if two-thirds of the producers are in favor of it.

Threaten Corn-Hog Checks.

A minority report of the committee set forth that propaganda had been sent out to farmers that unless the amendments were adopted their corn-hog payments would be suspended, whereas they would not be affected in any way by the new law. The minority group said that the propaganda was "no doubt broadcast by interested parties in Washington to farmers in all sections of the country."

That there had been a Washington connection with the movement was the impression gained by talking with South Dakota farmers who arrived here this morning. Some of the group said they had been told unless the AAA amendments were passed there would be no more checks from the government.

Dispatches from South Dakota stated that to a great exent the delegates to the Washington conference were men receiving pay for jobs created by the AAA.

Picked from Allotment Groups.

From Mitchell, S. D., came a dispatch saying that the fifty-nine farmers sent from the state were selected from and by members of the corn-hog and wheat allotment associations, which represent the combined membership of the committees. Each township committee is composed of three members, who are paid from allotment funds on a per diem basis of $4.

A dispatch from Aberdeen, S. D., stated that expenses to send the delegates were raised through solicited donations from the AAA committeemen receiving their salaries from the government.

W. E. Dittmer, a Brown county, S. D., agent denied that county agents had organized the delegation. Dittmer was one of the speakers at the Aberdeen meeting for the raising of funds.

H. J. Miles, emergency agricultural agent for Codington county, said at Watertown, S. D., that funds to pay the farmers' expenses were raised by "passing the hat" among friends and neighbors at county meetings.

Here in Washington tonight Clifford H. Day of Plainview, Tex., a cotton planter and organizer of the farm trek, established headquarters at a hotel. He said that it was felt the administration needed support for the AAA program and that the meeting might offset "some of the noise" raised against processing tax by the cotton textile interests.

Delay Blast to Save 600 Chicks and Birds in Eggs

Pittsfield, Mass., May 13.—(AP)—A highway project was delayed to save the lives of 600 unhatched chickens and pheasants today. Workmen were about to set off a dynamite blast when the owner of the 450 hen and 150 pheasant eggs frantically appealed for delay. Postponement was ordered until after the birds are hatched, probably Saturday.

Corn Planting Plans

WITH favorable weather Clarence Thurow, manager of the Tribune experimental farm near Plano and Yorkville, hopes to plant 200 acres to corn before the sun goes down Saturday night. Planting started on Friday afternoon when Louis Thurow drove into the eighty acre field, No. 8, with a two row planter. Thirty acres were put in.

Every man on the farm is now assigned to field work. Corn planting will be the main item on the work program until every hill is in the ground. The planting will be done as early as possible, despite the danger of the corn being injured by frost and the loss of expensive seed corn. Last year, at the Yorkville farm, corn planted on May 14 incurred damage by frost; it met a severe setback, but survived, and later had to cope with the severe drouth.

The rubber tired tractor used by Mr. Thurow is attracting much attention among visitors at the farm. The operation of this tractor is furnishing one of the most interesting tests being made at the farm this summer. Some of the tests were started last summer and will be continued this year.

Mr. Thurow already has noted several advantages where the rubber balloon tires are used instead of lugs on the rims. Here are some of his observations jotted down in his notebook:

"Rubber tired tractor wheels do not slip in fields where the ground is dry enough to be worked.

"The tractor on rubber is easier riding where it is run in high speed.

"Wheels with rubber tires do not pack the ground any more than steel lugs and probably not so much.

"Our fuel bill is less. Last year's tests indicated that we used approximately 30 per cent less fuel after we started using rubber tires.

"With rubber tires we can run the tractor on the highway without injuring the pavement.

"We do not find it necessary to put down two inch hardwood planks in crossing a bridge over Fox river as we do with metal lugs.

"Rubber tires on the tractor do not damage floors in driveways of barns or in tool sheds, as is the case with steel lugs.

"In mowing hay in meadows and in orchards rubber tires do not injure tender plant roots or the exposed roots of fruit trees.

"We are able to use our rubber tired tractor for belt work by placing one end of a two inch plank under the front of the rear wheel and allowing the other end to rest on the front wheel."

Silvor Vistor, the pure bred Shorthorn white bull used in the cross with ten pure bred Aberdeen-Angus hefers to produce blue gray beef animals has been separated from the breeding herd and placed in a bluegrass pasture for the summer. A yearling Shorthorn bull is his only companion.

Last week odd fields were sown to oats and a mixture of Kentucky bluegrass, lespedeza, timothy, and alfalfa. These fields will furnish grazing for the fifteen Southdown sheep now being used in the sulphur water experiment.

IOWANS BUYING WALLACE CORN TO RAISE YIELD

Hi-Bred Concern Adds to Its Land.

Des Moines, Ia., May 13.—[Special.]—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has had his hands figuratively busy in Iowa lately on two opposing corn projects. As a cabinet member he is working vigorously to reduce corn acreage on the one hand, while on the other the acreage is being expanded in the production of seed corn by the Hi-Bred Seed company of Grimes, Ia., in which Mr. Wallace is personally interested and his wife the principal stockholder.

It was revealed here today that about three months ago the Hi-Bred Seed company contracted to buy a half section of land at Johnston, Ia., about eight miles from here. The agreement is subject to court confirmation and the clearing of the title.

The newly acquired farm adjoins the three making up the present layout of the company. In predepression days the land was owned by Thomas F. Duig. It was offered at auction under the court's direction a few years ago. The high bid was $41 an acre, but the court disapproved the sale. The price paid by the Wallace seed corn concern is said to be not much higher than the auction price of $41 an acre.

Under the acreage reduction program the seed corn business in this state has developed to the point that the Hi-Bred company has raised its prices about $3 a bushel above last season's prices. During the present seed corn buying season the company has asked $10 a bushel for its corn.

Leo W. Williams of the Wallace Seed Corn company says that in comparative yield tests on 1,200 farms the average increase from the use of Hi-Bred seed was 12 bushels to the acre.

With better seed corn and a favorable season the 152,000 Iowa signers of the 1935 corn-hog contract under Secretary Wallace's Agricultural Adjustment administration plan expect to produce about as much corn this season as did the 176,000 farmers who signed the contract last year. Approximately 24,000 fewer individual farmers signed the corn-hog contract in Iowa this year, but reduction program officials expect the total acreage to be almost as much as last year, because there is a greater number of acres under the control of the individual signers.

Last June it became known that the Hi-Bred Seed company was planning to expend its activities. The company signed the corn-hog contract, but leased more land and equipped a large corn dryer at Durant, Ia. This apparently was done in anticipation of big business this spring.

FARM COLONISTS BEGIN TO WORK ON NEW HOMES

PALMER, Alaska, May 13.—(AP)—Colonists plunged into a steady stream of work today in an effort to build Alaska's first agricultural empire in the scenic Matanuska valley.

The settlers, who arrived Friday from Minnesota, will be given a day or two to make temporary homes more comfortable before aiding in the construction of additional tents for the Wisconsin and Michigan farmers who will reach here in less than two weeks. The tents, which are 16 feet wide and 20 feet long, are divided by wood or cloth partitions.

The women still flock to the commissaries for food. Their city clothes are being replaced by [illegible] boots, flannel shirts, and mackinaws.

A. I. DU PONT WILL LEAVES CHARITY MOST OF RICHES

Sets Up Foundation for Crippled and Old.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 13.—[Special.]—The late Alfred I. du Pont left most of his millions to charity, it was disclosed today when his will was filed in Probate court here. No estimate of the value of the estate was given.

Du Pont was chairman of the board of the Florida National bank of Jacksonville, and formerly was head of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., munitions makers. He died April 29 at Epping Forest, his home here, after a brief illness.

His will provides for the creation of a charitable foundation to be known as the Nemours Foundation. Its object will be the relief of human suffering, care and treatment of crippled children and old men and women—particularly old couples.

Employés Are Remembered.

The document also made specific provisions for members of the family and employés who have been in the service of Du Pont or his Florida financial organization, Almours Securities, for one year. Most of the bequests are annuities from the income of the estate.

"The creation of this foundation," Du 'ont said in one of two codicils filed with the will, "has been and is entirely my own idea, formulated many years ago for the reason that it has been my firm conviction throughout life that it is the duty of every one in this world to do what is within his power to alleviate human suffering, and I had sedulously striven to that end."

Executors of the estate are the widow, a son-in-law, Reginald S. Huidekoper of Washington, and a brother-in-law, Edward Ball of Jacksonville. The Florida National bank and the executors will constitute the trustees.

Recluse's Will Upheld.

St. Louis, Mo., May 13.—[Special.]—Circuit Judge O'Neill Ryan today upheld the will of Hugh Campbell, St. Louis bachelor recluse, who made Yale university the ultimate heir to most of his $1,250,000 estate.

A contest of the will had been filed at the instance of relatives, who sought to place themselves in line for the estate. It was contended that when Campbell made the will in 1916 he was unsound of mind and was subjected to undue influence.

Campbell left his estate in trust for a 77 year old brother, Hazlett Campbell, who has been an invalid and mentally incompetent for nearly 50 years. Upon Hazlett's death the estate will be turned over to Yale to erect a building in memory of a deceased brother, James A. Campbell, a Yale graduate of the class of 1882.

Funeral Service Thursday for Walter P. Krauczunas

Thursday in the Holy Cross church, 4557 South Wood street. Burial will be in St. Casimir's cemetery. Two sons who gained fame as football players will attend the services. They are Edward Krause, former Notre Dame player who is now athletic director in St. Mary's college in Winona, Minn., and Philip Krause, captain of last year's team at De Paul university. The widow, Theresa, and a daughter, Harriet, also survive. A coroner's jury returned a verdict yesterday holding the death was accidental.

MAJ. J. S. COHEN, ATLANTA EDITOR, EX-SENATOR, DIES

Noted Publisher Ill for Several Months.

Atlanta, Ga., May 13.—(AP)—Maj. John S. Cohen, 65, for twenty-eight years president and editor of the Atlanta Journal and a former United States senator, died at his home here tonight after an extended illness.

Maj. Cohen had been declining in health for several months and only last week returned from Rochester, Minn., where he went for treatment of an ulcerated stomach.

Turning aside a prospective career in the navy to take up journalism, he became a distinguished editor and a leader in the Democratic party.

Appointed to Senate.

Maj. Cohen for eleven years was Democratic national committeeman from Georgia. In 1932 he was made vice chairman of the national Democratic committee.

He held only one public office, that of senator. He was appointed by Gov. Richard B. Russell Jr. in 1932 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator William J. Harris of Georgia and remained in the senate until Russell ran for the office and was elected nine months later.

Backer of Roosevelt.

Maj. Cohen was active in the movement which brought about the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt as the Democratic presidential nominee at Chicago in 1932.

A native of Augusta, Ga., Maj. Cohen entered the United States naval academy in 1885 after preliminary training in Richmond academy, Augusta, and Shenandoah Valley academy in Virginia. He resigned from the naval academy in 1886 to begin his journalistic career.

JAMES MERRILL, LUMBER DEALER, DIES IN HOSPITAL

James Soper Merrill, 63 years old, 1448 Lake Shore drive, well known lumberman, died in the Presbyterian hospital yesterday after a brief illness. He was vice president of the Soper Lumber company and of the Soper-Wheeler Lumber company, both of Chicago, and president of the Menomonie-Bay Shore Lumber company of Menomonie, Wis.

Born in Rome, N. Y., Mr. Merrill came to Chicago as a boy. He entered the lumber business when he was 21 years old. He had never married, and is survived by a sister, Mrs. Fred S. White, with whom he lived. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at Graceland cemetery.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A froggy feud has broken out between NBC and CBS. The frog derby at Angel's Camp, Calaveras county, California, is to be broadcast exclusively by CBS next Saturday afternoon. This is the contest, according to the press agents, that has had frogs sprinting every year since Mark Twain wrote "The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County." [He lost the race because he was fed lead pellets that shortened his hops.]

But in New York the Mark Twain centennial committee is putting on the first annual "Great Frog Derby" next Sunday afternoon, featuring the work of "blue blooded bullfrogs, the acme of amphibian aristocracy, paragons of pure polliwog upbringing," with Graham McNamee, Ray Knight, and Jack Dempsey manning the mikes for NBC, which will broadcast the contest exclusively.

"There has been a tergiversatingly tempered effort to confuse some minor league, preliminary heat in the California desert with this Kentucky derby of frogland, this world series of the swamps," snorted NBC.

It's an eight pound son in the Ted Fio-Rito household, born Sunday at Mercy hospital. Mrs. Fio-Rito is the former Madelyn La Salle, Miss Cook County of 1931, the band leader's second wife. They were married following an elopement to Yuma, Ariz., last year. She was formerly the wife of Stevens H. Hammond, polo player. Fio-Rito arrived here yesterday from Memphis. Next month he opens an engagement at the Edgewaer Beach hotel and on CBS.

Herbie's Kay's bride, whose name appeared as Dorothy Slaton on the marriage license last Friday in Waukegan, is known to radio as Dorothy Lamour, who sang with Kay's orchestra at the Edgewater Beach until a few months ago. After a one day honeymoon she returned to New York, where she is singing at Club Normandie and making picture shorts for Paramount. Kay is on tour; he'll be at Galena tonight.

The Dionne quintuplets will make their first personal appearance before the microphone on their first birthday, May 28. Their cries, or perhaps coos of delight, will be aired over an NBC net from 4 to 4:30 p. m. Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, their physician, will speak and nurses and guardians also will be heard. A previous broadcast from the Dionne nursery last December was canceled in the United States because at the last minute recordings were substituted for the babies' voices. Dr. Dafoe's birthday, incidentally, is on May 29.

Mr. Woodhead Takes Bride at Eastern Rites

Barrington Family Attends Old Lyme Ceremony.

BY JUDITH CASS.

A WEDDING of interest to Chicago society took place on Saturday in Old Lyme, Conn., when Miss Elizabeth Moon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Clinton Moon of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., was married to Daniel Woodhead Jr., son of the Daniel Woodheads of Barrington.

The former Miss Moon and Mr. Woodhead Jr. chose to be married in the Old Lyme Congregational church because it was there that the bridegroom's parents were married twenty-five years ago this coming August. Dr. Edward M. Chapman of New London, Conn., officiated at both ceremonies, and at last Saturday's he was assisted by the Rev. W. Dixon Hoag of the Old Lyme church. Mountain laurel and dogwood blossoms decorated the quaint old church Saturday for the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Old Lyme inn. The senior Mrs. Woodhead was Miss Ellen Noyes Chadwick.

Miss Ellen Noyes Woodhead, the bridegroom's sister, and Mrs. Robert Chadwick Woodhead, his sister-in-law, were among the bride's seven attendants, and Robert Woodhead served as one of his brother's ushers. The senior Mr. and Mrs. Woodhead, the Robert Woodheads, and Miss Ellen will return to Barrington Friday.

Mr. Woodhead Jr. represents his father's company in the east and his headquarters have been in Boston, but he and his bride will live in or near Philadelphia when they return from a wedding trip to Bermuda. He is a graduate of Wesleyan university, class of 1934, and his bride was graduated the same year from Connecticut college.

Drama League Will Enjoy Luncheon Today.

It seems a bit out of line for the Chicago Drama league, an organization that always has been devoted to the betterment of the legitimate stage, to sponsor a showing of a moving picture, but that is happening this morning.

League members and their friends will see "Blue Light," an Italian made film, at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the World Playhouse theater and then cross over to the Auditorium hotel for luncheon.

Petite Helen Hayes and members of the cast of "Mary of Scotland," and Dr. Giuseppe Castruccio, royal Italian consul general, will be especial guests at the luncheon. That the plans are popular is proven by the fact that over 300 reservations for luncheon have been received.

Last Saturday night, at the supperdance given for her at the Tavern, Miss Hayes was made an honorary member of the club, the only woman so honored. The men who are honorary members of this club are Prof. James H. Breasted, John Alden Carpenter, Gov. Henry Horner, Robert M. Hutchins, Wallace Rice, and Carl Sandburg.

Mr. Carpenter, by the way, and his wife are due back in Chicago about the seventh of next month from a trip to China. They will be accompanied from Honolulu by Mrs. Walter Dillingham, whom they visited on their way to the orient. Miss Carolyn Wilson, who went to China on the same ship with the Carpenters, will return at the same time.

D. A. R. Chapter To Elect Today.

The Kaskaskia chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will hold the last luncheon and meeting of the season in the home of Mrs. Robert H. Ripley at 29 Indian Hill road, Winnetka, today.

An election of officers will follow the reports of chapter officers and committee chairmen. A report of the national congress also will be read.

The Women'r Faculty club of Northwestern medical school, which is sponsoring two concerts in the Auditorium by Paul Whiteman on the afternoon and evening of May 19, will hold its spring luncheon today at the Woman's Athletic club.

Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, the new president of the Alliance Française, is going to entertain the organization's committee chairmen at tea in her home this afternoon. The heads of the several committees will meet at 3:30 o'clock.

Friendly Aid Society Holds Party Today.

One of the most successful benefit card parties held each year is that of the Friendly Aid society. At 2 o'clock this afternoon the Boulevard room at the Stevens hotel will be buzzing with women who will come there for an afternoon of cards followed by tea.

Mrs. Alfred Kaufman, chairman of the benefit, expects that the Friendly Aid will make more money this year than ever before to contribute to its charities. The society subscribes funds to 14 charitable organizations, all indorsed by the Chicago Association of Commerce. Mrs. G. Henry Mundt is president of the society, which has grown to a membership of 75 from the original ten charter members of 1892.

"Mr. Strachey-Communism and Free Speech" will be discussed by Dr. Horace J. Bridges this morning at 11 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. John C. Slade, 1210 Forest avenue, Evanston. This is the last of a series of lectures for the benefit of The Cradle.

Through the efforts of the parents-teachers' committee of the Boys Latin school an interesting evening is before the pupils and the parents, for Dean Radcliffe Heermance of Princeton university will address them tonight.

Globe Players Will Appear at San Diego Fair

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Old Globe Theater company, whose achievements in the popularization of Shakespeare's plays were a notable feature of the second summer of A Century of Progress, will repeat their exploits during the coming summer for the American Exposition of San Diego, Cal. A reproduction of their Chicago playhouse, patterned after the theaters in which Shakespeare's works were first acted, is now under construction on the grounds of the San Diego fair. The company will entrain for California this evening at 9:45.

After its post-exposition appearances in Chicago at McVicker's and the Studebaker, the Old Globe company visited about thirty midwestern cities, including many university communities. This tour, everywhere successful, closed March 30. Negotiations for the engagement at the San Diego fair, to last six months, have been in progress during the last month.

Thomas Wood Stevens, director of the Old Globe, is now in San Diego, supervising the construction of the Elizabethan playhouse. Performances will begin on the opening day of the fair, May 29. Carl Benton Reid, leading man of the company, who gives notable performances as Petruchio, Macbeth, Brutus, and other major Shakespearean characters, has been appointed assistant director. All of last summer's principals have been re-engaged. New members of the company will be Tom Ireland, formerly of the Cleviand Playhouse, and Charles Swetland.

"Laburnum Grove," J. B. Priestly's comedy with Edmund Gween as star, will begin its Chicago engagement in the Grand Opera House May 27. Others in the cast will be Melville Cooper, Elisabeth Risdon, Molly Pearson, Margery Pickard, A. G. Andrews, and Lloyd Gough.

"Fifi Surrenders," an Italian comedy translated by Howard Winfield Rapport, will be staged in the Chicago Woman's club theater on May 21, 22, and 23 under the direction of James Bradley-Griffin. This will be the final production of the season by the group which was formerly called the Uptown Players and which called itself, for the recent production of "Nine Pine Street," the Theater Guild of Chicago. The latter title has been abandoned.

Good Morning!

Do you love Viennese waltz music? Do you like to laugh—spontaneously and, pretty continually? Then, this week, the Sonotone theater's the place for you. For there, to the glorious melodies of Johann Strauss and Joseph Lanner, the merriest sort of a story unreels.

"Waltz Time in Vienna" is a gay and sympathetic satire on musicians and their traditional temperament. The music backgrounds an entertaining comic-operetta yarn of a pitched battle between two composers. The warfare is larded with events attendant on a couple of romances. One of these concerns two delightfully appealing young members of royalty. The other — cunningly intermingled with the first—is the love story of a drummer boy and Katy, loyal, peppy and resourceful daughter of Lanner.

The picture is charmingly produced and costumed. You'll like the players —all of them. As for the tunes—let's see—what are some of the numbers:— "The Delirium Waltz," "The Schoenbrunn Waltz," "The Farewell Song," "The Radetzky March" — mutual composition of Lanner and Strauss, who finally drown their hatred in their mutual passion for composition —"The Star Waltz," "The Lorely Waltz"—and several other pieces, all gloriously played by the Vienna Symphony orchestra.

I'm telling you—"Waltz Time in Vienna" is a rest cure for jaded nerves and a joy to ears that crave music.

See you tomorrow.

THE Irish have a beautiful example of understatement in the word they use to describe their two most recent wars—the fight with the Black and Tans, 1920-'21, and the civil war of 1922-'23, following the treaty of 1921. They are wont to speak of these bloody affairs as "the trouble." "Trouble" as a euphemism for war seemed perfection until Bill Gorman, one of the newest Abbey theater artists, a part time actor on leave from the engineering department of the Great South railroad, met an elderly Irishman here in Chicago. Mr. Gorman repeated the conversation afterward to Eileen Crowe of the Abbey theater.

Understatement—Coincidences—Source—Warning.

"And tell me," the elderly Irishman said, asking about some mutual acquaintances in Ireland, "what is Paddy Cahill doing now?"

"God rest his soul," replied the other. "Isn't that terrible now! And when was he killed, Bill? Was it in the first or second bother?"

RESEARCH into the sources of jokes and gags would provide material for a book on the subject. For instance, that story about the Scotsman and his horse sent into this column—and printed last week—about the Scot who wanted to buy only one spur, pointing out that if he got his horse going on one side he would have to go on the other. Norval R. Richardson, awarding your scribe the medal of distinction for printing old jokes, says that story was lifted from part one of Samuel Butler's "Hudibras," written in 1663, and nowadays so much more often quoted than read. The lines, as relayed by Mr. Richardson, are:

"For Hudibras wore but one spur
As wisely knowing he could stir
To active trot one side of 's horse . . ."

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Fifty blonde, brunette, and red haired models wearing a wide variety of fur coats and capes paraded down a runway in a banquet room in the Palmer house last night and were scrutinized by 2,500 pairs of eyes. They were appraising eyes, belonging to fur manufacturers of the east and buyers from throughout the middle west and north, come to watch the fifth annual fur show sponsored by the Associated Fur Industries of Chicago.

It was the largest crowd ever to attend a fur show here. Authorities among them said a brisk business was expected at the August sales. The entire seventh floor and part of the eighth floor in the Palmer house have been taken by fifty manufacturers, each of whom exhibited five garments in the show. Their combined exhibit was valued at about 10 million dollars by H. F. Maloy, executive secretary of the association.

The American woman next fall and winter will have a chance to choose from a large variety of styles, the show indicated. One authority explained this in this way:

"Prices are low now, but will surely go up. But as in the automobile business, when cars are cheap the manufacturers bring out all kinds of improvements, so it is in furs. Better dyes, more individual treatment, more skilful fitting are seen in these fur coats."

Shorter coats, the three-quarter swagger coat length, prevailed in the showing. The long coats displayed fitted waistlines and gave a softer effect and more graceful silhouette than coats of the past. Others hugged the waist after blousing above the waist. Several sports coats showed wide leather belts, making the snug waistline more pronounced.

A dashing brunette wore a mink coat with a deep cape collar and a gay high fur hat on the Russian order. An evening cape of mink, and a long coat closely fitted and falling in soft folds from the waist down brought applause. Another fitted mink coat had a small collar which caressed the throat and had the advantage of not dwarfing the model's face. With it a muff and hat of fur were worn.

A swagger length gray Persian coat had one of the tricky new collars which can be worn up or down. It was full in the back and fell gracefully from the shoulders.

A slinky Zeppelin gray caracul coat and a kaffa caracul coat on a red haired model were effective. A glittering blonde wearing a white ermine evening coat with the furs forming a crossed pattern over the shoulders won applause. Another short ermine cape with Russian sable trimming, dipping in the back, and a mink coat with bloused waist and raglan sleeves caught attention.

A civet cat coat, black and white and short, worn by a girl with pale red hair, brought a suggestion of an open roadster or a football game. A belted black pony coat was suave enough to belie its humble origin.

A gray haired "stout" brought more applause than all her golden haired younger sisters, in a Jap mink coat with the well known "slenderizing" lines. A man model and a girl, both wearing raccoon coats whose fur was blended in a new and rich way, walked down the runway arm in arm.

A cocktail jacket of silver fox furs, valued at about $8,000 wholesale, made its appearance. A white caracul evening wrap with a bow in the back of the fur drew applause. A gray kid coat, belted and three-quarter length, worn with a skirt of the same fur, forming a suit, fitted the model as gracefully as if made of cloth.

Midnight Blue Chiffons Are Favorites.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

A lot of shoppers are busy blooming out in sheer suits, but there's another crowd that is just as busy hunting for sheer blouses to cool down the warmth of a wool suit. Sheer blouses by the dozens and in every imaginable color are now ready for the rush. Of course, the pastel affairs are going fast, but there is good news for the girl who wants a dark blouse to go with a dark suit. The black net chiffons are going strong, but the midnight blues are going even faster.

A long sleeved chiffon of midnight blue is made in tailored lines with a high, round collarline, full sleeves gathered into narrow cuffs, and a row of sparkling buttons down the center frill. Another similar model has the same twinkling buttons, but short, snappy looking sleeves. There are tucked models for more dress parade suits and a grand feminine net with a big cat's whisker bow to tuck under your chin.

These chiffons and other transparent winners are surprisingly practical despite their air of fragility and they are perfect tops for all the thousands of deep blue street suits both sheer and in wool. Later you can wear these dark sheer blouses with your all-white flannel suits and tailored white or pale gray linen suits. Another affinity for blue is a suit of chamois yellow linen, with deep blue hose and the white footwear accenting the blue of the blouse under the slim, fitted coat. Still another surprisingly effective color get together is dusty pink with deep blue. And, of course, every one knows how easily a dark blue sheer blouse can top the plaited skirt of one of the newest of multi-colored and printed silks or chiffon suits.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

[TRIBUNE Studio Photos.]

There's as much difference between a plain ordinary bath and a glorified one as there is between a dish of spinach and humming birds' wings. Spinach is healthful and a plain bath makes you clean, but a little glamor gives a lift to your life.

A brand new bath glorifier has just arrived in town and if you don't like everything about it we don't know feminine tastes. It's a small, flat little box of fifteen capsules containing scented oils. Just one popped into the bath while you're running the hot water perfumes it to perfection. They're about as handy a form of bath trimming as you'll ever find.

And the scents are simply swell, all six of them. There's a pine for those who like pine; we can't say that any pine sends us into ecstasies. This is just a personal peculiarity. We never did like it, but we're forever hunting up good pines for those of you who do.

In these little capsules we were hard put to make a choice of fragrances. The carnation is nice, indeed, and there's something about a spicy gardenia scent that's especially attractive in the morning when you're trying to pull yourself together for the day's toil. If we could be said to have a pet it would be the lilac—a scent that's neither so heavy it makes you almost sleepy, nor so gay it's too brisk to take at 8 a. m.

There is a bouquet, one of those special assortments of delectable scents that makes a gorgeous conglomeration, and a thoroughly romantic rose. You may take your choice. One of these little pellets will lift your daily soap and water scrubbing into the pomp and perfume class.

THE SLEEPING CHILD

By Alice Grant Rosman.

SYNOPSIS.

Miss Fell scents romance when she sees Miles Buchanan meet Eleanor Chevening, returning from London, at the Fendon railway station. Miles has been forced through adversity to shut up most of the Priory, his inherited home. The girls of the Chevening family of Fendon Edge are pursuing careers, Pauline having had a play produced and now working on a period piece. Eleanor is studying medicine. Jenny, the youngest, runs a smart hat shop in Knightsbridge and gets engaged and disengaged now and then. Audrey, an orphaned second cousin, with a talent for design, has for 15 years been as a daughter to Anne and George Chevening, the girls' parents. Pauline uses Audrey's skill for her theater. The Chevenings have a small flat in London for the use of any of the family going to and fro. It is Audrey, however, and not Eleanor, who claims Miles' romantic interest. Miles and Geoffrey Burton are partners in a stock breeding venture. Albert King, wealthy newcomer to Fendon, wants to buy the ruins of an ancient monastery on the Priory grounds. Audrey and Miles become engaged. Anne Chevening had been in love with Audrey's father, Hector Chevening. Her parents had broken up the romance and persuaded her to marry his cousin. Later Hector, a victim of the war and penniless, had brought his wife and child to visit the Chevenings, at George's invitation. Anne still loved Hector and knew he still loved her. Shortly after they left Hector shot his wife and himself. Neighbors had heard them quarrel. Audrey was in the next room, apparently asleep. No one ever spoke to her of the tragedy. Anne loves Audrey as her own child, but her sense of guilt is a barrier between them. George Chevening makes Audrey a gift of a thousand pounds. Miles' aunt, Miss Dorset, doubles the amount. Miles and Audrey have lunch with her after which they visit the Priory.

THEIR HOUSE.

Miles laughed, looking at Audrey tenderly. It occurred to him that most girls would be thinking of the housekeeper's shortcomings rather than their own and wanting some one a good deal smarter, and though that might seem only another virtue in a lover's eye, he tried to be severely practical and to persuade himself that she could not possibly realize the problems before her.

"Miggs will have to have maids to help her, of course," he remarked. "She has managed more or less single-handed because we've had the greater part of the house shut up these last few years. I must get it opened again."

"But you're not marrying a flock of untidy wives," she reminded him. "Surely one maid and just one or two rooms would be enough for us to begin with? We mustn't let all this money go to our heads, and besides, think what variety that would give us. If we get tired of one room we can shut it up and open another."

"Eliza should hear you. You know what she thinks of the Priory. Palace is hardly the word."

"Ah, but then she's used to marble ones."

They turned in at the gates at this moment and saw the old house, kind beneath its curtain of Virginia creeper just showing the first glow of pink here and there on the edge of a leaf. It was built of gray stone and rather low and widespread, the turf reaching to its walls, giving it the appearance of having been set down on a green carpet which stretched away to a border of shrubs and trees. At this hour, with the sunlight falling on it, and so many shutters and windows closed, it had a sleeping air, except for the thin spiral of smoke from one of a huddled family of chimneys lifted against the sky.

Audrey, knowing it almost as well as Fendon Edge, yet saw it with new eyes because it belonged to Miles and so soon would be equally her own, and something strange and almost incredible in this realization caught her heart.

"My house," she said to herself, "and I've never had one," clutching his hand with a sudden gesture as they went in the open door, as though to make its welcome friendly.

Miles very naturally caught her in his arms and did all the welcoming necessary, only releasing her at the sound of Mrs. Miggs, who had heard the car and always presented herself like a solemn master of ceremonies when he came home. In this way she did her best to deputize for the company of retainers she felt would have been only fitting in such a house, for she was very sorry for her young master, though he did not know it.

"Good afternoon, miss. If you've come to see the pup, he's splendid. You'll be surprised," said Mrs. Miggs.

"You're going to be surprised in a minute, Miggs," Miles informed her. "Miss Audrey has come to have a look at the house. She's going to live in it."

"Indeed, sir? . . . You're never going to give up the Priory, Mr. Miles!" exclaimed the housekeeper, almost losing her dignity as she seemed to see her world falling about her head.

"Well, not unless she kicks me out," returned Miles mysteriously, but Audrey came to the old woman's rescue.

"He's teasing you, and it's too bad. Don't you worry, Mrs. Miggs. We're going to be married, that's all."

"O dear. . . . I wish you joy, miss, and the master, too. It's high time, I'm sure!" exclaimed Mrs. Miggs with the best intentions, and much surprised and slightly offended at her master's shout of laughter.

They asked for tea in half an hour and she retired very much shaken to see about it. A nice thing indeed to take the young lady into all those dirty rooms that had not had so much as a duster near them in months . . . and her going to be the mistress of the house at that. Mrs. Miggs felt that her reputation was gone and that she herself would be the next to go. "If he'd only given me a few hours' notice," thought the distracted housekeeper, "and not even more than what you might call a cottage cake in the house for their tea, and no place but the library to put it. It's not right."

She was almost in tears, the cups knocking against their saucers as she lifted them out of the cupboard, when the door was pushed cautiously open and the young lady herself came in.

Audrey had made an excuse for a word with Miggs because she wanted the curtains in the lower rooms measured when Miles was out of the way. She took the old woman into her confidence about them, and Mrs. Miggs, secretly flattered, promised to see to the matter at the first opportunity. She did not, however, fail to mention in her most dignified and disapproving manner the dirty rooms, the young lady's nice clothes, and the thoughtlessness of gentlemen in not giving due warning, and what a single pair of hands could do, etc.

"O, a little dirt won't hurt us. Of course they're dirty when they've been shut up. Don't you worry; we're having a lovely time," Audrey assured her, and then out of her own happiness, sensing poor Miggs' fears, she added shyly: "What should we do without you?" and ran.

Mrs. Miggs sat down in her kitchen and listened for a moment to the old house echoing under the young, quick footsteps, the opening of doors, and the girl's voice, not yet entirely ready to admit that these were pleasant and companionable sounds, but certainly mollified at the thought of the new curtains which were to be spirited in when finished and hung under her own direction. Then perhaps the young lady was an heiress . . . an orphan, it was quite possible, thought Mrs. Miggs, much cheered at this possibility.

Miles and Audrey arrived at the drawing room to be greeted by a powerful odor of moth ball and almost pitch darkness as they opened the door. Miles lit a match, drew back the heavy, old, faded curtains and opened the folding shutters beneath them and then the windows, revealing rolled-up carpets and a mountain of furniture sheathed in dust sheets in the center of the long room, and dim mirrors and pictures on the walls.

"Worse than I thought," said the owner of the house, scowling.

Audrey, from the doorway, had been recalling children's parties here long ago, re-creating what had seemed to her childish eyes the aloof grandeur of the room, and she laughed, moving over to touch the curtains with an experimental hand. They had undoubtedly been handsome once, possibly even beautiful in some one's sight, certainly very costly, too—maroon, wasn't that the horrible color now faded to a sickly gray?—lined through and through, with flannel probably, weighty and difficult to clean, stuffy and guaranteed to keep out any vestige of air, looped up after the manner of stage curtains in some old playhouse fallen upon evil days.

"Didn't I tell you it was all ghastly?" said Miles.

"O, close it up and come away," she said. "It's going to be a perfect room. You'll see. And I'll guarantee your lordship that nothing will last a lifetime. Our children, if we have any, will be able to change it all for a few pence very likely, if curtains and houses haven't gone out of date by then.

Young Child's Fear of Noises Quite Natural

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Many mothers of young children, or those who are nearly babies, worry a great deal over anything they think is a sign of nervousness. Yet we must not worry over some of this apparently nervous behavior, because we must bear in mind that the baby is not especially stable in his whole physical makeup. Don't we watch his body temperature, knowing that he cannot stand sudden changes? Don't we spare him glaring lights and violent noises? Don't we protect him from too many people and from excitement? Don't we know that an irregular schedule is bad for him.

Yet later in his life he can stand all of these things in moderation because he has gained endurance. Little by little, as he grows, he gains physical stability, nervous stability, emotional stability.

One of the most frequent reasons why mothers think their young children nervous is because of the way they act when they hear certain noises. These young nerves show that they resent their loudness or suddenness. But that is not the same as being nervous. We, who have gotten used to certain familiar sounds, do not realize their sharpness or stridency.

Of course, children vary a great deal in this respect. Some children are more easily upset by noises than others. Many young children are terrified of the noise made by a vacuum cleaner in operation. A shrill telephone bell will make others jump or cry. A loud, harsh voice or laughter will affect still others in this way. And many near babies are frightened by the sound of water rushing from the faucet into the bathtub.

Crosby Moves to Limit Supply of His Singing

Cuts Record Making Down to Five a Year.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., May 13.—[Special.]—Bing Crosby, whose popularity as one of the movie standouts of the last year is now netting him a reported $12,000 a week from all sources, has decided he can conserve his film standing by making fewer voice records.

Crosby's reasoning is this:

"I'd like to stop the radio stations from using my records. I can't do that, so I do the next best thing. I'm trying to quit making records. I've made only five in a year. I make my living because people like to hear my voice. But if they hear it every time they turn on a radio, they'll get tired of it; and I don't blame them. They won't want to listen to my radio sponsored program and they won't want to go see my pictures. Small radio stations ought to be prevented, anyway, from playing records 12, 14, or in some cases 24 hours a day, as they do. I'm going to fix it so they stop playing mine."

Crosby's expression is of enlightened selfishness similar to that of John Boles.

Crosby signed a new long term film contract with Paramount a few days ago. It pays him more than $6,000 a week, according to unofficial reports.

When Richard Dix went to a hospital to see his wife and talk about their twins, Richard Jr. and Anonymous, who were born last Wednesday, he told her how brave she was and how proud he was of her, and how wonderful everything seemed with a double addition to the family. Whereupon Mrs. Dix—the former Virginia Webster, who was his secretary—nearly startled him off his chair by agreeing that the twins were fine and suggesting that it would be nicer in another year or two when they had a little sister for the boys.

Dog trouble is complicating the European trips of Pat Person and Madge Evans, actresses. Pat, being an English girl, knows she cannot take a pup from this country to her home because of the strict British six month canine quarantine laws, so she changed her itinerary to go to France and visit with the relatives of her husband, Charles Boyer, French actor, before seeing her own folks. Then she will leave her fox terrier with the Parisian in-laws while going to England for the summer. Miss Evans is trying to get her Scottie eligible for admission into the tight little isle by teaching him tricks and getting him an appearance, however minute, in some movie. That would make the Scottie a "professional" dog, and the British quarantine doesn't apply to "professionals." Mrs. Pat Campbell tried the latter dodge last year, with a spaniel, which she insisted on having appear in a M. G. M. film story with her, before she would sign a contract to appear herself.

Paris Suggests Lace Frocks of Oriental Amber for Torrid Summer Afternoons

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Lace is back in style for afternoons when the mercury goes high and the need for covering goes down to zero. Beige lace is being worn, and the newest and smartest lace of all is oriental amber, a rich shade something like pulled taffy. All the colors of the orient are in fashion, and oriental amber, because it is practical as well as beautiful, is at the top for afternoon. Patou makes lace and chiffon combined frocks in this shade. Illustrated here is one of them that the ladies of fashion wear on hot afternoons and informally on warm evenings.

The top of the blouse of this model is made of chiffon and so are the short sleeves. Flaring lace cuffs ripple around the plain sleeves. The bodice has a yoke and is gathered below it. Just above the belt line it is made of lace. A wide antelope belt made to fasten on an ivory cylinder is brown in color.

The skirt has a small round yoke of chiffon, in front only, and the rest of it is lace, cut circular and getting wide around the bottom.

Swift Gestures Detrimental to Chic Presence

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In a chat with Joan Bennett, the charming screen star, I learned of a certain admonition constantly delivered by picture directors that I think the rest of us fair creatures might appropriate advantageously for ourselves, in the interest of a more charming presentation of ourselves.

"Don't rush it! Don't rush it!" This is how the screen player is constantly reprimanded. A gesture, a pleasant mannerism, a line to be spoken does not register if it is done hurriedly, the screen people are told. Nor does it register gracefully in non-professional life. Isn't it true? It's the hurried movement that creates stiff and awkward gestures, clumsiness. The hurried speech creates the slurring of words, nervous voice mannerisms.

Joan Bennett is a blonde young person, trim and chic in tailored things, who does not believe in running to pattern. You and I might think: "Here's a girl just made for the picture type of frock, the bright lipstick, and ruffled jabots and the like. She uses a medium lipstick shade and her wardrobe, complete to evening things, is fashioned after the simplest tailored lines possible.

When I saw her she was wearing a one piece navy, simply cut, with deep white collar and cuffs edged in Persian embroidery, plain blue pumps, and an off-the-face navy felt hat of the halo order. She wears her hair brushed back completely off the brow, loosely waved over the ears, ending in a wide roll that runs from ear to ear in the back.

In case any of you young women feel that because you have to wear glasses luck is against you, take Miss Joan Bennett as an example of how the obstacle may be overcome with attention to all the other details, so that the glasses are quite forgotten. She tells me she has had to wear them since she was 8 because of her nearsightedness.

Civic Concerts Open; Reviewer Praises Artist

BY EDWARD MOORE.

A new series of musical attractions, the People's Civic concerts, got under way at Kimball hall last night. It is apparently the same series that has been on view at the Jewish People's institute for some weeks past, and, judging by its first item last night, there has been excellent reason for transferring the list to the downtown district.

The item was a recital by Janet Gunn, pianist. Here is a young artist who, there is reason to believe, is on her way to go places in music. She has at least three of the qualifications that one looks for in a musician. The first is a tone of striking firmness and beauty. The second is a technical development which, as far as it has advanced, appears to be entirely sound and reliable. At that, it has advanced a considerable distance, though it will probably go farther.

But what is most important of all is what sounds like a completely honest, sincere approach to music. One may in the course of seasons hear the Bach-Busoni Toccata and Fugue in D minor played more brilliantly. One will seldom hear it played with more earnest desire to project what Bach put into it. That is why one believes that Miss Gunn has a musical future.

With prelude and intermissions of explanatory comments by her father, Glenn Dillard Gunn, she played a first group of the number just cited, a chorale of the same authorship and transcription, and the Rameau-Godowsky "Tambourin," a second group consisting of eight Chopin Preludes, and a third by Rachmaninoff, Brahms, and Liszt. Here there was more good piano playing, perhaps falling short in the matter of fanciful imagination, but logical, straightforward, and unfailingly frank.

Manual Training School Class Will Meet Tonight

Noble B. Judah, Hubert Burnham, Alfred T. Carton, Emory Rockwell, Albert G. Sherer, Edward E. Brown, John Dunham, and James Forstall will be among the class of 1900 of the Chicago Manual Training school to meet tonight at the Chicago Athletic association. The Manual Training school was organized by the Commercial Club of Chicago in 1882 at 12th street and Michigan avenue, where it remained until 1904, when it joined with the University High school at the University of Chicago. In 1900 a class of 100 students was graduated. This is the only class that has continued to meet annually for dinner since graduation.

on present trends, ideas, and problems in education.

If the large and enthusiastic audience that greeted Philip Manuel and Gavin Williamson several weeks ago when they gave their harpsichord concert at the Goodman theater is taken as an indication, the Bethlehem crèche should make a sizable sum through its benefit this evening in the Manuel-Williamson studios, 5518 Hyde Park boulevard.

The program is to be given at 8:30 o'clock by the pupils of these two artists. It will include numbers by Dorothy Lane, harpsichordist; Madaline Reinecke, soprano, and Milasa Korinkova, pianist.

For 39 years Bethlehem crèche has been a center for service to children in the neighborhood of Wells and 53d streets. Before the depression this service was a day nursery, but with unemployment and mothers at home the service rendered has been in large part the serving of hot lunches to undernourished boys and girls. Even more important, however, is the recreational group work among boys and girls of school age.

Attend West Coast Junior League Meeting.

Mrs. Alfred Wolfe and Miss Helen Bell are in San Francisco representing the Chicago Junior league at the conference of all the leagues now in session. Mrs. Langbourne Williams spent a day or two here last week with Mrs. Charles Breasted on her way west to represent the New York league.

The Baroness D'Almeida, the former Barbara Tapper, arrived in Highland Park Saturday morning to spend ten days with her mother, Mrs. William R. Tapper. The baroness preceded her husband to this country, for he is making a flying business trip from Paris to New York, and she wanted to see her old friends, many of whom will be entertaining for her during the brief time she is here. The baroness will meet the baron in New York after ten days and they will sail for France early next month. The former Miss Tapper did not bring any of her three sons, Tony, Louis, and Georges, with her.

Rents Summer Home To Aid Needy Family.

Through the generosity of Mrs. William W. Darrow of Winnetka, a number of north shore families and a few townsfolk are enjoying delightful week-ends at Lakeside, Mich., a colony on the shore of Lake Michigan where about 60 Chicago families have had their summer homes for a quarter of a century and more.

During May and June Mrs. Darrow is opening her Lakeside home, which is large and rambling and surrounded by attractive gardens, to a few specially invited guests. The receipts, over and above expenses, she is giving to help a family in financial need.

This coming week-end there's a gay young party going up on Saturday to ride horseback and to hike over the beautiful dune trails and to play golf and tennis. Miss Nancy Harris, whose engagement to Dudley Russell Palmer was made known yesterday; Miss Eleanor Janney, Miss Jean Boyd, and Miss Anne Thomas, all of Winnetka, will be the girls in the party. Besides Mr. Palmer the young men will be Russell Thomas, Louis Dean, William Truesdale, and Donald Weatherby.

The following week-end three north shore families are to go. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Welsh, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Rothermel Jr., and the Walter Straubs and their children are driving over. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick de Peyster and the Arthur M. Barretts are just back from a similar week-end.

Mrs. Darrow and her three children are reserving the house for their own occupancy during July and August and early September. The late Mr. Darrow built the home some 20 years ago and they've never missed a summer at Lakeside since then.

Harold Swift has a lovely house at the resort. Other homes are occupied by the Harold Whites, Judge and Mrs. Francis Wilson, the Walter Warrens, Mrs. George A. Cragg, the William E. Sparrows, and the Raymond Dalys. Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum has a farm up above Lakeside, near St. Joe, but she won't be there this summer since she has already sailed for Germany. Nearer Chicago than Lakeside, at Dune Acres, are the junior Robert Whites, who have already moved into the house they have taken for the summer months.

Belittling of Mate in Public Bad Practice

BY DORIS BLAKE.

We had occasion recently to observe two wives and their respective attitudes toward their husbands at a social gathering. Each wife obviously is in love with her husband. Neither would give up her particular man for worlds. Judging the caliber of both men they would be complete zanies if they did. The question probably never will arise in the relationship of one of the pair. It just may with the other couple, if the wife continues her habit of belittlin' her man before other people.

Her man is a clever person, can tell a story better than any one. We mean he could tell it, if his little woman would let him proceed without her barbed shafts interrupting the recital. Perhaps it is her way of indicating that she is an important part in the life of this man of hers. It may be just a childish way of having the limelight turned on her.

The other woman in the scene referred to is far more clever. When her man has the spotlight, she lets him have it. You feel the pride in him that she obviously entertains. And, when all is said and done, a smart wife can do a lot of "good selling" of that man of hers. By her attitude of respect for him, she gains for him other people's respect. If she belittles him or indicates an attitude of slight contempt, people simply figure that she knows the man best and he can't be quite the man his public ordinarily would grant him to be.

Simple Cooky Recipe Yields Five Varieties

Dainties Are Concocted in Double Quick Time.

BY MARY MEADE.

We've talked about versatility in foods before, but the other day up popped a recipe that put us to shame for our idle chatter. Talk about flexibility! We found a cooky (or rather five cookies) which can change appearance as effortlessly as a chameleon.

This many mooded cooky starts out with two simple ingredients. For one, a can (1 1-3 cups) of sweetened condensed milk, that material with which so many culinary wonders are achieved. The second is a half cup of peanut butter.

Then, with those two set out on the kitchen table, take your choice of one of these:

1. Two cups raisins.
2. Two cups corn flake cereal.
3. Three cups coconut.
4. Two cups bran flake cereal.
5. One cup chopped nut meats.

Once the choice is made, blend it with your sweetened condensed milk and the peanut butter. Drop the mixture by spoonfuls onto a greased baking sheet and bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F., for fifteen minutes or until delicately browned. Reward: Thirty cookies.

We found another changeable recipe that same day. This isn't such a presto-chango sort of creature, but it does offer several interesting possibilities. First of all, it can go to the table as an ethereal rhubarb fluff, secure in its own charm. Next, it makes something that, by the remotest stretch of imagination, can be called a shortcake. Not a bona fide shortcake, but an appetizing combination of moist, tender sponge cake topped with the light rosy mixture. Or it can go into a crisp baked pie shell or small tartlets, making a rhubarb chiffon filling. Any way you look at it, it's made like this:

Rhubarb Fluff.

¾ cup sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1½ teaspoons granulated gelatin
1 tablespoon cold water
2 egg whites
2 tablespoons sugar

Cook the rhubarb until tender. Then, to the hot fruit add the sugar, lemon juice, and the gelatin, which has been softened in the cold water. Stir until the gelatin and sugar are completely dissolved. Cool. When the mixture begins to thicken, whip it until it holds its shape. Beat the egg whites with the sugar and fold into the whipped rhubarb mixture. Chill and serve as fits your fancy of the moment.

We haven't led up to a prize prune recipe especially well, but there's one here that's begging space. A Miss Miller of Fresno, Cal., won an electric mixer on this one from the San Jose Chamber of Commerce, and upon her recommendation (and ours) it's one you'll enjoy:

Prune Cheese Tart.

1 cup sieved prunes
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 pound sieved cottage cheese
1-3 cup sugar
¼ cup milk
3 beaten eggs
Grated rind and juice of a medium lemon
1 tablespoon melted butter
Few grains salt

Mix the prune purée with the lemon juice and spread on the bottom of a baked pie shell. Mix the remaining ingredients and pour over the prunes. Bake in a moderate oven until the center of the mixture is firm, about 50 to 55 minutes, and serve cold. Miss Miller says that chopped nuts or shredded coconut may be added, but that's up to you. It's good without either.

Wistaria.

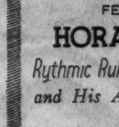
Now is the time to think about making a quilt of "Wistaria" because it is one of the earliest blooms and most beautiful of cluster flowers. The delicacy of the flower has been captured for a quilt, and the combination of the light blue or lavender wistaria bloom against a soft pink background, with a touch of green for contrast, is as exquisite as the live model from which it was copied.

YOU'RE HAPPY WHEN YOU'RE FIT



Think back over the last month. The days you enjoyed most were the days you felt in great shape. Increase these sunny days by keeping fit.

Avoid common constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals. It may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy. It dulls your enthusiasm, takes the fun out of living.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes you with "bulk" in convenient form. ALL-BRAN also provides vitamin B and iron. This gentle natural food is much better than patent medicines. Unlike cathartics, it remains effective with continued use.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Severe cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

AN UNAVOIDABLE SLAM.

After yesterday's debacle, both sides are still game in, and the Aggressives have 80 points toward their second game. The Conservatives are plus 14 on the two previous rubbers, and have 230 points above the line to the Aggressive's 180 points. Mrs. Aggressive, sitting West, dealt today's hand.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 Ht.	Pass	2 Di. [1]	Pass [2]
2 Ht. [3]	Pass	3 Cl. [4]	Pass
3 N. T. [5]	Pass	4 N. T. [6]	Pass
6 N. T. [7]	Pass	Pass	Pass

First. Naturally, under ordinary circumstances, Mr. Aggressive would not dream of giving a forcing jump takeout on this hand, as he lacks a fit in his partner's heart suit. With a part score of 80, he must be equally as careful. A forcing response at this point will almost certainly result in a slam bid; and he cannot be sure that it is in the cards, without further information, despite his partner's first hand opening. It is very comforting to know definitly, when your partner gives you a forcing response, that there is a certain game in the hand, and a very probable slam. It is equally comforting for him to feel the same way about your original two and three bids in a suit. Keep your forcing bids sound!

Second. With a seven-card suit, South might well have made a two-spade overcall at this point. Against this bid, East and West will probably not slam in no-trumps. If East plays the hand at six diamonds or six clubs, and the jack of spades is opened, he has a bad guess about the king. If he plays the hand at six diamonds, he also has to read the location of the jack of diamonds. South felt, however, that as she lacked the tops in her suit, a defensive overcall would enable the opponents to cue-bid the hand into a slam. She was prepared to take a sacrifice a little later, if the bidding died at the two, or three range.

Third. The conventional rebid.

Fourth. Still refusing to force—but making a very constructive bid.

Fifth. West also constructs the hand, showing strength in spades, and some sort of fit in either diamonds or clubs, or both. This bid is particularly fine in view of the part-score of 80. West indicates that the hand can safely be played at the four range in either of the minor suits.

Seventh. Accepted!

North, naturally, had a difficult opening to make. The lead of the king of spades looked suicidal. He finally led a small club. West took the trick in her own hand, and returned a club, taking with the ace in dummy. She then led a small heart, and her king held the trick. Since she must drive out the ace of hearts—the only unavoidable loser in the hand—she must also set up the heart suit as well. Therefore, she must lead hearts once more from dummy to guard against the possibility of a four-two division. She deliberately blocked herself by leading a small diamond. She reasoned thus: North, presumably, has four clubs. He probably also has four diamonds to the jack, and can therefore be squeezed, whether he holds the king of spades or not. On the lead of the fifth heart—or the ace of spades—North must either unguard his jack of diamonds or discard one of his clubs, thus enabling West to overtake the jack of clubs with the king for the needed re-entry in dummy. After South took the heart trick she led a spade. West went up with the ace, and as North's blank king dropped, all this careful planning was unnecessary, but it was sound. The diamond finesse, which holds, is a desperate gamble. West had provided for the jack of diamonds' dropping, if South holds its doubleton, or tripleton, and North refuses to be squeezed in that suit.

The Aggressives, by this slam bid, win a 15 rubber, making them plus 100 points on the three rubbers.

FILIPINOS BEGIN FREEDOM VOTE; POLLS GUARDED

Predict Huge Majority to Accept Offer.

MANILA, P. I., May 14.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—Still jittery over Sakdalista disturbances, Filipinos voted at heavily guarded polls today as government leaders unanimously predicted overwhelming ratification of the ten year commonwealth government before complete independence from the United States.

Reinforced constabulary was unusually alert because of recurrent rumors of further violence planned by the Sakdalistas or advocates of immediate independence, whose uprising May 2 resulted in 60 deaths.

Early Vote Light.

The voting began at 7 a. m. [6 p. m. Monday, Chicago time] and advices from several provinces indicated the balloting was lighter than in the elections of last June, despite the addition of women's suffrage. More than 200,000 women had the ballot privilege for the first time.

Acting Governor General Joseph R. Hayden joined Filipino leaders in urging the 1,700,000 registered voters to cast their ballots.

The constabulary arrested two Sakdalista party leaders and 80 others. Previously 500 persons were jailed as a precautionary measure. Constabulary forces seized Celerino Tiongco, a Sakdal leader, who, they said, was wanted "dead or alive," and also apprehended Simeon Decena, secretary of the group.

Tiongco, editor of the newspaper Sakdal, was captured in Rizal province near here, where he had been hiding with his followers.

Sakdalistas Thought Weak.

Political leaders were confident the Sakdalistas would be unable to dent the Filipinos' solid front in favor of a home rule régime. The leaders pointed out the extremists were numerous only in southern Luzon Island and constituted only a small minority of the people.

In an election eve address Manuel Roxas, member of the Philippine house and prominent independence advocate, warned that a "light vote will be misunderstood in the United States and elsewhere."

The Philippines, in case of an adverse vote, would revert to their former status as a possession of the United States under the Jones law of 1916.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Situations which might be met by the girls in every day occupations are acted out and afterwards analyzed for defects. The pupils are urged to act as in real situations, displaying fear, anger and joy.

Correct Defects They See.

They said, "many traits which indicate personality difficulties are disclosed, anxieties, stage fright, stuttering, egocentric tendencies, awkward carriages, stubborness, over-excitation, fantastic and unreasonable attitudes and so on. From step to step the student through such training becomes able spontaneously to outgrow such shortcomings.

"Our educational methods today are not teaching the students to face actual situations with maximum efficiency they are loading him with information which for the most part never touches the act centers of his personality. Training in spontaneity tries to remedy this lack."

It was explained at another part of today's session that "sick headaches" may be due to too little meat in the diet.

Dr. Eugene Foldes of New York said both migraine and epilepsy are attributed by many medical authorities to "wet brain," to too much moisture gathering in the gray matter. For this reason diets to control water have been used on epilepsy.

Dr. Foldes' rich meat diet is a water control principle. He said that with its use migraine had disappeared altogether in a number of cases. In others, severity of headaches had decreased or else had not occurred so often.

In epilepsy, he said "a response was manifested in all cases, either complete disappearance of attacks or decreases in severity."

Sugar in Diet Decreases.

Along with the added meat, the carbohydrate or sugar foods must be cut down, and fats carefully proportioned. Otherwise Dr. Foldes said, the extra meat will do no good and can do harm.

For a 165 pound man he estimated a migraine-epilepsy diet ranging from just under a quarter pound to nearly a third of a pound of meat daily. When properly proportioned with other food, he explained this keeps the body from retaining the excess water which seems to set off epileptic and migaine attacks.

Question Bartender About Missing Tavern Hostess

George Cox, 24 years old, 1232 North La Salle street, bartender in a loop hotel, was questioned by the central police last night about the disappearance of Miss Bobbie Lee, 24 year old tavern hostess. She is believed to be the woman who plunged in the river from the Wabash avenue bridge early on May 2, after an altercation with two men and a woman. Cox said he had been out with Miss Lee twice, but not the night of her disappearance. The night clerk at the hotel where the girl lived, asserted however, according to the police, that Cox had been there the night of May 1.

MICHIGAN DONS SPRING MANTLE OF PINK, WHITE

Blossoms Beautify State for All to Admire.

BY MARCIA WINN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Joseph, Mich., May 13.—[Special.]—Now is the time to drink deeply and long of beauty in this, the heart of the Michigan blossom country.

For spring has come to Michigan. It has come in an unprecedented torrent of bloom, sprayed lavishly along village lane and country hillside and sandy dune alike.

To city dwellers, skeptical after six long months of graying skies of the once familiar "If winter comes, can spring be far behind?" a vision of this sudden spring comes as welcome as rain after drouth, and they can not have enough of it.

Blossoms Lure Visitors.

From far away spots they have come here, by train, by motor, and by boat, to ride along these quiet Berrien county roads and see for themselves a countryside that is sheathed and blanketed in pink and white blossom.

At first the wide-eyed newcomers drive frenziedly from one hilltop to another for fear the flowery fields are as evanescent as they are fragile. And then, as the scope and the sight and the fragrance of this beauty soaks into their thirsty souls, they drive more slowly, and more slowly again, until suddenly they become a part of it all.

Some of these blooms, the miles and miles of orchards, are the result of years of thoughtful pruning by hardy fruit growers, through whose toil Michigan has become world famous as a second Garden of Eden. Some are the result of careful nurturing by blossom conscious garden clubs. And some, vagrant and unexpectedly beautiful, are the result of no human labor at all.

There Before Fruit Grower.

These last were there long before the fruit grower came to transform mead into orchard. They were there long before the Pottawatomie Indian made his furtive trail along the lake shore. And they are still there.

Here the gossamer blossoms of a wild cherry tree shine out paper-white against the darkening green of towering pines. Over here are the red and yellow cups of the wild tulip tree. Or here, standing out alone in a pale green mead, are the rose blooms of the wild quince.

Here is a field carpeted with deep blue crocus. Over there is a wild apple, its unpruned branches fantastically gnarled, its unfurled buds rose pink against curly green leaves. Or here, most beautiful of all, gleam the wide, spreading branches of the flowering dogwood, while in the background shoots up, as the perfect foil, the tall, straight redbud, gray trunk, and reddish purple buds.

Beauty Is Unmarred.

These, along wooded bypath or yellow sand dunes leading into and out of the orchard country, have been happily untouched by exploitation. More happily yet, their beauty is unmarred by flamboyant billboards, from which the countryside is bewilderingly free.

As one approaches the heavily-cultivated fruit country itself, for which St. Joseph and Benton Harbor form a market center, the wild blooms, seen in such fleeting clusters, disappear entirely, to be superseded by an entire countryside of regimented bloom.

Here, for miles in the interior, or for miles along the lake—choose as you please—are orchards, and lanes, and borders—of fruit trees—and all in bloom. Pause for a moment on a hillside and catch your breath in sudden delight. As far as the eye can see is wave upon wave of flowering trees.

Pears Have Flowery Spikes.

Here is a field of pears, heavy white blossoms against black trunks, shooting heavenward in flowery spikes. Directly behind is a peach orchard of palest pink. Beyond that are cherries in full white clusters.

The apple trees are not yet in full bloom, but their buds are round and fat and pink. The first sunny day, natives promise, will see them out.

The whole blooming season, veteran growers will say, is a little late. One of them, a grizzled old orchardier, blames it on the late Easter.

"Sure," he says. "Easter was late. A late Easter always affects spring. When Easter is early we have trees in full blossom the last of April. Now we've got to wait a while." He sits a moment, looking around at his pink and white fields. "I dunno, though," he adds, "pretty decent crop of blossoms right now."

Anyway, Easter or no Easter, spring has come to Michigan, and, if a late frost doesn't interfere, it is there to stay.

Pitkin Declares Machines Could Offset Depression

Machine development will offset the depression if given a chance, Walter B. Pitkin, author, declared yesterday at the Founder's day luncheon of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, in the Palmer house. Scientists already have at their fingertips new inventions and discoveries which, put into immediate use, would speed production 75 per cent, and thereby, Dr. Pitkin asserted, reduce the cost of living to a fraction of what it now is. Their use, he said, "would bring about changes in American life as stupendous as the changes wrought in England by the industrial revolution."

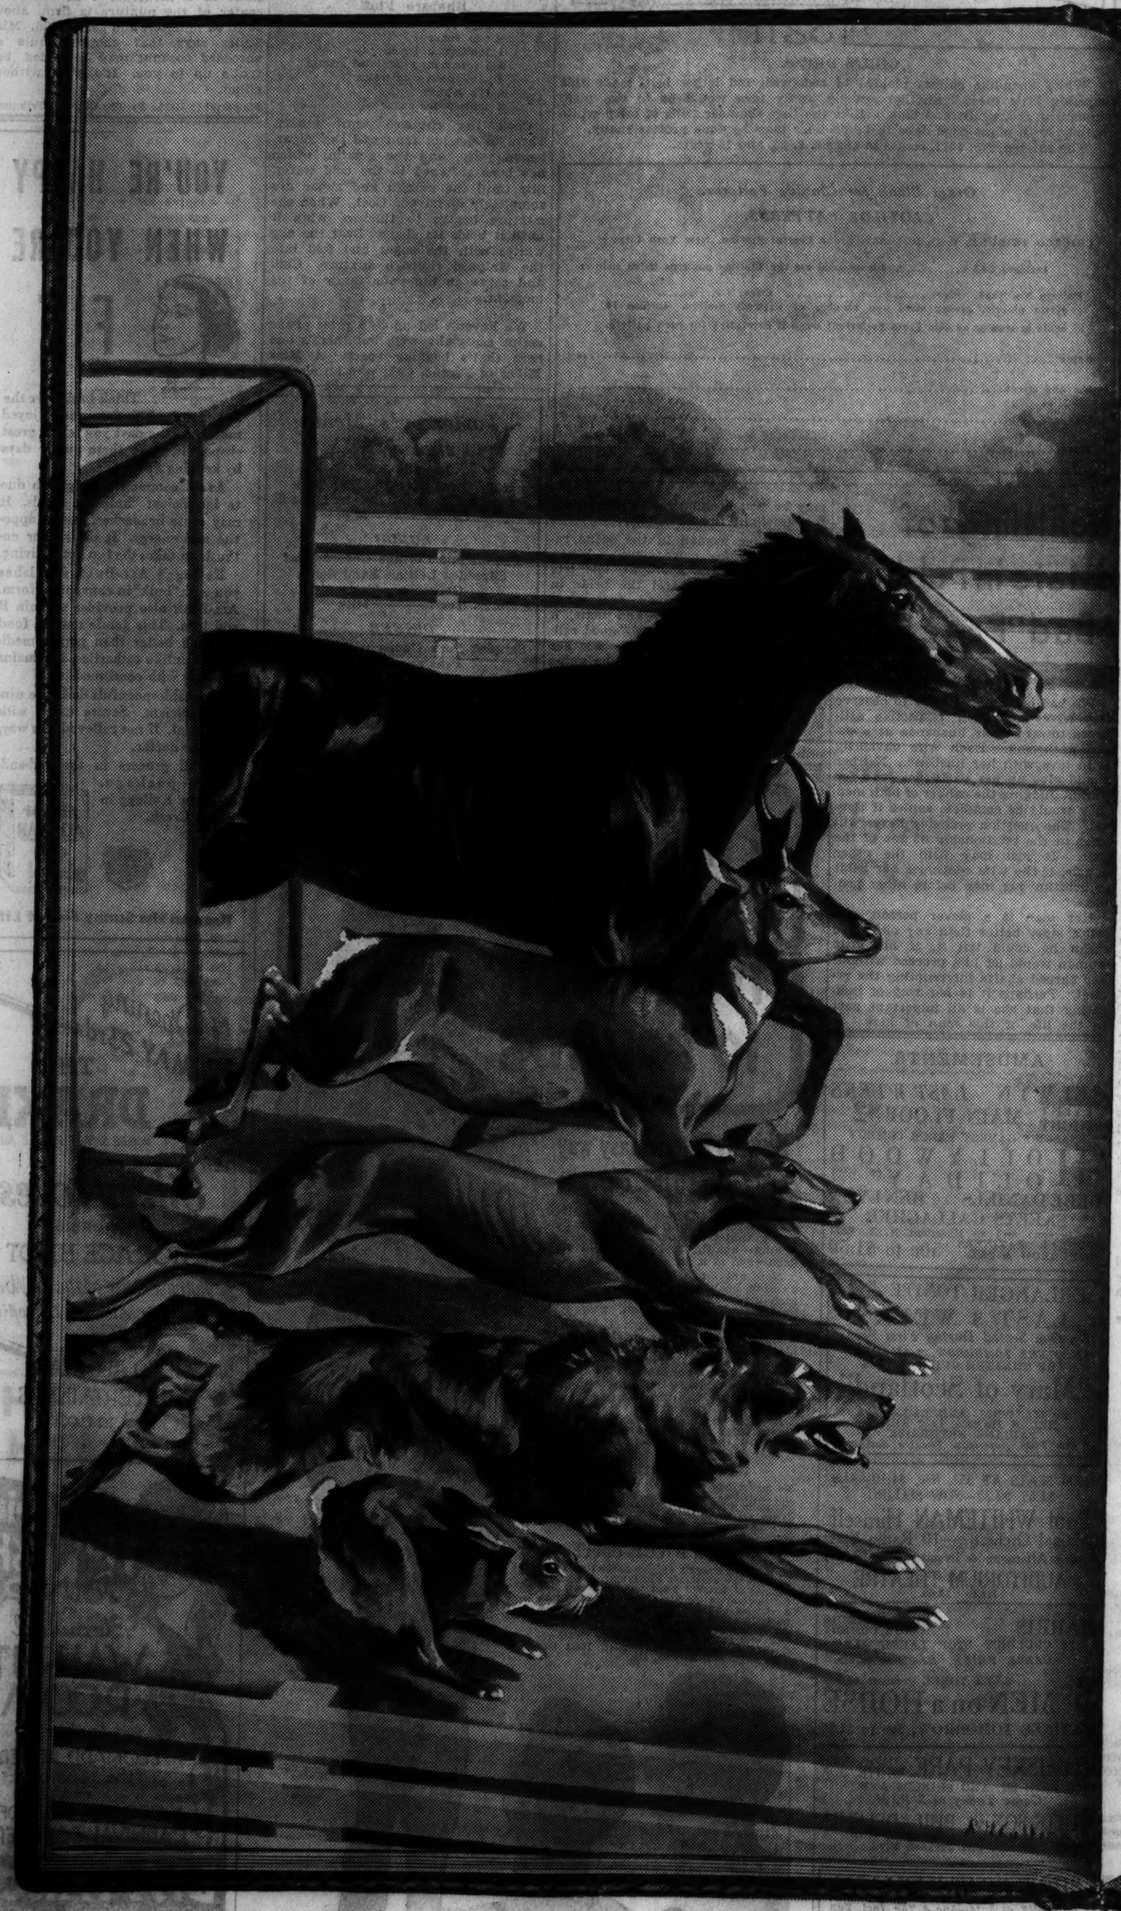
Standard Oil's Live Power Album



CAN YOU PICK THE WINNER?

Here's the pick of Animal-Kingdom speedsters lined up for a one-mile race—every entry noted for his ability to get over the ground in a hurry. Look them over and see if you know which really has the most Live Power.

The result of this hypothetical race might be predicted on the basis of the following computations by a world-famous authority on animals:

Thoroughbred Horse.....34 miles per hour
Prong-horned Antelope...32 miles per hour
Greyhound.....30 miles per hour
Texas Jackrabbit.....28 miles per hour
American Grey Wolf.....20 miles per hour

YOU GET A RUN FOR YOUR MONEY (a long, fast one!)

BECAUSE of the extra Live Power—real working power—now at your command in Standard Red Crown you get long, low-cost mileage. But economy isn't the only big feature of this 1935 gasoline.

The increased power output has a twofold purpose: (1) to restore, in older motors, a major share of their former speed, keenness and vigor; (2) to give new-car owners the full performance capacity of the 1935 motors.

And Standard Red Crown, of course, also has an abundance of Tetraethyl Lead, the finest anti-knock agent—yet it still sells for the price of "regular."

From any angle, it is the best buy in gasoline today. Stop for a tankful where you see the familiar sign of—STANDARD OIL SERVICE.

ITALIAN BOXERS SHUN SIGHTS OF CITY FOR WORK

Rain Halts Early Morning Run.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

A thunderstorm that prevented road-work, and cold, gray skies rested lightly on Italy's amateur boxing champions yesterday as they settled down to nine days' intensive training for their international bouts with Chicago's Golden Gloves team at the Stadium on May 22.

There was no complaint and only a slight deviation from the rigid schedule which will be followed each day at the Medinah Athletic club, where the invading boxers are quartered. Up at 6 o'clock, which will be their lot until a week from Wednesday, the boxers were ready to go on the road for a three mile run through Lincoln park. But when the storm descended they went to the Medinah club gymnasium for a 45 minute workout before breakfast.

There is generally a tendency among foreign visitors to crowd each day of their stay with excursions, shopping trips, shows, and such other activities that naturally appeal to enthusiastic youths traveling at some one else's expense. In this respect the Italians are different.

The Boys Talk Fight.

They stayed near the Medinah club throughout the day, singing, awaiting the afternoon workout, and talking fight. All the talk is about fighting. They had no desire to see the sights in Chicago, mentioned not once their opponents on May 22, and evinced a determination to do the business at hand without thought of the future. Future events, the boxers intimated, will take care of themselves.

The Italians have come to Chicago set on acquitting themselves creditably. This, to them, means only one thing—victory. The seriousness of their intent is best reflected in their unwillingness to volunteer predictions of triumph. If you ask them, they regard you as a trifle silly to even doubt they are not going to win. But if you don't ask them, they will make no prophecy.

They want only three things. First of all, victory. Secondly, they want to see the spot where Gen. Balbo and his famous squadron landed on the occasion of its visit to A Century of Progress. And thirdly, if it can be arranged without interfering with their training schedule, they would like to accept Zeke Bonura's invitation to be his guests at a White Sox game. Zeke has promised to hit a home run for them.

Bonura Is Familiar Name.

Bonura's visit to the Medinah Sunday revealed another interesting insight into the young champions. They know nothing about baseball, but the mere mention of the White Sox slugger's name brought a chorus of "O's." As athletes they are intensely interested in all sports and knew of Bonura and his deeds long before they came to America.

Led by Angelo Saruggia, the heavyweight truck driver from Milan, they made a rush for the news stand before breakfast yesterday to read about the reception at Garfield park Sunday night, where 120,000 people welcomed them to Chicago.

The welcome was overwhelming and formed the greater part of the discussion around the club yesterday. An interpreter had to read every line of stories about the reception to the entire squad while breakfast was being served.

Saruggia was particularly impressed. A veteran in international competition, it eclipsed anything he had seen except the turnouts in Italy for Il Duce and high statesmen.

"Paris, okay," he said. "Budapest, okay. London, okay. But Chicago—'magnifico!' 'MAGNIFICO!'"

Mario Goes Waltzing.

Mario Anniball, the light heavyweight, who is stealing the sheik laurels from the quiet, serious Saruggia, was the first boxer to run afoul of the discipline enforced by Rolando Galletti, chief of the group, and Trainer Angelo Castelli. He escaped the strict vigilance of Galletti and Castelli after the return from Garfield park Sunday night and was finally found making merry with a hall full

DAY KNOCKS OUT ERNIE RATNER IN SECOND ROUND

Des Moines, Ia., May 13.—(AP)—Davey Day of Chicago, former Des Moines newsboy, came back to the home town tonight to knock out Ernie Ratner of Newark, N. M., in the second round of their scheduled 10 round main event bout.

After an even first round, Day, considered a leading challenger for the lightweight crown, caught Ratner with a right to the jaw at the start of the second session and the Newark fighter went down for an eight count. He was on his feet only a few seconds before Day floored him again for full count. Day weighed 135 and Ratner 138.

108 QUALIFY FOR NATIONAL OPEN GOLF TOURNEY

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Eighty-eight professionals and twenty amateurs qualified for the national open golf championship in country-wide sectional play on twenty-four courses yesterday, and only a scattering few prominent stars of the game failed to make the grade.

The heaviest casualties were suffered in the New York district, where such pros as Clarence Clark, Bill Mehlhorn, Willie Klein, Johnny Kinder, and Joe Ezar, the touring Texan, all finished outside the qualifying limit.

In Cincinnati, Johnny Fischer, Walker Cup amateur, failed to qualify, and at Detroit another Big Ten star, Chuck Kocsis, was eliminated. Two former amateur champions, S. Davidson Herron and Max Marston, failed at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, respectively, while Scotty Campbell, Seattle, twice holder of the Canadian amateur crown, was beaten out in his home town trials.

Hancock, Clare, Gandy Fail.

Charlie Clare, New England amateur champion, failed in the Boston district, as did the professional, Roland Hancock, while Harry Gandy, Oklahoma City, who made a good showing in the last amateur championship, was beaten in a playoff at Tulsa.

But, in a general way, favorites made the grade. Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., star, set the pace for the qualifiers in the New York district with two former open champions, Willie Macfarlane and Johnny Farrell, in the list. Walter Hagen, another former open king, qualified at Detroit along with Al Watrous. Harold McSpaden was the leader in Kansas City.

The most interesting trial was at Pittsburgh. There the sectional was played over the Oakmont Country club course where the open itself will be played, starting June 6. Ray Mangrum, Los Angeles, was the leader at 150 and so tough was the course that 162 strokes qualified. Jimmy Thompson and Roland McKenzie were among the nine professionals and two amateurs who qualified there.

Goodman Leads at Omaha.

In Philadelphia Henry Picard, Ed Dudley, Felix Serafin, and Gene Kunes all qualified, and Maurice McCarthy, former Walker cup player, made the grade at Cleveland. Charley Yates, intercollegiate champion, was the leader at Atlanta, and the Turnesa brothers, professional Joe and amateur Willie, qualified in the Boston sector. Johnny Goodman, winner of the open title in 1933, was the leader in Omaha. Other qualifiers included Fay Coleman at Los Angeles, Willie Goggin at San Francisco, and Tony Manero at Greensboro, S. C.

The lowest score of the day was turned in by Ralph Beach in the Baltimore district. He put together rounds of 68—69 for a thirty-six hole total of 137. William Roach in the Cincinnati District was runner-up with 68—70 for 138.

With the qualifying of 108 players yesterday, the field at Oakmont now includes 148. Forty players, including Champion Olin Dutra and the low

Tony Lazzeri Through? Not This Season!

Detroit, Mich., May 13.—(AP)—It's a tough job to keep "Poosh 'Em Up" Tony down, and you can take Signor Anthony Lazzeri's word for that.

In other words, Tony Lazzeri, starting his tenth season with the New York Yankees, believes he is going to have one of the best years of his brilliant carrer. And from the way he's going—he hit two home runs Saturday against Cleveland to drive in five runs—it isn't hard to believe the Yankee second baseman is going somewhere on the comeback trail.

Through? Not Now!

For it is a comeback to Tony, whom the experts have counted out of the major leagues many times the last few years.

"The way I've started this year means a lot to me," Tony said today. "I know that a lot of people thought I was through as far back as five or six years ago. But I've got five years more of good baseball in me yet."

Tony, in 1927, was considered one of the greatest second basemen in the game. Then, in 1930, they started to count "ten" over Tony. He was slowing down, and his health wasn't so good. With young infielders like Frank Crosetti and Jack Saltzgaver ready, it didn't seem as if "Poosh 'Em Up" could last much longer, and trade rumors were rife.

Tony Keeps Going.

But Saltzgaver wasn't hitting, and Tony got his old job back. The Yanks won the pennant and world's series with Tony belting the ball at a .300 clip. He went home overweight before the season closed last year, and rumor again had it that Tony was through.

"It means a lot to me," he repeated. "I'll be only 32 this fall, and I want to stay in a while longer. When you hit 'em they'll travel, and I'll be hitting 'em this year."

AMONG Al Simmons' early jobs in Milwaukee was that of a pin boy in a bowling alley. . . . Occasionally, to help the score of some fellow he liked, Al would hold out the center pin, an accommodation that frequently netted him 50 cent tips. . . . In the WAKE of the NEWS

POTPOURRI.

AT Elmgate golf course, a former club now operated on a public fee basis, a young lady and her companion sat Saturday afternoon during the brief interval before their starting time. In her bag was a birthday present of a brand new set of "Bobby Jones" matched irons, produced by the Spalding firm. In her hand was a "Hol-Hi" ball manufactured by the Wilson firm.

Two young men came by. Without asking permission, one of them nonchalantly took a club from the young lady's bag and extended it toward his companion, saying, "Now look at that club. How does any one ever expect to hit a ball with that? Why, even a Hol-Hi wouldn't carry 50 yards from that club." Then he went on explaining alleged faults of the club.

Naturally the young woman was furious, but did not wish to become involved in a scene with two strangers. Just then the foursome of the two men was called. The young women were next to go and the offended one said to the starter, "Do you know the name of that tall young fellow in the foursome ahead?"

"No," replied the starter, "but he's one of that Wilson sporting goods crowd who are holding a company tournament here today."

On Kentucky Derby afternoon a group of young people assembled at an Evanston home to have a sociable afternoon and to hear the radio broadcast of the race. There were the usual Derby embellishments, including even the succulent mint julep.

Some of the boys decided to have their own pari-mutuel betting pool conducted as at the track, but with no "take." Wagers were limited to a minimum of 10 cents and a maximum of two bits on any one horse, but any number of horses could be played. For inspection and guidance was a copy of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE containing French Lane's forecast of probable post prices.

Most of the betters tried to pick a long shot. As a result pay-off price in this particular pool on Omaha, winner, was 25½ to 1. At the track it was 4 to 1. A young lady of mathematical mind then figured that Sun Fairplay, extreme outsider at Louisville, with odds of 52 to 1, would have paid 9 to 2 in this particular pool.

Visiting in Paris.

We went to dinner the other night,
Poli and Romi and me.
The apartment was French, so was the hostess,
So was the patisserie.
We all played bridge; the effort brought
A lusty glow to my cheek.
I had to remember a heart was "cur,"
A good old spade was a "peek."
"You speak so well," the natives said,
"Like us, you really do. . . ."
So when we called the taxi man
We hoped he'd think so, too.
"He's fooled," we thought, for his radio
Was tuned to a Paris station,
But he hastily dialed an English pub. . . .
Imagine our consternation!

GABBY MAKES 4 HITS AS TEAM WINS 4TH IN ROW

Only Half Game Out of Second Place.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 13.—A mighty handsome battery, Bill Lee and Gabby Hartnett, abetted ably in the pinches by associate Cubs, this afternoon won a whale of a ball game from the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3 to 2. The victory ran the Cubs' winning streak to four straight and moved them within a half game of their second place adversaries.

Few games ever presented more thrills for the lovers of nip and tuck baseball. Three Dodgers, two in one inning, were thrown out at the plate and the Cubs suffered one such demise. And just to make it exciting to the end the Dodgers put men on third and second after two were out in the ninth. Then, with the count three balls and two strikes, a fly ball supplied the final out of the afternoon.

10 Hits for Cubs.

The Cubs made ten hits, four of them by Hartnett. Three of the total were made in the first Chicago scoring inning and three more were made in the other scoring session when Hartnett, Lee, and Augie Galan drove Lefty Clark from the game with three doubles which converted a 2 to 1 disadvantage into the 3 to 2 edge that prevailed at the finish.

Lee held the Dodgers to seven hits, including the two made after two were out in the ninth. But no pitcher ever splashed in and out of hot water as much as Bill did. In the third the Dodgers had the bases full with none out and derived only one run from the situation. They had runners on third and first with none out and the bases full with two out in the fifth and couldn't count a run. In the sixth they had the bases full with none out, after scoring their final run, but obviously didn't score another run. This was the inning in which two were sunk at the plate. The third out was made on a tremendous play by Freddy Lindstrom.

Lee Handy with Bat.

Lee was compensated for all his anxiety by his success at bat. He drove in Hartnett with the tying run with a double after two were out in the seventh and later scored the winning run on Galan's double. That double of Galan's, incidentally, was the only hit made by the five men at the top of the batting order excepting a Texas league single by Stainback in the sixth which promptly was blotted out in a double play.

The success gave the Cubs a record of ten victories in their last thirteen games. Their four straight is hooked up with the two defeats in their double header with the Giants, so even if they lose the two remaining games here they will have a .500 record for their road trip.

Cubs Score in Second.

The first five Cub batsmen were rather soft for Clark, but the next three, Cavarretta, Hartnett, and Jurges, got a run across after two were out in the second. Cavarretta beat out a single to deep short and sprinted to third on Hartnett's single to center. Jurges then singled to left center, Cavaretta scoring and Hartnett stopping at second. Lee forced Jurges. Flies to each of the three outfielders disposed of the Dodgers in the latter half of the second.

Jurges and Galan put on their well know you-take-it act in short left to give Lopez a spurious double at the start of the home third. Lee seemed greatly upset by the recurrence of the Jurges-Galan confusion maneuver. At any rate, he loaded the bases by walking Clark and Boyle on a total of nine pitches. Frey filed to Cuyler and Lopez scored after the catch, the other runners holding their bases. Cuyler came in fast for a shoe string catch of Stripp's drive and threw to Jurges to double Clark off second.

What a Single.

Hartnett went for the distance record for singles when he led off the fifth with a line single against the left field wall, a matter of 383 feet. Gabby went to second and Jurges reached first when Clark fumbled Jurges' bunt. Lee attempted to sacrifice and forced Hartnett at third. Taylor made a great running catch of Galan's fly and Herman lined to Boyle.

Koenecke opened the Brooklyn fourth with a single off the score

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Several of our most noted golfing handicappers recently have been dropping pearls of clairvoyant wisdom about the likely outcome of an interesting little tournament which will be played at the Oakmont Country club near Pittsburgh, Pa., on June 6, 7, and 8—the national open, no less.

They have squinted into crystal balls, they have read tea leaves, and they have written chain letters to themselves. Thomas D. Armour, who should know something about the matter, having won the 1927 open at Oakmont, has come up with five names which might come down in front on the evening of June 8—Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Harry Cooper, Henry Picard, and Paul Runyan. Signor Sarazen, coyly overlooking himself, likes Johnny Revolta or Picard, and old Mr. Hagen leans toward Runyan.

How About Mr. Dutra?

These are all very fine names, indeed, and worthy ones, but where is the name of the big guy who holds the championship now—Olin Dutra? The big guy was in town for a spell yesterday and, while he named no names, it was obvious that he favors the chances of a 205 pound giant from California named Olin Dutra.

"I like my chances as well as those of anybody in the open," Olin opined. "For one thing, the rest of the field will tee off with the knowledge that I hold the championship and that I am playing as well as I ever have. My short game is at its top; I'm a better driver than I was in 1932, when I nearly won the open at Fresh Meadow, and I like keen greens. I'm in far better physical condition than I was at Merion last year, weighing about 205 pounds now. At Merion I came to the tournament weighing about 198, and by the time I had won it, scaled only 183."

Play Notre Dame Today.

Olin stopped over yesterday to wait for Jimmy Thompson, his partner on a current barnstorming tour, who went down to Pittsburgh yesterday to qualify for the open with 159. Thompson will be back this morning and he and Olin will then be on their way, stopping off at Notre Dame this afternoon to play against the best ball of the Irish golf team's quartet of John Banks, Win Day, Bill Cole, and Pat Malloy.

Their tour will continue on through Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania, and eventually they will come back to these parts to play an exhibition match in Illinois on May 24. No opponents for the pair have been named, but it was understood yesterday that Ky Laffoon and Dick Metz will be sent against them.

Fishing Comes First.

Since the Masters' tournament at Augusta, Dutra and Thompson have played 31 matches, and expect to crowd in fifteen more before the open. Olin, who has never played Oakmont, expects to arrive there about four days before the tournament, but not until he has had a week's fishing, during which he hopes to forget there ever was such a game as golf.

The huge Californian said yesterday that he is becoming weary of traveling and is on the lookout for a regular club job in the Chicago or New York district, so that he could devote most of his time to teaching, a branch of the game which he greatly admires. Then, too, the barnstorming exhibitions of the last year have not allowed him much time with Mrs. Dutra and their 11 year old daughter and 10 year old son, and the big boy is strong for the home hearth at all times.

CANZONERI MUST MEET DAVEY DAY TO REGAIN TITLE

Tony Canzoneri, recognized in this state as No. 1 contender for Barney Ross' vacated lightweight championship, will not be given title recognition by the Illinois boxing commission until he conquers Davey Day, Chairman Joe Triner and Commissioners George Getz and Packey McFarland intimated yesterday. Ray, stablemate of Ross, has been named No. 2 challenger in Illinois. Canzoneri earned recognition as the new champion in New York following his victory over Lou Ambers last Friday.

Harry Dublinsky, Chicago welterweight challenger, and Eddie [Kid] Wolfe, Memphis, Tenn., have been matched to box ten rounds at New Orleans, La., May 23. . . . Dublinsky was victorious in a scrap with Wolfe at New Orleans a week ago. . . . Reddy Mason, manager of the late Harry Greb, has taken over the management of Fritz Zivic, Pittsburgh, Pa., junior welterweight. . . . Zivic is booked to box at Kent, O., next Monday and June 6 at Pittsburgh against Chuck Woods of Detroit. . . . The state commission yesterday granted Promoter Sam Abruscato permission to offer wrestling cards at Western stadium May 20 and May 27. . . . He intends to present the first of a series of boxing programs there May 23. . . .

Jimmy Christy, the Catholic Youth organization junior lightweight star, is being treated for a jaw abscess and a nasal infection. . . . Finals of the Catholic Boys' club tournament winners of which will meet the C. Y. O. champions here in July, will be held at Dyckman arena, New York, June 5. . . . Ray Wozniak, Villa Park light heavyweight, will compete in an amateur show at Elgin tonight. . . . The first of a series of intercity matches will be offered at C. Y. O. stadium June 1. . . . Boxers representing Dubuque, Ia., will be opponents to a Chicago squad on that date.

The commission has refused to rescind its action of a week ago when Jack Kranz, Gary, Ind., heavyweight, was given a one year suspension for refusing to go through with a scheduled match with Joe Louis at Peoria.

of guests in the grand ballroom. He denied he had been dancing, but had no answer when Galletti pointed out:

How Come, Mario?

"You work five rounds in the ring, play volley ball and go on the road without getting up a sweat and here you are, wet as a ducked pelican, just from standing in the doorway listening to the music. I hope you fool your Chicago opponent more than you do me."

The routine Trainer Castelli has ordered for the next eight days calls for a 6 o'clock alarm each morning, road work at 7:30 o'clock, breakfast at 9 o'clock, luncheon at 1, and a workout in the gymnasium at 5 o'clock.

This workout will not include boxing until late in the week, when a squad of sparring partners, including some of the better known professionals in Chicago, will oppose the Italians. Dinner is served at 7 o'clock, and each fighter is locked in his room at ten. A short walk will be taken after breakfast and luncheon, and the boxers will rest for an hour before each afternoon drill.

Pair for Shadow Boxing.

Yesterday's drill included volley ball, rope skipping, and calisthenics, in addition to shadow boxing. The Italians pair off for shadow boxing and go through a routine not unlike dummy scrimmage as practiced by college football teams. This is believed to be more beneficial than the American method in which a boxer "fights" an imaginary foe.

CLARK'S HAND HURT

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's international Golden Gloves squad, spurred by the arrival of the Italian team, turned on more power yesterday in training activities at the Illinois Athletic club gymnasium. Each of the boxers stepped two rounds in competition in addition to several rounds of bag punching and floor work.

Training is progressing satisfactorily. But next Monday the boys will reach their peak and then ease off waiting for the night they face the best European team ever to invade Chicago.

Joe Bauer, Cleveland light heavyweight, and Andy Scrivani, featherweight champion, are not present as yet. Bauer is working in Cleveland, but has made arrangements to arrive in a few days. Scrivani, it is reported, may have difficulty reducing to 126 pounds. If this is fact, he still might be available in the lightweight division.

Bridges on Job.

Clinton Bridges of Detroit, brilliant Negro 175 pounder, is in line for this assignment barring displacement by Bauer. Al Nettlow, the National A. A. U. featherweight champion and runner-up to Scrivani in Chicago's Tournament of Champions, is prepared to carry on. Nettlow won the title in 1934 and a year ago defeated the 126 pound champion from Poland.

Urso and Johnny Brown, one round.
Jesse Levels and Brown, one round.
Levels and Joyce, one round.
Al Nettlow and Lorenzo Lovings, one round.
Nettlow and Mike Gamier, one round.
Lovings and Gamiere, one round.
Elwood McReynolds and King Wyatt, one round.
Charles Wozniak and Dave Clark, one round.
Lorenzo Pack and Clark, one round.
Pack and Bridges, one round.
Otis Thomas and Bridges, one round.

Dave Clark is a semi-casualty. His hand, injured recently, causes pain when he punches in a certain position. Lovings and Thomas, who were on Dr. William Rothman's list of invalids last week, are in form again. Lovings and Mike Gamiere, lightweight champion, promise a brilliant battle to determine which shall meet Araldo Montanari, Rimini laundryman, the 135 pound champion of Italy.

Plan Rule Discussion.

Within a few days a discussion of the international boxing rules by the coaches and officials of the contending teams will adjust the differences in custom. The weight of the gloves may be changed. In intercity contests, all use 8 ounce gloves. It is definite that no weight allowances will be permitted. The weight classes such as 112, 118, and so on, will be adhered to strictly. In national A. A. U. competition a one-half pound allowance is permitted, while one pound allowance is the custom.

Despite the rain yesterday morning, the Golden Glovers went for a long walk and run, timing their exercise to miss the early morning downpour.

Ticket sales continue at a steady pace, which indicates that all the seats in the Stadium will be sold before May 22. Excellent tickets remain in the $1.10, $1.65, $2.20, and $3.30 sections. These may be purchased at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and in the lobby of Tribune Tower, or from the ticket manager, Room 530, Tribune Tower.

Italians Are Popular.

The thousands who came out Sunday night to greet the Italian champions in Garfield park were evidence that when the foreign lads enter the Stadium ring they will not want for an enthusiastic following. Indeed, it may be that the Chicago team will have fewer rooters, since it is natural to assume that continued success in international bouts will create a feeling Chicago might like to see a team capable of breaking this winning streak. The Italians, on the basis of their record in competition this year, may be the team to accomplish that which France, Germany, Ireland, and Poland failed to do.

BRITISH HOPES FADE AS LITTLE LIMPS AGAIN

LONDON, May 13.—(AP)—Hobbling on a stone bruised heel, Lawson Little, American and British amateur golf champion, put on his carpet slippers again today—and Britishr rooters, remembering a similar prelude to last year's amateur tournament, saw their hopes of winning the title bunkered again.

They recalled how the California invader limped around on a bad heel—the same one bothering him now, incidentally—just before he swept the field at Prestwick last summer.

Little's heel prevented him from playing yesterday in the Prince of Wales tournament at Sandwich, but he's leaving tonight, accompanied by Dan Topping, owner of the Brooklyn professional football Dodgers, for St. Anne's-on-the-Sea, near Liverpool to tune up for the defense of his British crown there beginning May 20.

NORTHWESTERN BEATS MICHIGAN GOLFERS, 15½-8½

Northwestern university's golf team staged its second upset victory in three days when it defeated the University of Michigan, national intercollegiate and Big Ten champion, 15½ to 8½, yesterday, at the Kildeer Country club. It was the first match the Wolverines have lost in four years.

However, Michigan's team played without Chuck Kocsis and Johnny Fischer, who were playing in the national open qualifying round. Bob Brown of Northwestern turned in the lowest score of the day, a 73 for the par 70 course.

Missouri Votes Approval of Mixed Boxing Bouts

Hubbell's Young Brothers Find Going Is Tough

Meeker, Okla., May 13.—(AP)—The path Carl Hubbell traveled to big league pitching glory is proving a hard road for his two young brothers, John and Merritt.

Merritt, who now belongs to the Tulsa Oilers of the Texas league, has not hurled a ball in league competition this year. Illness and a suspension have kept him on the bench.

John, youngest of three brothers, finished his high school term this week and is "sort of looking around" for a pitching job with one of Oklahoma's sand lot teams. John, now 19 years old, pitched nine games during the season for Meeker High, losing three.

While John is just starting out, Merritt has had several years' experience. He went to Tulsa last year from Galveston, Tex., and also has hurled in the Western league and the Western association, appearing in the latter organization with Joplin and Muskogee.

Altogether Merritt has pitched four years in the pro ranks and has yet to advance to the big league mound, where famous brother Carl, appearing in a New York Giant uniform, has made baseball history.

Cleveland Will Hold $3,000 Open Golf Meet

Cleveland, O., May 13.—(AP)—W. H. Way, president of the district P. G. A., announced tonight that arrangements have been completed for a $10,000 open golf tournament to be held here at the Acacia Country club, Aug. 23, 24, and 25. The tournament will be the first money event ever tried in Cleveland.

Dispute U. S. Tax on State College Sport

Des Moines, Ia., May 13.—[Special.]—A test case to determine whether the federal government can legally collect taxes on tickets to football games and other athletic contests of state universities was begun in Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey's court here today.

Lehan T. Ryan, assistant Iowa attorney general, contended that football games at a state university are a legal function of the state of Iowa. As a consequence, he argued, the constitutional ruling which provides that the federal government cannot tax a state government is applicable.

Will Set Precedent.

Judge Dewey's decision is expected to set a precedent for state schools of the nation, since the case is believed to be the first of its kind to reach court.

The University of Iowa in the fall of 1932 collected $4,596.04 in taxes on football tickets, informing purchasers that the money would be refunded in case the university was not held liable to pay it. The bank in which the money is deposited has refused to turn it over to collectors for the internal revenue bureau.

Board Chairman Testifies.

Prof. Clarence M. Updegraff, chairman of the board in control of athletics at the state university, testified in support of Ryan's contention. He said the board in control of athletics is in reality a faculty committee with authority only to supervise the university's athletic program.

E. G. Moon, United States district attorney, asserted that the board is a separate corporation and brought from Updegraff an admission that an incorporation of the board was made in 1931.

Durocher Hits Homer Off Carl Hubbell.

New York, May 13.—(AP)—Joe Moore hit two home runs to keep Carl Hubbell of the Giants even with the Cardinals today, but Leo Durocher, usually a light hitter, also cracked out a homer for the invaders in the tenth to enable St. Louis to win, 3 to 2.

It was Bill Walker's third victory for the Cards in four games this season. The only man who gave him any trouble was Moore, who opened the Giant attack with a drive into the right field stands in the first inning. He hit another in there in his second time at bat.

Hubbell was in trouble early, but steadied in the late innings. Pepper Martin scored in the first on Joe Medwick's infield out after singling, taking second as Ernie Orsatti walked, and third on Frankie Frisch's sacrifice. Martin opened the sixth with his second single, was sacrificed along, took third on an infield out, and scored on a wild pitch.

Boston, Mass., May 13.—(AP)—Silas Johnson pitched the Cincinnati Reds to a 3 to 1 victory over the Boston Braves today in the opening game of their series. The Reds' victory broke a four game losing streak for them. It was the fourth straight defeat for the Braves.

Cincinnati scored the deciding runs in the eighth when Cantwell walked Goodman, who scored on Bottomley's double. Bottomley advanced to third on Urbanski's poor relay to the plate and scored on Lombardi's single.

board in right center. Lopez singled to right, putting Koenecke on second, and when Stainback juggled the ball Koenecke went on to third. Clark grounded out to Cavarretta, Koenecke holding third, as Lopez went to second. Herman made a fine play to capture Boyle's grounder and throw Koenecke out at the plate. Frey walked, filling the bases. Stripp forced Boyle, Jurges to Herman.

Stainback dropped a single into center to start the sixth, but went down with Lindstrom in a double play, the thirty-first executed by the Dodgers this season. Cuccinello threw out Cuyler.

Two Forced at Plate.

In the home fifth Leslie walked on four pitches, the fourth pass to be issued by Lee. Leslie stole second. Cuccinello walked. Taylor doubled to center, scoring Leslie, Cuccinello stopping at third. Koenecke was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Lopez forced Cuccinello at the plate, Jurges to Hartnett, and Clark forced Taylor at the plate, Cavarretta to Hartnett. Lindstrom then climaxed the unusual inning by making a remarkable leaping catch of Boyle's drive to retire the side.

With one down in the seventh Hartnett came through with his third successive hit, a double to left. Gabby went to third while Cuccinello was tossing out Jurges and scored the tying run on Lee's double to left. Lee came home on Galan's double off the left field wall, to make the score 3 to 2 for the Cubs. This was enough for Clark and Leonard was sent forth by Manager Stengel. Herman popped to Frey.

No. 4 for Gabby.

Hartnett socked his fourth straight hit with one out in the ninth, but was out at the plate when he tried to score on Jurges' double off the top of the score board in right center. Jurges went to third on the throw to the plate and died there when Lee popped to Frey.

Lopez was called out on strikes in the home ninth and Phelps, batting for Leonard, grounded out to Cavarretta. Boyle single to center for the sixth hit off Lee. Frey doubled off the right field wall, Boyle stopping at third. Stripp ran the count to three and two and then flied to Cuyler.

5,982 Sweepstakes Books Are Discovered on Liner

New York, May 13.—[Special.]—A searching squad of customs men found 5,982 books of twelve sweepstakes tickets each in five packages aboard the United States liner President Roosevelt yesterday. The packages were discovered on a grating in the engine room. The tickets, issued in Luxemburg, were to be sold here at $1.25 each. The lottery was based on the Croix Rouge race to be run at Paris on Oct. 6. No one on board would admit knowing anything about the packages and no arrests were made.

Carleton Gets Call to Oppose Dodgers Today

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 13.—[Special.]—Tex Carleton, who has beaten Cincinnati and Boston while suffering no losses, is scheduled to oppose the Dodgers tomorrow. Brooklyn will counter with either Ray Benge or Johnny Babich.

About 8,000 noisy Brooklyn fans attended the opener, which is good enough for an opener. There is no more interesting group of ball fans than the Dodger constituency when the Dodgers are doing things. And the Dodgers have been doing things this spring.

Tigers and Rowe Defeat Yankees, 3-0

Detroit, Mich., May 13.—(AP)—Lynwood [Schoolboy] Rowe, five times conqueror of the Yankees last year, resumed his mastery over the New Yorkers today as he shut them out with four singles to give the Detroit Tigers a 3 to 0 victory.

Rowe emerged victorious in his first duel with Vernon [Lefty] Gomez, southpaw ace of the Yankees. Gomez was touched for two runs and six Tiger hits before he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh. Pat Malone finished the game.

WILLMAN NAMED CHAMPION OF INDOOR DRIVERS

Tony Willman, race driver of Milwaukee, yesterday was named indoor champion of the Midwest Auto Racing association for the 1934-'35 season. The outdoor season will open at Soldiers' field next Sunday.

Willman won the title by capturing the point championship for the 26 Chicago meets held at the 124th Field Artillery armory and 35 other meets in other cities of the association's circuit.

MICKENS BEATS SLAUGHTER IN 8 ROUND FIGHT

Newark, N. J., May 13.—(AP)—Gene Mickens, 22 year old colored boxer of Weehawken, punched out an eight round decision over Sammy Slaughter, Terre Haute, Ind., at Laurel Gardens tonight.

A. swimming meet, Coach Dave Armbuster of the Hawkeye swimming team revealed today. If the National A. A. U. championship meet is awarded to Chicago, Iowa is the probable site for the collegiate affair a week later. Officials attempt to select sites in the same region for both meets. The Hawkeye pool is one of the largest in the country.

DYKES PONDERS WHERE AX MUST FALL TOMORROW

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

With leisure moments provided by mud which made activities with the Athletics impossible at Comiskey park again yesterday, Jim Dykes, boss of the White Sox, had time to discover that two names must be lopped off the roster by midnight tomorrow. Incidentally most of the other clubs of the circuit face similar problems, and the American league office here was deluged yesterday with last minute waiver requests by which the eight members hope to get down to the required 23 player maximum before the deadline arrives.

So long as the plan is to pay the remaining $10,000 to the San Francisco Missions for Outfielder Bud Hafey and send the lad to a Class AA minor team for more experience, Dykes must make up his mind on only one other member of his present first place outfit. The unlucky fellow probably will be located among the pitchers.

It May Be Phelps.

Dykes' plan right along has been to get along on nine pitchers, and with the acquisition of Carl [Lefty] Fischer from the Tigers this arrangement is upset for the moment. The Sox leader has about only two choices in the matter. One is Raymond [Babe] Phelps, the ex-National leaguer, purchased from St. Paul of the American association. The other is Joe Vance from the Dallas club. Because of the good work done by Vance as compared to the few appearances of Phelps it seems safe to guess that the latter is due for the bad news.

If Dykes wants to protect himself to the limit by retaining ten pitchers he could shed the veteran Glen Wright, now waiting for a chance to do some utility work. The danger in this move would be the complications which would arise in

BY FRENCH LANE.

A trainer and his horse were ordered off the Aurora race course yesterday and the trainer's license was revoked. The order came from the board of stewards and was signed by Christopher J. FitzGerald, steward representing the Illinois racing commission.

Two other trainers were suspended on charges their horses had been stimulated.

The horse ordered removed from the course was the veteran selling plater Tennywood, winner of two races and second in his only other start at Aurora this spring. The trainer who was virtually ruled off the turf by the action was A. E. Richardson, who prepared Tennywood for his races.

The stewards alleged that Trainer Richardson had deceived the Illinois racing commission in order to get a license to train horses in this state. They observed that while Richardson was racing his horses at Detroit last summer he was suspended for a serious infraction of the rules and later on his license was revoked.

Just Uphold Other Ruling.

The stewards declared they were not in a position to say why he had been ruled off. Richardson's record at Aurora this spring had not been questioned, for old Tennywood appeared to be running his heart out every time he went to the post.

Where Tennywood spent the night after being ordered out of his nice warm stall was somewhat of a mystery. Nearby farmers, some of whom had bet on Tennywood when he ran his two winning races, reported that they had left a light burning in the window of their barns and would have gladly put Tennywood up for the night had he sought lodging.

Act After Saliva Tests.

The stewards suspended the two other trainers because saliva tests at the track had revealed that the horses they sent to the post had been stimulated. The trainers were Mike Olive and Ben Fulwider, the former from Chicago and the latter from New Orleans.

Trainer Olive saddled the horse Redivivus for the fifth race at Aurora on May 6. Redivivus won it easily after a mighty charge down the stretch.

Trainer Fulwider saddled Try It for the first race on May 8. Try It finished nowhere, but he acted "funny," so a saliva test was ordered. The test proved that Try It either had been out whooping it up the night before or had taken an eye opener before he started in this contest.

The folks involved in these rulings are in no sense of the word pillars of the American turf. The race trackers call 'em "gypsies" who just happened in when the Aurora track was badly in need of horses.

Sweep Myth Is Winner.

The daughter of Sweep-Dryad drove to the front soon after the start came and made the pace all the way. Merry Caroline finished second and Sweep Like, the favorite, under a weak ride by Jocky J. Scurlock, wound up in third place. Sweep Myth was at nearly 4 to 1 in the betting and it was the second victory she had scored over a muddy Aurora track.

Long shot players were winning all afternoon and the great climax came in the last race when Lucy, owned by Mrs. Ben Murphy of Chicago, got out in front and stayed there to win by a length from Bob Weidel. It was the first victory Lucy ever scored, and in the mutuels she paid $158.74 for a $2 ticket.

HORSE WATCHES HORSE RACE FILM; WRECKS THEATER

LONDON, May 13.—(AP)—A freak experiment to determine whether a movie racetrack scene would have any effect on a horse nearly wrecked a theater today.

GRANDMA'S GIRL, away in full stride, attained a commanding lead early, continued with good speed to the final sixteenth, where she began faltering, but held on with good courage under a powerful ride. SUN VOTER, closest to the pace throughout, gained steadily in the stretch and was getting to the winner. ENAB raced evenly without mishap. COUNTESS BYE had no excuse. GREAT MEADOWS was far away from the start. INDIANA MAID showed nothing. CAPT. JEFFERS and GOV. FITZ were eased when eliminated.

PHILWEX, suddenly after the start, was brought up on the inside while gaining, responded to strong riding, overhauled VISHNU and won going away. Latter, rushed to the lead early, gave way to ALKALI, rallied gamely, came again and took command, but was unable to withstand the winner. ALKALI weakened after alternating in setting the pace. MOM'S POLLY and TALVORES quit. TADCASTER gave a dull performance and was not persevered with when beaten.

BUNTY ANN, away in stride, raced clear after a quarter, continued with good speed, but was no match for the winner. DONNA M'GEE raced evenly without mishap. Time, :23 4-5, :49 2-5, 1:16 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: George, $36.98 straight, $14.86 place, $7.30 show; Meteoric, $6.60 place, $5.14 show; Pop, $4.00 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 3:38. At post 2 minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; second and third same.

GEORGE, suddenly improved in the going, was on the inside throughout, responded gamely to punishment, wore down the leaders and won drawing clear. METEORIC bettered his position gradually, closed strong, but could not resist the winner. POP dropped back early, closed fast in the stretch, but was no threat. SLIP KNOT weakened after setting the early pace. CHIEF BUNTING showed nothing. LAST STAND failed to keep up in the stretch. PRINCESS PYRE went well for half a mile.

FIFTH RACE—Three-quarters of a mile. Purse $600. Net value to winner, $425; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

SWEEP MYTH had the most speed, rushed to a clear lead early, continued gamely, was subjected to punishment in the closing stages and outfinished MERRY CAROLINE in a strenuous drive. Latter, probably best, was weakly handled during the early racing, closed gamely and was gradually wearing down the winner. SWEEPLIKE raced evenly under weak handling.

SIXTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse $500. Net value to winner, $375; second, $75; third, $35; fourth, $15.

FORCEFUL, under mild pressure maintaining a forward position, responded gamely to strong riding, overhauled SHOTEUR in the stretch and won drawing clear. Latter weakened after setting the early pace. JACK MURPHY improved gradually, closed gamely, but was no threat.

LUCY, sprinted to the front early, continued gamely and, standing the drive gamely, outfinished BOB WEIDEL. Latter, away fast, lacked speed for the early racing, gained fast in the stretch and was getting to the winner. DUSKY LASS could not improve her position under strong riding.

SILVER PRICES RISE; GOLD FLOW TO U. S. SWELLS

New York, May 13.—[Special.]—While silver prices advanced today for the third consecutive time, gold began to flow in larger quantities from France to England, Belgium, and the United States. Sterling exchange rose to a level not attained since the middle of last February and the price of gold also declined to the level of that time. The cross-rate of the franc against sterling left the French unit weaker than at any time since February.

Advances in silver prices amounted to ⅝ cent to 73¾ cents an ounce at New York for foreign mined silver to be used commercially, and in London ¼ penny to 38½ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to 73.43 cents. Silver futures on the Montreal market were strong.

Franc Below Gold Import Rate.

The French franc closed here at 6.58⅞ cents, off ⅛ point and just under the level of 6.59 cents, at which it is profitable to ship gold from France to New York. At the closing price of the franc the dollar was worth $1.0068 against francs, compared with $1.0066 on Saturday. Based on the old parity of the franc the dollar was valued at 59.46 cents, against 59.45 cents on Saturday.

In London the franc closed at 74.06 francs to the pound, compared with 73.81 last Saturday and 73.38 last Wednesday, the strongest quotation last week. Three months' forward francs sold at 85 centimes discount to the pound.

Dutch guilders were off 1 point at 67.72 cents, which is still above the gold import point, and Swiss francs were unchanged at 32.33 cents, or 10 points below the gold import level.

Pound Sterling Gains Cent.

In New York the pound sterling opened at $4.88½, up 2½ cents, but reacted later to close at $4.87¼, a net gain of 1 cent. In London the pound closed at $4.88 5-16 against the dollar, compared with $4.86¼ on Saturday. After maintaining high levels during the forenoon the pound eased on continental sales and the shifting of money to London, due to uncertainty surrounding gold bloc currencies.

Bear covering in dollars was responsible for the easing in pound quotations but the outlook continued uncertain. A statement by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau was awaited with intense interest in London.

Hongkong dollars in the New York market rose in keeping with the price of commercial silver, gaining 40 points at 59.15 cents, while Shanghai dollars dipped 5 points to 41¼ cents. The Canadian dollar was unchanged at parity and Scandinavian currencies were up 3 to 5 points.

The price of gold in London was 142 shilling, 6½ pence a fine ounce, off 9½ pence, and equivalent to $34.68. This is below the mark of $34.71 at which it is profitable to bring gold in quantities from England.

EDUCATION BOARD TO PAY WARANTS AND BONDS TODAY

One million dollars of 1933 educational fund tax warants; $103,000 of 1933 building fund warants and $208,000 in 1933 bonds are called for redemption today by the board of education, James B. McCahey, president of the board, announced yesterday. The educational fund warants include numbers EX-99,000 to EX-125,000 and EL-50,000 to EL-65,000; building fund warants 7,024 to 8,286, and bonds numbered S471 to S750. Interest on the warants and bonds in this call will cease on May 23.

More than $1,500,000 in other tax warants have been recently called for redemption by the board of education, McCahey said.

GOLD RUSH GETS UNDER WAY IN NEW YORK STATE

After three years of preparation, several companies will swing into operation in the Adirondacks within the next fortnight on extra ore which geologists have told them is as valuable as that mined in Canada.

Decision to begin digging came today after Gov. Lehman vetoed a bill which would have required all claim owners to establish the fact by next Dec. 31 that they are operating mines, or surrender their claims.

Most of the claims are in St. Lawrence, Franklin, Herkimer, Hamilton, and Fulton counties, some in areas where mines operated nearly 50 years ago.

N. Y. Exchange Elects Gay but Splits Board

New York, May 13.—[Special.]—Casting their heaviest vote in several decades, members of the New York Stock exchange today elected Charles R. Gay of Whitehouse & Co. to succeed Richard Whitney as president, and chose three independent candidates for places on the governing committee over three regular nominees. Of the 1,375 members, 1,181, or approximately 86 per cent, voted, as compared with the 500 to 600 who customarily cast their ballots.

CHARLES R. GAY.

The successful independents were W. Allston Flagg of Post & Flagg, Robert W. Keelips of Ware and Keelips, and Bertrand L. Taylor Jr. of Taylor and Delany. They received more votes than E. Burd Grubb of Coggeshall and Hicks, a former president of the New York Curb exchange; John W. Hanes of C. D. Barney & Co., and H. Terry Morrison, who makes his office with E. F. Hutton & Co.

Chicagoan Given New Post.

In addition to governors, the exchange elected eight office partners of member firms to be "governing members," a new class of officers created at the suggestion of the federal securities and exchange commission. They were Paul H. Davis of Paul H. Davis & Co., Chicago; Nelson I. Asiel of Asiel Co., Herman B. Baruch of H. Hentz & Co., Robert A. Drysdale of Drysdale & Co., Howland S. Davis of Blake Brothers & Co., Robert V. White of Dyer, Hudson & Co.; Henry R. Winthrop of Winthrop, Mitchell & Co., and Gayer G. Dominick of Dominick and Dominick.

The ten governors chosen for four year terms were: Edward C. Fielder, of Jacquelin & De Coppet; Warren B Nash, of De Coppet & Doremus; Winton G. Rossiter, of Oliphant & Co.; David W. Smyth, of Filor, Bullard & Smyth; Robert L. Scott, of Wagner, Scott & Co.; Alfred E. Thurber, of Rhoades & Co., and Richard Whitney, all regular nominees, and Flagg, Keelips and Taylor, the independents. In addition, William McC. Martin, of A. G. Edwards & Sons, St. Louis, was elected to a one year term.

Climax of Spirited Contest.

Today's election climaxed a spirited contest between liberal and conservative factions of exchange members, the former favoring complete coöperation with the SEC and radical changes in the exchange's operating policies, while the latter insisted upon maintaining the traditions and independence of the exchange.

The election confirms the fact that there is a wide difference of opinion among members regarding the policies which the exchange should adopt under the newly imposed federal regulation.

The election was the first held since the SEC promulgated its eleven point program of stock exchange reforms on Jan. 25. One of these was the adoption of the absentee ballot, rules of the exchange having heretofore required members to cast their votes in person.

FIRST CHICAGO MEMBER

Senior partner of Paul H. Davis & Co. since he founded the brokerage firm in 1916, Davis was named to the "regular" slate of the New York exchange nominating committee after the upheaval against the old régime. He expected to remain in New York the remainder of this week conferring with his fellow members of the new governing body. Davis' selection is regarded as a recognition of the growing financial importance of Chicago and the middle west.

Davis, whose home is in Kenilworth, was educated at Hyde Park High school and the University of Chicago. He was born in Crawfordsville, Ind.

He first entered financial circles in the bond department of the Colonial Trust and Savings bank in 1911, and was with John Burnham & Co. for four years before founding his own firm, the largest odd lot house here. He was Chicago exchange president from 1931 to 1933 and at present is one of its governors.

Davis is a director of Bendix Aviation, Borg-Warner, Evans Products company, Houdaille-Hershey, and Noblitt-Sparks Industries. He also is a trustee of Armour Institute of Technology, Mount Holyoke college, and A Century of Progress.

FRASER PLEADS RETURN TO GOLD; RAPS U. S. POLICY

Head of World Bank Hits Silver Plan.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BASLE, Switzerland, May 13.—World conditions have now become such that a general return to gold would serve to raise instead of lower prices, Leon Fraser holds in his annual report as president of the Bank for International Settlements, which he submitted to the bank's general assembly here this afternoon.

In another big controversy, as to whether such a return to gold should precede, accompany, or follow reduction in trade and debt barriers, he took the position that stabilization should be the first step toward recovery.

"There can be very little hope of a return to freer trade as long as the present monetary uncertainty prevails," Mr. Fraser says. "The cause of the evil must be removed before the evil itself can be overcome."

Raps U. S. Silver Policy.

He stresses that stabilization preceded tarif reductions in postwar recovery. During the year, he reports, the world "disorder has become intensified." Among the reasons he stresses are French and American gold hoarding, the American silver policy, the devaluation of the belga, and, above all, the British pound policy.

"Had there been any genuine demand for silver internationally, as there is for gold, there would have been no need for the adoption of special action in the United States to help silver," he says. "The policy pursued may somewhat reduce the demand on the gold market and may supplement the already high gold reserve cover for the purpose of internal expansion, but there is no evidence to justify a conclusion that such a policy would produce a fundamental change in the monetary position of silver as looked at from the international point of view."

Silver Buying Only Started.

According to the report, the United States has now gone only a fourth of the way she needs to go to bring silver to $1.29 an ounce. The report holds that this is likely to involve her acquiring 1,100,000,000 ounces beyond the 317,000,000 acquired in 1934, which is nearly double the 1934 world production. It stresses that the American policy has resulted in the first real price decline experienced for generations in China.

Mr. Fraser reaches the conclusion that national efforts toward recovery "threaten to become topheavy," while the world disorder has worsened.

"When the internal improvement made in some countries with depreciated currencies is summed up it will be found that the number of unemployed is still twice as high as in 1927 and 1928, when these countries under the régime of the gold standard enjoyed the advantage of stable foreign exchange rates," he says.

Urges Return to Gold.

Fraser asserts the large current gold production each year, setting a new record in the mass of hoarded gold to be released when confidence is restored, the huge nominal increase in monetary gold stock serving as a credit base which has resulted from revaluation, and the present low level of world gold prices all justify the expectation that an increase instead of a decline in gold prices probably would follow stabilization of the principal world currencies that are not already stabilized.

Fraser also shares the view of the economic committee of the league of nations that the world problem is really the problem of an Anglo-Franco-American agreement. He points out that now twenty-three currencies are kept in a stable relation to gold, against the same number tied to sterling.

WEEK'S BUSINESS FAILURES FALL TO LOW LEVEL

New York, May 13.—[Special.]—The total of business failures last week, 218, was the smallest number for a full week since last September, with one exception, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today. The total compared with 244 in the preceding week and 222 in the like 1934 period.

Insolvencies with liabilities of $5,000 and over in each instance dipped to 126 for the week ended May 9, compared with 131 in the previous week and 130 in the corresponding 1934 period.

Swift & Co., world's largest meat packer, yesterday announced its application for listing both its capital stock and the new issue of 3¾ per cent refunding bonds on the New York Stock exchange.

The action is not expected to affect the company's present listing on the Chicago Stock exchange, where it has been a leader in the trading fraternity for many years. This will automatically result in discontinuance of the present listing on the New York Curb exchange.

The move to list one the New York Stock exchange has been under serious consideration for some time. Company officials felt the stock should be given broader privileges by transferring the listing to the "Big Board."

National Market Wanted.

"The New York Stock exchange is a national organization and so is Swift & Co.," said William B. Traynor, treasurer. "That is onr only reason for the listing." G. F. Swift, president, who made the announcement, had no comment to offer, but it is known that the company wishes to obtain the broadest possible market for its stock.

There are 6,000,000 authorized shares, all oustanding except 102,270 held in the treasury, having a $25 par value. The new bond issue amounts to $43,000,000, but $7,000,000 more is authorized for later corporate use, if and when the company decides to use it. The bonds have been sold for delivery about June 15.

The fact that a large proportion of the nearly 50,000 shareholders live in New York and New England was regarded as a factor influencing the new exchange listing, which is expected to be approved without difficulty.

Shift in Trading Seen.

Past experience indicates that a New York listing means shifting a large amount of the trading volume from Chicago, but company officials were unwilling to admit that the stock's position as a Chicago exchange leader will be affected.

The company earned profit of $11,602,000 for the fiscal year ended last Oct. 27 after charges and taxes but before reserves for possible inventory losses.

After inventory reserves of $6,500,000 and $4,267,000 were set up the figures are cut to the earning equivalent of 87 cents a share in 1934 and $1.03 in 1933.

WOMEN ORGANIZING BIG DRIVE TO 'SAVE INVESTMENTS, IDEALS'

New York, May 13.—(AP)—In the belief that 1,000,000 organized women are invincible, the Women Investors in America, Inc., announced today the filing of an application for a state charter to "save sovereignty, capitalism, investments, citizenship, and ideals."

Catherine Curtis, writer and lecturer on economics, has been named national director, and Jean Nelson Penfield, an attorney, was selected general legal counsel.

Objectives of the group, as set forth in the charter, are:

"To provide a non-partisan, non-profit making agency through which the women of the United States may be roused to a realization of the stake they hold in the nation's wealth and prosperity.

"To support legislation which has for its object the protection and preservation of industry.

A drive for 1,000,000 members was opened with a statement by Miss Curtis who said, "few people realize that women own 70 per cent of the wealth of this country; have 80 per cent of the insurance policies now in effect; pay federal, state, and local taxes amounting to millions of dollars yearly, while they have billions of dollars invested in savings banks, trust funds, real estate, etc."

SUPREME COURT ORDER TIGHTENS BANKRUPTCY LAW

Washington, D. C., May 13.—(AP)—The Supreme court today issued new orders to tighten the administration of bankruptcy laws in federal district courts. They included these requirements:

The treasury must be supplied copies of reorganization petitions filed by corporations and must be given 30 days' notice of any court orders in cases affecting tax or other claims of the government.

Commissions of receivers, referees and custodians at all times shall be subject to the approval of the bankruptcy court.

The judge or a designated agent must countersign all checks.

Insurance Man Flails Social Security Plans

Governmental social security dreams were lashed by Col. Charles B. Robbins, manager and general counsel of the American Life Insurance convention, as destructive of self-reliance and of the nation itself. In an address to 1,500 life underwriters yesterday at the Hotel Sherman in a record breaking breakfast gathering to open the Chicago observance of "Life Insurance Week," he asserted life insurance has been and will continue to be the one great workable system of averting poverty and distress.

Assails Visionary Schemes.

"Nowadays," said Col. Robbins, "we hear a great deal about the social security act, Townsend old-age pension plan, the distribution of wealth plan, and other high sounding theories of future protection for old age and dependency in America. Life insurance in itself is the greatest social security in the nation.

"During the last five years the companies have distributed nearly 15 billion dollars to their policy holders, and, if the people of the United States would take advantage of all its benefits, the imaginary dreams of Utopian bliss to be attained through confiscation and distribution of the hard earned workers' dollars which are offered by men like Townsend, would have but short shrift with the American people.

Cites Insurance Benefits.

"Life insurance, while offering all the real benefits claimed for any of these plans, in addition has the inestimable value of providing security through the energy, self-reliance, and individual effort of the people themselves, rather than depending upon the confiscation of the property of some for the benefit of others.

"Make no mistake about this! America has been built through the toil and sacrifice of its people. Destroy personal initiative and self reliance and you have destroyed the nation. Protection of property right is vital; confiscation is ruinous.

"The diversity of the investment of life insurance funds has so interwoven its assets with those of the wealth of the nation that it will survive as long as the nation survives."

Stocks Absorb Profit Taking, Then Move Up

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 13.—[Special.]—After wavering in early dealings and showing irregularity as industrial issues encountered scattered profit taking the stock market took a deep breath today, braced itself, and worked gradually higher during the last half of the session. Although gains for the most part were small, traders were impressed by the ability of the list to absorb selling with only minor corrections and many returned to the buying side after lingering on the sidelines.

Volume was reduced substantially and the buying was selective, being offset by losses in the utilities and a few of the specialties. Total transactions topped the million share mark, however, amounting to 1,124,120 shares.

Consolidated Gas Lower.

Consolidated Gas was hit badly by further talk of municipal power plant competition, and sympathetic selling affected other utility shares. Most of the stocks in the group, including North American and United corporation, were fractionally lower. American Telephone at one point in the session was off more than a point, but made a good recovery to close only fractionally lower. Federal Light and Traction was a strong point, rising more than a point to a new high.

Despite a crop of discouraging news items the rail section of the list managed to do fairly well, Delaware and Hudson picked up almost 2 points, while most of the other carrier issues contrived to hold their own or chalk up minor gains in the face of the declining trend of loadings and first trafic reports for the last week showing another drop from a year ago.

Silver Issues Get Jolt.

The news from Basle that the Bank for International Settlements had condemned the silver policy of the Washington administration rudely jolted silver mining issues. Cerro de Pasco lost a point in rapid fashion and American Smelting did likewise. The preferential shares of the latter company lost 4 points. Dome declined fractionally.

Speculative appeal was imparted to the automobile shares as hopes increased that labor difficulties of the motor industry would soon be settled. General Motors and Chrysler were both up fractions.

Chemicals were led by Air Reduction, which reached the highest price in five years on a five point advance. The sugars reached new high ground on moderate advances. American Crystal Sugar preferred was a feature, rising more than eight points.

Coppers were firm as Kennecott hit a new high for the year. United States Steel and Bethlehem were off fractionally.

EXCHANGE SEAT RISES TO $105,000, NEW HIGH FOR 1935

New York, May 13.—[Special.]—The sale of a New York Stock exchange seat was reported today at $105,000, a new high for the year and up $10,000 from the previous sale. Seat values have risen more than 60 per cent since April 3, when the 15-year low of $65,000 was established.

Today's sale showed an increase of $17,000 from the price quoted Friday. Three sales were reported on Saturday, two at $90,000 and the last at $95,000.

NEW DEAL ADDS 375 MILLIONS TO 10 MINE STOCKS

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Nearly 375 million dollars have been put into the pockets of the owners of ten leading gold producing companies during the last two years, largely as a result of the New Deal's scheme of arbitrarily raising the price of gold from $20.67 to $35 an ounce.

How this has worked may be seen by comparing yesterday's closing prices on the common stocks of the big gold mining companies with the low prices in 1932 before the Roosevelt administration took office.

In some cases the stock appreciation has not been entirely due to the gold scheme, because companies producing both gold and silver have had a double-edged benefit from the New Deal. Not only has the value of their gold output and reserve been enhanced but their silver operations, too, have been rendered vastly more profitable by the administration's program of "pegging" the price of newly mined domestic silver.

Homestake Mining Stock Soars.

A pure reflection of the benefits of the gold price raising scheme, however, is afforded in the case of Homestake Mining, which produces nothing but gold. Rising from a low of $63 per share in 1929, Homestake stock rose moderately during the early depression years when commodities other than gold were declining. In 1932 its low point on the New York Stock exchange was $110 per share.

Then came the New Deal with its own bonanza for the gold miners and Homestake began soaring. At the latest quotation of $405 per share it had risen $295 per share from its 1932 low, a total appreciation of $74,092,200 for the 251,160 outstanding shares.

This sensational rise in stock values has roughly paralleled a rise in profits. Last year Homestake reported earnings of $28.29 per share, compared with $19.94 in 1933 and $9.94 in 1932. Total revenues last year were $16,917,316, against $10,255,272 in 1932.

American Smelting Benefits.

American Smelting and Refining company, another great performer, has benefited from both the gold and

WHEAT PRICES DECLINE AS RAINS DRENCH COUNTRY

Losses in Corn Are Held to Small Fractions.

J. Pluvius assumed command of the Chicago grain markets yesterday with varying results. Heavy rains throughout much of the wheat belt, particularly in the drouth stricken southwest, were considered a bearish influence on wheat futures and prices fell about two cents before recovering slightly near the close.

In the corn pit the moisture was construed as bullish, for precipitation has been so heavy in the corn belt that farmers have been prevented from doing necessary planting and field work. While corn futures were subjected to sympathetic easiness engendered by weak wheat prices and reports that 4½ million bushels of Argentine corn are en route to the United States, losses were held to small fractions. September corn ran counter to the trend and gained ¾ of a cent for the day, the only future to register improvement.

Wheat Loses Cent and Half.

Wheat lost about a cent and a half a bushel, and oats moved fractionally lower. Both rye and barley fell to new low levels for the season, with the former slipping around 2½ cents a bushel and the latter slumping 3 to 4 cents. Barley was offered down a cent at a clip for a while without a trade being made.

Many observers are definitly bearish on the outlook for rye. Weather prospects in the northwest are distinctly encouraging for the crop. Present visible supplies amount to more than 8 million bushels, while the government's latest forecast indicates a crop of 41,000,000, a prospective total of nearly 50 million bushels, against normal requirements of 25 to 35 million bushels annually.

Deliveries Are Burden.

May wheat suffered the additional burden of deliveries, totaling 748,000 bushels. The total open interest in this contract at the close Saturday was 5,362,000 bushels, but a substantial cut was thought to have been brought about by yesterday's liquidation.

Final prices of principal July futures here yesterday follow:

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Week ago.
Wheat	$0.93¾	$0.93¾	$0.96⅝
Corn	.80¼	.80¼	.83¾
Oats	.36⅜	.39½	.39¼
Rye	.52¾	.54⅝	.59⅛
Barley	.56	.59	.58

Liverpool was weak, but failed to reflect the full decline here Saturday. Wheat lost ⅞ to 1⅛ cents. Rotterdam eased ⅝ to 1 cent, Buenos Aires dipped fractionally, and Winnipeg remained closed in observance of Canada's Arbor day.

Wheat Supplies Drop.

Visible supplies of commercial wheat were again sharply reduced last week, dropping 2,749,000 bushels to 35,172,000, the smallest level in nearly eight years. A year ago the total stood at 79,385,000. Corn supplies declined 1,392,000 bushels to 12,193,000; oats decreased 447,000 to 10,630,000, and rye dipped 56,000 to 8,473,000.

Continued buying of Australian wheat and flour by oriental purchasers is sustaining the international wheat market, according to Broomhall —world crop reporting agency. From Aug. 1 last to April 20 China and Japan bought 48,300,000 bushels of foreign wheat, compared with 37,624,000 during the same period a year earlier, a gain of 11 million bushels. In the same period the United States took 9,500,000 bushels, while in the preceding year this country purchased nothing.

REPORT HOLDING COMPANY BILL OUT FOR DEBATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 13.—[Special.]—Senators William H. Dieterich [Dem., Ill.] and Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.] today walked out of an executive session of the senate interstate commerce committee as a protest against the presence of two brain trust lawyers and White House lobbyists for the Wheeler-Rayburn utility company bill.

The committee, without a record vote, favorably reported the bill out with a dispatch that aroused Senator Hastings' indignation. The clerk of the committee tried to get him to return and vote, but he refused, saying he would not vote on a bill he didn't know anything about. Senator Dieterich voted against the bill.

Lawyers Helped Write It.

The lawyers were Ben Cohen and Thomas Corcoran, who helped write this and various other New Deal bills. Both are bright young men from the Harvard law school, popularly known as "Prof. Frankfurter's hot dogs." Cohen is counsel for the power policy committee under Secretary of the Interior Ickes, and Corcoran is counsel for the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Both, however, act as liaison officers between congress and the White House, and there was talk recently of adding Corcoran to the White House secretariat.

"I cannot understand the great hurry in getting this bill out on the floor," said Senator Hastings. "It is of tremendous importance and many members have been compelled to attend other meetings and I doubt whether there are more than seven or eight members of the interstate commerce committee who know what is in this bill that has been reported.

Angered by Presence.

"Another strange thing about it was the fact that while we met for the sole purpose of voting this bill up or down, Mr. Corcoran and Mr. Cohen, as well as others outside of the senate who are interested in having this bill pass, were present, and remained there notwithstanding the protest of Senator Dieterich that it was an executive meeting.

"An effort was made by Senator Dieterich and myself to have the question of the reporting of the bill passed over for a day or two in order that an opportunity to read the measure could be had and it could be ascertained what changes had been made. There were only eight members of the committee present, and, finding that the chairman [Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, Mont.] was insisting on reporting the bill this morning, Senator Dieterich and I walked out of the meeting."

Dieterich Backs Statements.

Senator Dieterich, who usually votes right down the line with the administration, was asked whether Senator Hastings' statement corresponded with his own version of the incident. He replied:

"I may and frequently do disagree with the political views of Senator Hastings, but I would never question his statement of the facts."

The bill provides for strict regulation of utility companies and the abolition of holding companies by 1942. Only minor changes were made in the senate committee exempting certain holding companies within states or geographically integrated companies within several states from the interdiction.

See Public Operation.

Foes of the measure contend that its real purpose is to establish the foundation for government ownership and operation of all utility companies.

The committee inserted a provision in the bill authorizing a study by the Securities Exchange commission of the operation of investment trusts and investment companies holding utility securities. The commission is directed to report the results of its study by Jan. 4, 1936.

No Effect Expected Here from Coast Lumber Strike

The strike of 30,000 lumber workers in the Pacific northwest will have no immediate effect effect in the middle west, the National Lumber Manufacturers association announced yesterday. Although the strike has been in effect for more than three weeks, distributors in this area do not expect a lumber shortage in the near future, association officials stated.

The figure for total appreciation of each company's stock is arrived at by comparing the latest quotation with the 1932 low. Before the gold standard was abandoned the price of gold was fixed by statute at $20.67 an ounce. Since Feb. 1, 1934, the official price has been $35 an ounce.

TWO WESTWOOD FIRMS BOUGHT BY CHICAGO CORP.

Deal for Investment Involves $800,000.

BY AL CHASE.

The Van Buren corporation, a wholly owned subsidiary of the Chicago corporation, yesterday purchased for investment for more than $800,000 cash from the First and Second Westwood corporations all their real estate, mortgages, and contracts involving approximately 300 bungalows located in Westwood, a subdivision of Elmwood Park, originaly developed by Mills & Sons. The Van Buren corporation was organized during 1934 to acquire real estate equities.

The First and Second Westwood corporations were organized in July, 1933, to take over and liquidate the defaulted mortgages on the Westwood properties. These mortgages had been deposited as collateral on note issues of Mills & Sons, which notes went into default in the early part of 1932.

Noteholders Form Committees.

At that time committees were organized to protect the interests of the noteholders and the corporations were formed later to carry through their interests in the ultimate liquidation of the collateral. According to the revenue stamps on the deeds the First Westwood corporation was purchased for $500,000 and the Second Westwood for $300,000. In addition, however, it is understood the mortgages and contracts brought the total considerably above $800,000.

It was reported yesterday the certificate holders of the First and Second Westwood corporations will receive between 55 and 60 cents on the dollar in the final liquidation. The property acquired is bounded by Grand avenue, Belmont avenue, 76th and 80th avenues.

Barrington Estate Changes Hands.

Orville S. Caesar, president of the Greyhound Management corporation and vice president of the Greyhound corporation, who lives at 1120 Lake Shore drive, Evanston, yesterday purchased for an indicated $75,000 the 135 acre Barrington estate of Russell A. Pettengill, president of Pettengill, Inc., industrial engineers. The property is on Brinker road, near the intersection of Algonquin and Dundee roads. Arthur T. McIntosh & Co. were brokers. Frank T. Milchrist was attorney for the seller. A. D. Welton Jr. of Winston, Strawn & Shaw, represented the buyer.

The property consists of a forty acre grove and ninety-five acres of farm land. There is an eighteen room colonial residence built about eleven years ago from three dismantled homes in Kingston, Mass., erected in 1699, 1720, and 1805. The property has stone walls and split rail fencing from Pennsylvania, a swiming pool, a small lake, and 35,000 shrubs and trees, according to Mr. Pettengill, who has gone to New York to live. The new owner is now moving in.

Buys South Wells Building.

Hilda Husar, president of the Illinois Surgical Supply company, yesterday purchased the fee and four story building at 14 South Wells street, 20 by 72, from Walter B. and Adele B. Templeton for an indicated $20,000. The concern occupies the building adjoining at 10 South Wells and the fourth floor of the building just bought. Nathan Shefner was attorney for the buyer. Thomas H. Willis was broker.

NORTH WESTERN ROAD WINS EMPLOYE SAFETY AWARD FOR FIFTH YEAR

Presentation of the class A safety award for employé safety work in 1934 was made last night in New York by the National Safety council to the Chicago and North Western railway. This was the fifth successive year that the road has been given the award.

George B. Vilas, vice president and general manager of the North Western, received the award from John E. Long, president of the National Safety council. Vilas has been responsible for the road's safety program. In accepting the award he lauded the North Western workers for their coöperation in carrying out the road's program, saying it was through the efforts of safety supervisors and workers that the number of accidents to employés was at a minimum.

Among the safety activities which the road has been carrying on in the last five years, he said, were those directed at reducing accidents at grade crossings and at keeping children from playing around railroad tracks. While these types of accidents are largely out of the control of the railroads, Vilas stated that talks in schools and general publicity have been helpful.

While not included in the judging of the contest, 1934 was the sixth successive year in which the North Western has had no passengers killed in a train accident. During this period 124,823,082 passengers have been carried a total of 4,105,737 passenger miles.

MADISON SQUARE BANK TO PAY 3% TO DEPOSITORS

Payment of $31,086, or 3 per cent, to depositors of the Madison Square State bank was authorized yesterday by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett and checks will be mailed today. This is the first return for depositors since the bank closed June 15, 1932, and follows the compromising of $175,000 in debts of the bank during the first three months of the year.

Receiver William L. O'Connell has wiped out $379,309 in preferred and secured claims, but bills of $160,000 still remain. Assets of $831,000 still in the portfolio are valued at little more than those debts, and a sell-out loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation is regarded as the best chance for any further returns. The current payment is made from funds obtained in ordinary liquidation from assets not pledged against the bank's debts.

NEW SETUP FOR PRESSED STEEL CAR CO. OFFERED

New York, May 13.—(AP)—The Bondholders' Protective committee, headed by Jacques Cohen of Barr, Cohen & Co., New York Stock exchange members, has completed a reorganization plan for the Pressed Steel Car company which was forwarded today to the United Sates District court, Western district of Pennsylvania.

It is understood the committee represents nearly 25 per cent of the outstanding $3,000,000 five per cent bonds. It is reported other interests are also working on a plan of reorganization. June 1 is the final date for plans to be submitted.

silver programs. Its stock, worth $5.12 per share at the 1932 bottom price, is now selling for $44.62, an appreciation of $39.50 per share, which means a total appreciation of $72,282,630. American Smelting's total 1934 gold production of 1,476,774 ounces was worth $22,000,000 more than it would have been worth had the price of gold not been raised from $20.67 to $35 an ounce by the New Deal. Its 1934 earnings of $1.63 per share compare with a 1932 loss of $4.96 per share.

Foreign gold mine owners as well as domestic producers have benefited by the manipulation of the price of gold. Lake Shore Mines, Ltd.; with mines in the Kirkland Lake district in Ontario, is worth $59,200,000 more at current market prices than at the low in 1932. Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines, Ltd., in the Porcupine district of northern Ontario, has appreciated $57,810,000 as the Canadian dollar has declined with the United States dollar.

Dome Mines, of Canada, Helped.

Dome Mines, Ltd., whose stock has been a speculative favorite on the New York Stock exchange, is another Canadian gold producer whose stockholders have waxed fat on the rise in the price of gold. Its total shares at present values are worth $32,175,000 more than at 1932 lows. Earnings last year were $4.07, compared with $2.09 in 1932.

McIntyre Porcupine Mines, Ltd., is another Canadian gold company whose stock is listed on the New York Stock exchange. At yesterday's closing quotations it was worth $25,336,000 more than at the low point in 1932. Earnings last year, before depletion, were $4.61 against $2.65 on the same basis in 1932.

Nearly $22,000,000 has been added to the market value of the stock of American Metal Company, Ltd., with mining interests in the United States, Cuba, Mexico and Africa. This company is an important copper producer but its operations in copper would have justified little of this tremendous increase in the price of the stock.

Alaska Juneau Shares Rise.

Alaska Juneau Gold Mining company, one of the largest domestic gold producers, holds 150 claims in the Juneau district in Alaska. Its stock today is worth $14,437,000 more than at the 1932 bottom. Earnings last year were $1.28 per share, compared with 57 cents per share in 1932.

Shares of Siscoe Gold Mines, Ltd., and Teck-Hughes Gold Mines, Ltd., two other Canadian concerns, have appreciated $11,037,000 and $5,864,000, respectively. The latter is listed on the New Yorw Curb exchange.

The New Dealers began to raise the price of gold officially on Oct. 25, 1933, when President Roosevelt announced that the Reconstruction Finance corporation was prepared to buy newly mined gold. Between Oct. 25 and Dec. 18, 1933, the price quoted by the corporation was gradually increased from $31.36 to $34.06 an ounce.

The latter price was maintained until Jan. 16, 1934. On Feb. 1, 1934, it was raised to $35 an ounce, where it has since remained.

REORGANIZATION ASKED FOR TWO LOOP BUILDINGS

Involuntary petitions for reorganization under section 77B of the bankruptcy law were filed in federal court here yesterday against the State and Quincy Building corporation and the Adams-Franklin Building corporation.

BUTTER FUTURES FALL TO LOW LEVELS FOR SEASON; EGGS DECLINE

New low levels for the season on butter futures were established yesterday with the November delivery dropping ½ cent per pound from Saturday's finish to 26⅝ cents on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. A wave of hedging pressure and liquidation swelled the total sales to 153 cars, the largest this year. The closed was at 26¾ cents, or ⅝ cent lower.

Favorable weather for the development of pastures and prospects of a marked increase in production of butter had considerable influence on sentiment, which has become decidedly bearish lately. Cash markets were quoted lower, prices here being off ¼ to 4 cent.

Egg futures were ⅛ to ¼ cent per dozen lower, with October closing at 25⅞ cents. Cheese declined ¼ cent per pound in sympathy with butter. Sales of egg futures aggregated 84 cars and cheese 3 cars. Prices follow:

PUSH ON DESPITE POLITICS, ARMOUR TELLS BUSINESS

While there are vital issues at stake which require every business man to be somewhat Washington-minded, business for too long a time has had both eyes fixed on the New Dealers and has not paid enough attention to its own affairs, Laurance Armour, president of the American National bank, said yesterday.

"Business and finance are the backbone of the United States and its growth," said Mr. Armour. "They must go on, though administrations, whether Democratic or Republican, come and go in turn. But when laws are proposed which experience and common sense show to be detrimental or dangerous, business not only has every right to object but has a duty to stand up and assert itself.

"It is too bad more business men have not done so before now," he said, referring to the recent actions of the oil industry and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"It seems to me we have been in a haze for two years, silently and fearfully watching Washington."

Criticism now, however, must be both constructive and logical, dictated by business experience which is not to be taken lightly by any administration, Mr. Armour counseled.

"General business conditions are better than public sentiment, and inflation need not be imminent if existing money is kept in a current state," he continued. "If you keep the wheels of industry turning fast enough, you will run away from inflation; if not, you will run into it.

"In spite of what is going on in Washington, many industries are moving forward. Progressive executives are paying less attention to political conditions, concentrating on doing the best they can—and are showing excellent results."

U. S. RURAL POWER UNIT HOLDS CLUB OVER UTILITIES

Aid Plan or Face Federal Competition, It Says.

Washington, D. C., May 13.—(AP)—The rural electrification administration today invited private power systems to coöperate in its program, but in the same gesture dangled over their heads, if they did not coöperate, the agency's authority to produce, transmit, and sell power.

The word was passed out at a press conference of the chief of the newly created administration, Morris L. Cooke, who today was nominated to the senate by President Roosevelt as administrator for the agency.

Bill Plugs Loophole.

The announcement came at about the same time a bill was going into the senate aimed at plugging a loophole the Supreme court created in the administration power program when it declared Parker dam on the Arizona-Colorado boundary was not authorized by law. By popular interpretation, the fate of some of the other administration projects, including Grand Coulee dam, was linked to that of Parker dam. Today's bill introduced by Senator Johnson [Rep., Cal.] would authorize the President to construct Parker dam.

Cooke said that if the private—and existing public power systems—did not coöperate by offering rates considered fair by the administration, the "government is ready" to make use of wide powers granted under the executive order establishing the agency. These powers include the right to "acquire by purchase or the power of eminent domain, any real property or interest therein." Whether this phrase covered acquisition of existing generation, transmission and distribution systems was not explained at the time.

Sinks to U. S. Projects.

Cooke said the rural electrification program would connect with existing federal hydroelectric projects, such as TVA, Boulder dam, Grand Coulee and Bonneville.

The program, he said, involves a plan for financing the wiring of homes and purchasing of all necessary appliances.

"Essentially rural electrification is a local matter," Cooke said. "The only place for the federal government in it is leadership and supervision."

Asked how an individual farmer could obtain a place in his program, Cooke said the farmer must find out how many miles of line will be needed, what the rates are, and how much power he can use.

"Then they must go to the nearest utility or power source; if they can't get this done we will help them," he said.

Cooke said private utilities—which he estimated now control 95 per cent of the power industries—have been busy on rural electrification since "the President's plans were announced." They have surveyed rural electrification in 75 per cent of the country and many projects are ready to start, he said.

ITALY PLANS COUPON MONEY SYSTEM TO AID GAIN IN TOURIST TRADE

ROME, May 13.—(AP)—A vast system of coupons—which in effect will give Italy registered lire similar to Germany's registered marks—will become operative shortly, it was learned today. For the foreign visitor the system will practically eliminate the disadvantage at which he finds himself in Italy owing to the fall of the dollar and pound.

Plans for the coupons were worked out by the tourists' division of Count Galeazzo Ciano, undersecretariat of press propaganda, and were designed to bring to Italy tourists at present deterred by the high cost of living in this country. The coupons will be issued in America through the Italian government tourist agency and through American tourist agencies as well. They will also be issued in almost all other countries of the world.

They will cover the tourist's every expense of living and traveling in Italy, effecting 30 to 40 per cent reduction in the expense of hotels, railroads, other means of transportation, and the like.

For tourists who bring their own automobiles the coupons will be valid for the purchase of gasoline at about 40 per cent off the present price, 65 cents a gallon. While the government stands to lose some of its present huge tax income from this source, it is hoped enough tourists will be brought to Italy to make up the deficiency. Government officials who are working out details of the system are now in the final stages of writing contracts with hotels, some 1,200 of which have been designated for participation.

EXPAND RETAIL ADVERTISING, CHICAGO AN URGES

The retailer might well take a cue from the national advertiser in expanding his advertising program, Joseph Krause, advertising manager of A. Stein & Co., said yesterday on returning from the White Sulphur Springs convention of the Association of National Advertisers, of which he is a director.

Records of national advertisers as a result of last year's doubling of 1933 appropriations have led them to plan still further expansion this year. Krause recommended consistent and persistent programs, including newspapers "which we have found indispensable."

One of the evidences of better business, said Krause, is that men are dressing better than in recent years when "a shiny pair of pants was a badge of distinction." This denotes more confidence as well as better present conditions.

Hicks, publicity director of Byllesby Engineering and Management corporation, yesterday was elected president of the Chicago alumni chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary journalistic fraternity, at the annual meeting in the Palmer house. Other officers are: Vice president, Elmo Scott Watson, editor of Publishers' Auxiliary; secretary, Conger Reynolds, publicity director of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, and treasurer, Floyd Arpan, editor of the Northwestern University Alumni News.

TWO ROADS HERE STUDY HIGH SPEED SUBURBAN TRAINS

Burlington, No. Western Watch New Haven Trial.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Two Chicago lines—the North Western and Burlington—are giving consideration to the use of lightweight trains with power units at each end for the transportation of passengers over short distances, it was learned yesterday.

Railroad officials are awaiting with interest the new streamlined train which the New Haven shortly will place in service between Boston and Providence, R. I. The train will travel the 44 miles between the two cities in 44 minutes, making one intermediate stop.

The high initial cost of a lightweight train and the possibility of its being able to draw enough revenue to pay for itself were given as reasons for proceeding with caution in the instalation of such equipment here. The New Haven train cost approximately $250,000.

Budd Gives Views.

Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington, said he has been giving considerable thought to lightweight trains for his line's service to west suburbs.

"I do not feel that we have as yet reached a solution to our own problem," Budd said. "A lightweight train requires a substantial investment and if it is to produce a profit it must be kept running all day long. Our heaviest passenger loads are in the morning and evening and present equipment has proved very satisfactory. There are off periods during the rest of the day when we might get fair crowds on the smaller light train, but only in one direction."

R. Thomson, passenger trafic manager of the North Western, said his road has given considerable thought to a shuttle service similar to that which the New Haven will have.

"Of course a situation has been created by the Burlington's decision to run a twice daily high speed service to the Twin Cities," Mr. Thomson said, "but I cannot say now what our road will do."

Await Result of Trial.

Shortly after the "400" was placed in service in January there was discussion of a plan to have two trains, but it was decided to wait and see how much business would be available after the Burlington and Milwaukee road were in the field with high speed trains also.

While admitting that the Burlington road's twin Zephyrs have cut into the business of the North Western's "400" to some extent, Thomson said operation of the "400" between Chicago and the Twin Cities continues to be a highly profitable operation.

At the Rock Island offices yesterday it was said cost is an important factor to the road which is now having financial troubles. Further, it was stated that the volume of business, with its peaks in the morning and evening and light travel at other times, is not sufficiently large during the off periods to make it appear likely that an expensive lightweight train would pay.

PROOF THAT boot straps STILL LIFT

● Surely no one has missed the point that the automobile industry has provided its own stimulation by making tomorrow's cars today.

It has lifted itself by its own bootstraps!

Two of the bootstraps seized by automobile engineers have to do with two fundamental facts about Aluminum.

Bootstrap 1 is the High Heat Conductivity of aluminum cylinder heads. The serious heating problems created by higher compressions and higher speeds are met with one of the natural characteristics of this metal. Aluminum Cylinder Heads distribute the heat many times faster. The added power and better fuel economy make you and your neighbor want to buy new cars.

Bootstrap 2 is the Lightness of aluminum pistons. The speeds demanded today make the pistons in the average car travel up and down 3100 or more times a minute. Less weight in each piston means, among other important things, that bearings last longer. There is also obtained a far more brilliant performance. Aluminum Pistons are standard in all but a very few cars.

Two fundamentals of Aluminum have thus been engineered into today's automobiles to make the cars perform better and therefore sell better.

Such men find in our organization an accumulation of know-how that gets right down to cases, because it is derived from fifty years of getting Aluminum ready to do these fundamental things economically. ALUMINUM COMPANY OF AMERICA, PITTSBURGH, PENNSYLVANIA.

Relatively unimportant changes were shown in weekly banking figures issued yesterday, except for the continued flight of deposits from New York banks following the halt of interest payments on demand deposits of 181 days or less, which was disclosed in the New York statement last Thursday.

Gross deposits of reserve member banks in ninety-one cities of country fell 215 million dollars for the week, with New York and Chicago reporting respective declines of 216 and 13 millions each, offset partially by a gain of 14 millions among the remaining banks.

Individual deposits rose 15 millions, the 89 cities contributing a gain of 64 millions, New York a drop of 51 millions, and Chicago a gain of 2 millions. Interbank deposits dropped 159 millions, while the government drew down 71 millions of its war loan account.

Loans and Investments Fall.

Loans and investments fell 171 million dollars, of which a decrease of 76 millions in loans to brokers represented the largest item. Other collateralized advances dropped 21 millions. Business credit was contracted 19 millions and commercial acceptances sagged 1 million. Holdings of government bonds declined 28 millions, while the portfolio of other than government obligations eased 25 millions.

Loans and investments of banks in the 89 cities—Chicago and New York excluded—gained 18 millions. Brokers' loans improved 23 millions, other security advances dropped 12 millions, commercial acceptances gained 1 million, business loans dropped 2 millions, holdings of federal securities gained 19 millions, and other security holdings rose 7 millions.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Mass., May 13.—Domestic wool quotations in Boston are much firmer than a week ago. Sales to mills have been unusually heavy in the last two weeks and this increased movement has changed the situation from a buyers' to a sellers' market. Average prices have strengthened further on late sales last week as offerings at prices on low sides of ranges were paid more freely.

New York, May 13.—[Special.]—Interest in secondary railroad obligations and a sizeable rally in United States government bonds featured activity on the listed bond market today. Volume continued dull, however, with transfers aggregating $11,685,000, par value, against $13,237,000 Friday. Turnover in governments accounted for $1,640,000.

The entire government section moved forward following announcement that 80 per cent of the First Liberty loans had been exchanged for bonds and notes. Prices closed 3 to 13 thirty-seconds higher net.

Indirect Obligations Rise.

The Liberties were dull, but indirect obligations followed the general trend. Home Loan 4s rose 7-32ds to 101.30, while Federal Farm Mortgages 3¼s gained an equal amount to 103.28.

Most favorite railroad bonds gave a good performance. Baltimore and Ohio 6s were 2 points higher at 72, New York, Ontario and Western 4s were 1½ better at 44 and Pere Marquette 5s advanced 1½ at 86. Others moving higher included obligations of the New York Central, Southern Pacific, Erie and St. Paul, Delaware and Hudson 4s declined a fraction.

Utilities Easier.

Three issues of International Telephone bonds were offered in large volume at concessions of 1 to 1½ points but Postal Telegraph 5s were not affected and closed unchanged at 31. Other general utility loans easing a trifle included obligations of American Water Works, Laclede Gas, North American Edison, and Montana Power. Higher prices were paid for Columbia Gas 5s, Federal Light and Traction 5s and Western Union 4½s.

The decline of 2 to 3¾ points in Polish government bonds was attributed to the death of the country's dictator over the week-end. Denmark 4½s were offered in large volume and closed 2¼ points lower at 89¾. Two other issues were not greatly affected. There was little change among other foreign loans.

Utah Gas and Coke 5s.

Investors' Guide: Please advise whether Utah Gas and Coke company is in good condition and has money to redeem its 5 per cent bonds due Jan. 1, 1936.—H. M.

Answer: The shift to natural gas from manufactured gas by Utah Gas and Coke company in 1929 resulted in a change from profitable to unprofitable operations for this supplier of gas in Salt Lake City, Utah. Gross even in 1933 was well ahead of 1928, but in not one of the four years through 1933 was the company able to earn a profit even before fixed charges, while in 1928 fixed charges were earned 1.11 times.

These heavy losses have boosted the profit and loss deficit to $1,760,000 [Dec. 31, 1933]. At the close of last year current assets were $674,000 and current liabilities were $114,000. The company still owed $5,674,000 to the parent company, Western Public Service corporation, and affiliates for sums advanced to change from distributing artificial gas to natural gas, as well as for sums advanced for the company's payments for interest.

There are outstanding $1,961,000 first 5s and 8s, due Jan. 1, 1936. On Sept. 15, 1934, the management said that it would be unable to borrow additional funds for bond payments unless the bonds were extended to Jan. 1, 1946.

The Railroad Dollar.

Investors' Guide: Please advise if possible what percentage of railroad gross income is paid out for taxes, also labor, fuel, etc. It is my understanding that 43 per cent of gross is paid for taxes.—L. B.

Answer: The average dollar of operating revenues received by class 1 railways was spent as follows in 1933: For labor, 43.2 cents; locomotive fuel, 5.1 cents; materials and supplies, 16½ cents; loss and damage, injuries to persons, insurance, depreciation, and retirements, 7.9 cents; for taxes, 8.1 cents, and for equipment and joint facility rentals, 3.9 cents.

The balance spread over the entire amount invested in railway properties yielded a return of 1.83 per cent.

Allied Oil Corporation.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly advise me the present market value of Allied Oil corporation stock?—Mrs. M. M. E.

Answer: We have the following report on Allied Oil corporation:

"On Jan. 20, 1928, the Delaware charter was forfeited for nonpayment of taxes. Stock worthless."

MEAT SLAUGHTER FALLS IN APRIL AS STOCKS DWINDLE

Kill Smallest for Month in 25 Years.

While meat reserve supplies in cold storage houses in the country were falling at the rate of about 3,150,000 pounds a day during April, the slaughter of hogs fell to the lowest level for 25 years, according to reports made by federal agencies yesterday. Slaughter of cattle, calves, sheep and lambs was larger than expected.

Meat supplies in cold storage houses dropped 94,565,000 pounds in April. On May 1 they stood at 713,031,000 pounds, exclusive of lard, a decrease of 246,065,000 pounds from the total on Jan. 1, 1935. With the exception of May, 1933, the country had less meat in store than on any May 1 since before the war. Meat holdings May 1 frequently have been over a billion pounds.

Although imports of foreign meat products are said to be increasing at the fastest rate on record, the movement from storage of domestic supplies is increasing rapidly. During March reserve supplies declined at a rate of a little over 2,000,000 pounds daily, against 1,500,000 pounds daily in February.

Holdings of Beef Lower.

Beef holdings May 1 dropped to 77,848,000 pounds, compared with 98,550,000 April 1 and 140,940,000 pounds Jan. 1. These stocks are exclusive of beef held by the government for relief purposes. May 1 beef holdings a year ago totaled 46,590,000 while the five year average is 50,449,000 pounds. Several years ago beef holdings at this time of the year were often over 100,000,000 pounds.

Pork stocks May 1 totaled 565,699,000 pounds, a decrease of 61,647,000 pounds from the May 1 total and a drop of 121,864,000 pounds from Jan. 1. The May 1 total was the lowest since before the war and showed a decline of 167,248,000 pounds from the five year average for that date.

Lamb in store May 1 at 3,030,000 pounds, compared with 3,218,000 pounds a month earlier, 4,560,000 pounds at the opening of the year and 1,281,000 pounds a year ago.

Decline in Meat Processed.

During April the packing industry put away only 191,936,000 pounds of meat in cure and in the freezer, compared with 252,789,000 pounds a year ago and a five year average of 230,036,000 pounds for that period.

While meat in storage declined, poultry stocks increased. May 1 holdings of poultry were 61,721,000 pounds against 83,713,000 pounds April 1; 49,212,000 pounds a year ago and a five year average of 54,845,000 pounds.

Only 2,177,436 hogs were killed in plants under federal inspection during April, the smallest April slaughter since 1910. This compared with 3,411,393 slaughtered a year ago and an April record of 4,179,438 in April, 1923.

Slaughter for the first four months of this year at 9,791,621 hogs compares with 15,274,776 the first third of last year.

Full Effect of AAA Not Felt.

The slaughtering of other live stock does not show the full effects of the killing of animals by the AAA last year. Slaughtering of cattle, calves, and sheep, in fact, is running larger than had been expected. The cattle slaughter for the last month aggregated 683,265 head, the second smallest for any month since April, 1933, but it has been exceeded only twice in April since 1927. The slaughter a year ago was 748,180.

In the first four months of this year 9,791,621 cattle were slaughtered in the United States, only 74,352 less than a year ago, which was the largest kill for that period since 1918.

Following are shown the numbers of animals slaughtered in packing houses under federal meat inspection the first four months of 1935 and comparative totals in other years:

SUGAR

NEW YORK, May 13.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today with spots quoted at 3.25c per lb. Shipment was held from 3.45@3.50c, depending upon position. Only one small sale was confirmed, that being 5,000 bags of Cubas for late June shipment to a southern refiner at 3.44c delivered. Local refiners showed no interest in June or July position above 3.40c. Futures were irregular in quiet trading. Final prices were at the lowest and 2 to 3 points down from the previous close in the No. 3 contract and 3 to 4 points lower in the No. 1. Sales were 10,600 tons in the No. 3 and 4,900 in the No. 1.

Raw sugar prices in cents per pound:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
July	2.50	2.50	2.47	2.47	2.50
September	2.57	2.57	2.54	2.54	2.58
December	2.65	2.65	2.62	2.62	2.66

HOGS, LAMBS RISE ON BRISK DEMAND, LIGHT RECEIPTS

Bolstered by light receipts and brisk competition, the market for hogs and lambs jumped sharply higher here yesterday. At the close prices were close to 1935 highs established earlier in the year. Encouraging reports from the wholesale markets for dressed lamb and pork stimulated stronger local demand.

Both kinds of meats are steady to $2 above prices prevailing a week ago. Live lambs brought 25 cents to 50 cents more than at the close of last week and showed gains of $1 compared with the year's low of eleven days ago. Best wooled lambs advanced to a high of $9.10, while freshly shorn lambs of choice quality sold as high as $8.40, with others bringing $8 to $8.15.

In the new crop two carloads of California springers averaging 85 pounds, and several lots of natives ranged upwards to $9.25, or 25 cents higher than at the close of last week. Declines in old sheep were checked.

Hog receipts at 12,000 were the second smallest for Monday in seven weeks. Prices rose 10 to 20 cents, and in many instances gains of 25 cents were registered. Numerous sales of selected 200 to 230 pound butchers reached the $11.60 top, processing tax included.

Cheaper grades of steers and butcher stock were strong to higher again yesterday when buyers continued their efforts to hold down live costs because of evidence of growing opposition to high priced beef. Better grades of stock and some of the in-between classes displayed a weak to lower undertone.

TRADE IN LARD IS SLOW; PRICES CLOSE IRREGULAR

Trade in provisions yesterday was relatively slow, weakness in grains and easiness in cotton seed oil offsetting strength in hogs and prices averaged slightly lower on the active months. Warehouse interests absorbed the offerings on the decline and there was a moderate rally later with the close 2¼ cents higher to 2½ cents lower, the former on May. Bellies were nominally unchanged. Cash and lard closed at $12.92; loose, $12.90; leaf, $13, and bellies at $16.75 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds follow:

Note—Above prices include processing tax of $2.47 per 100 pounds on lard and $2.62 per 100 pounds on bellies processed since March, 1934. This tax is rebated on products exported, but varies according to the amount, due to the fact that the tax was gradually increased.

BUSINESS PERSONALS.

THIS CONCERNS YOU AND YOUR HUSBAND AND SHOULD LEAD TO A CONTINUOUSLY GOOD INCOME FOR YOUR FAMILY!

Has your husband had some business experience? Is he between 25 and 50 years old? Is his old business no longer available to him? Would you like to see him in a business that will mean his continuous success without any investment on his part or yours? Would you like to be able to help him in many ways to greater success in this business?

This is the largest and most substantial organization in its electrical unit field, and today it is paying large and growing commission checks in order to insure the success and happiness of households.

If you will turn to "Male Help Wanted—Miscellaneous"—in this issue of The Tribune you will find a good sized ad headed: "Married Men Living West or North Who Are Between 25 and 50 and Can Furnish References." Read this at once, because you would call at 11 or 2 today, Tuesday, May 14, with your husband at Suite 1303-04 at 20 E. Jackson-blvd., and you may have no one moment to lose to come with him to this very important interview that may mean the turning point in your lives.
